BY MRS. L. M. LEE
TRIBUTE TO CHILDHOOD
When God made the child, he began early in the morning. He watched the golden hues of rising day, chasing away the darkness, and chose the azure of opening heavens for the color of childhood eyes, the crimson of the cloud to point its cheeks, and the gold of the morning for its flowing tresses.

He listened to the songs of the birds as they sang and warbled and whispered, and string childhood's harp now soft and low and now sweet and strong.

He saw little lambs among the flocks romp and play and skip He put play into a child's heart, He put into the child, He sent it out to bring joy into the home, laughter on the green and gladness everywhere.

He sent it to the home, and said to the parents, "Nourish and bring up this child for me."

He sent it to the church and said "Teach it my Love and Laws."

INTEGRATION DELAYED

WAUKEGAN, Ill. -- A court appeal filed by school officials appears to have prevented schools from being integrated this fall. But the school board appealed to the state Supreme Court in an effort to test the validity of the Armstrong Act, which requires school systems to promote integration.
