AME CHURCH

Mrs. Blakely to the organizational meeting were the Rev. and Mrs. Fredrick H. Talbot, Georgetown, Guyana. Following a delicious dinner, the official establishment of the new church was perfected and Rev. Witter assigned as pastor of the same.
The first public service of the newly established congregation was held on Tuesday night, August 23, at which time Bishop and Mrs. Blakey were accompanied by Mrs. Mamie Aikens, Detroit, conn. director Y.P.D., Women's Missionary Society; the Revs. Robert H. Alexander, Avery Chapel AME church, Oklahoma City; and Frederick and Mrs. H. Talbot, St. Peter's AME church, Georgetown, Guyana; Evangelist Margaret I. Miles, Philadelphia; Mrs. Anna Waters, wife of the Rev. J. W. Waters, Germantown, Pa., AME General Board member and director, Y.P.D. Women's Missionary Society, Philadelphia conference; Mrs. Agnes Wharton, wife of the Rev. Wesley Wharton, East St. Louis, (Ill.) Conference.

As the news of the new church circled in London, two traveling elders of the A. M. E. church residing in London contacted Bishop Blakey, namely, the Rev. Moses Sephula and E. S. Jason, and expressed their approval of and great joy in the establishment of the church, and pledged their support to help spread the denomination in the many areas where AME members are now living in England.

the Pilot Freight Carriers, Inc. and the Central Motor Lines, Inc. Both the defendant companies are trucking firms operating from Charlotte, and are engaged in inter-state commerce.
The Legal Defense Fund attorneys, in their U. S. District Court complaints, allege that the defendant companies in both the cases refused to consider the plaintiff's application for employment. The Negro plaintiffs in the two separate cases are Charles W. Walker, and Marcus Black, respectively.

EGG-THROWERS

in the stomach, by what he determined later, was an egg, Carson was hit on the right leg by another egg, while at least two others splattered against a telephone post and between the two men, on the wall of the store. The wagon then sped off.

Carson, without saying a word suddenly jumped into his automobile, parked just off Lenoir, at S. Swain, and gave chase. He managed to catch the other auto in the Lincoln Court section. He hauled one of the suspects out of the back seat, placed him in his (Carson's) car and brought him back to the store. Meanwhile, a white representative of an exterminating company had witnessed the incident, and followed Mr. Carson back to the store. It was this unidentified person who suggested to both Carson and Ligon that the boy be made to clean up the splattered "mess."

Mr. Ligon got a small tub and the youth began to scrubup. In a short while, Mr. Carson spotted another of the station wagon "gang" walking across the street, near Crosby-Garfield Elementary School. When the youth saw Carson, he started running, but was caught by the fleet-footed ex-quarterback in the Chavis Heights area. He, too, was brought back to the scene of the crime, where Mr. Ligon introduced still another tub. Both youths were then put to work.

After they had cleaned up reasonable well, the police department was summoned and Officers R. B. Callahan and J. M. Purdue answered the call at 9:20 p.m. They surveyed the situation and Mr. Carson accompanied the officers and two of the teenagers to police headquarters, where two warrants were signed by Carson against Miss Susan Clay Gosnell, 16, of 3916 Greenleaf St., and Robert Martin Cahill, 3rd 18, of 2335 Lyon Street.

They were both arrested and charged with assault by throwing eggs.
Both defendants were cited to City Court on Friday, Sept. 16, at 2 p.m., where their cases will be heard by City Court Judge S. Pretlow Winborne. The store is located at the northeast corner of E. Lenoir at S. Swain Street.

Mr. Carson was also president of the 1955-1956 Ligon student body.

EXTERMINATOR

to rub my back and finally moved his hands around and started feeling my breasts. I knocked his hands from my breasts. I had been taught about men like him and I was afraid, but I couldn't let him know it." Cheryl said.
"I told him, you had better leave here now. He did and that's when I called my mother. (Mrs. Jesse Lee Grissom). She was at our store, White Front Grocery, on Oakwood Avenue, and I told her what the man did to me."
Mrs. Grissom first called Orkin and explained to the manager what had happened. He assured her he would meet both her and her husband at 4:30 p.m. that day.

Then she called her husband, Mr. Jesse L. Grissom, who teaches bricklaying at W. M. Cooper High School, Clayton, and asked him to be sure to be home by 4:30, but did not tell him just what had happened.
Mr. Grissom, who stands over six feet and weighs well over 200 pounds, informed the writer that, "It was best that I was out of town at the time, all things being considered."

Promptly at 4:30 p.m., Mr. Paul Blair, Orkin manager, met the Grissoms and expressed his regret at the actions of one of his men. He said he had no idea that "Fennington was that kind of man when I hired him."
Shortly after Blair left, Mr. Grissom went to police headquarters and signed a warrant, charging Fennington with assault on a minor child. Fennington was arrested and placed under a bond of $100.
He pleaded not guilty before presiding judge William R. Pierce when the case was called for trial in Wednesday, August 31. Kent Burns, Raleigh attorney, represented the defendant.

After hearing evidence in the case, the court found the defendant guilty as charged in the warrant.
Fennington was sentenced to six months in jail and assigned to work under the direction of the State Prison Department. This sentence was suspended on the conditions that he remain of good behavior for one year, not violate any state laws, and pay a fine of $50 and the $9 costs of court.
Through his attorney, Pennington appealed the case to Wake Superior Court and bond was set at $500.

What Can Mary Buy For A Penny

A piece of gum or candy or a balloon, perhaps. Nowadays there are not many items a penny-conscious little girl can buy for one cent.

While Mary thinks in terms of pennies, her Mother's thoughts are about dollars. There is one area, however, where Mom may very well think in terms of pennies, too.

For example, a penny buys enough electricity to operate television for two hours, a radio or sewing machine for seven hours, a vacuum cleaner for one hour or a 100-watt lamp for more than five hours.

Mary's penny spent for electricity today buys more than half again as much electric service as a penny did 25 years ago when her Mom was a little girl. In Carolina she gets more electricity for a penny than most people who live other places in the United States. The average price which CP&L customers pay for electricity they use in their homes is about 22 percent below the national average.
