Rev. Celia Hayes' 10th Anniversary Is Success

The 10th Evangelistic anniversary for the Rev. Mrs. Celia Hayes was held from Sept. 5, through Sept. 11, at Providence Holy Church, on the corner of Bledsoe Ave. and S. Bloodworth St.
On Monday night, Rev. L. L. Wilson, pastor of the church, delivered the message text: Psalms 31:15 and Jeremiah 51:20. Subject: "Loving Obedience." "When there is loving obedience, there is joy in our hearts. We do not worry about our destination it is in God's hand," said the minister.
Tuesday's sermon was delivered by Rev. Mary Cotton, of Lincoln Park Holy Church. Her text was from St. Matt. 25. She chose for a subject, "Get Your Oil Now." The speaker said the wise man always carries extra oil in his vessel because it is a necessity to accomplish the work of God.
The speaker for Wednesday night was Rev. Harris, Garner. His text was from St. John 16. He used the words, "Play the Field," for a subject. Jesus was getting ready to make his departure so he commissioned his disciples to preach the gospel to all mankind.
On Thursday night, Rev. Mary Cotton returned and brought another soul stirring message. Text was from St. Luke, 19:1

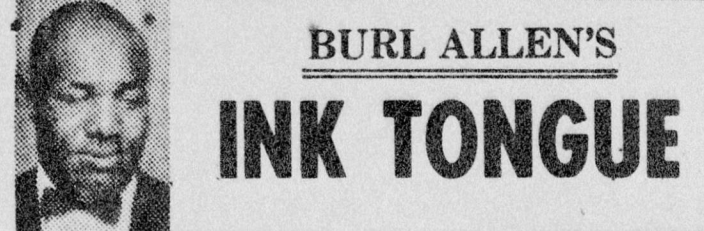

National Science Foundation to participate on an advisory panel to evaluate and discuss proposals submitted to the Foundation for research participation for High School Teachers.

She will serve as the Biologist with two other persons in area of higher education in the field of natural science. The four panels will meet in Washington, D. C. September 15-17.

Dr. Richardson, who received her Ph.D. from the University of Illinois in Botany, is a Native of Charlotte, and a new member of the faculty at Saint Augustine's. She has been active in the field of biology where she has received numerous recognitions and has done research in her area, of which several publications have resulted from her work.

YOU ARE THE DETECTIVE
When you drive up to the scene of the recent accident on a lonely stretch of the highway, there is already quite a large crowd of morbidly curious people gathered around the spot. After making your way through the assemblage, you find a doctor bent over the body of Richard Baker. The doctor tells you that the skull is badly fractured, that there are numerous bruises and contusions on the body of the man -- all evidently a result of a fall from the truck in which he was riding -- but that the man will probably live.
"Oh, I hope you're right about that," exclaims a man standing next to you. I could never forgive myself if poor old Dick should die. . . although it wasn't really my fault at all."
"How did this happen?" you ask, after identifying yourself.
"I'm Sam Dolan," he begins. "Dick is my brother-in-law, and we're partners in a wholesale fruit and vegetable business. We do some of our own delivering now and then, and this afternoon I was driving the truck and Dick was standing in the back end of the truck sorting out and counting some of our produce. . . stuff we were delivering to one of the markets in the next town. We were traveling along at a pretty good clip when I carelessly turned my head to say something to Dick in the back. When I looked around toward the front again, there was a car pulling real fast out of that side road. I jammed on my brakes with everything I had, and succeeded in stopping almost on a dime. The sudden stop must have caught Dick off-balance, because it threw him out of the truck and onto the road. When I jumped out and ran around the back, there he was. . . blood all over his face. . . unconscious."
You watch as two white-coated attendants carefully place Baker on a stretcher, and then slide this expertly into the waiting ambulance. Then you stroll casually over to where the highway patrolman is busy writing out his accident report.
"If I were you, I'd hold up a bit on that," you suggest. "This so-called accident is not what it seems to be."
Why are you suspicious about this?
SOLUTION
Had the "accident" occurred as Sam Dolan related it, Richard Baker's body would have been thrown toward the FRONT of the truck when the brakes were suddenly applied--and not out onto the road in the rear.

BURL ALLEN'S INK TONGUE

It seemed so at first, but closer observations show that local Negro property owners do not generally charge higher rentals for small commercial spaces than do whites for comparable spaces. We do note, however, that Negro-owned small business places--rented through Negro realtors do usually rent for more than do comparable owned places rented through white realtors.
These rental differences are more brazen in neighborhood shops, and most acute in undesirable spots--areas of scarce walking traffic, hoodlum hang-outs, etc., etc. In these parts business property, through Negro realtors, rents for fifty per cent to one hundred per cent more than comparable property through white realtors.

These differences in rental rates obviously do not reap similar differences in income! The outcome is actually vice versa! The more expensive places have small businesses going in and coming out about as often as their customers! Many of them are unoccupied less than half the time, thereby earning less than half the calculated rental.

Now maybe this is true sentimentality; probably it is stanch dignity; perhaps it is strict independence, but it is not good business!

MOUNT OLIVE - The United American Free Will Baptist Young Peoples Christian convention held its annual meeting at Saint Mark Free Will Baptist Church Friday and Saturday of last week. Deacon Edwards of LaGrange is president. Mrs. Rachel O. McNeill and Mrs. Mattie B. McCormick of Sanford, Mrs. Margaret Ann McDaniel and Sgt. Robert Jackson of Camp Lejeune spent the weekend with Mrs. Novella Peterson and Mrs. Mary Sampson.

News was received Sunday of the death of Mrs. Bettie O. Wynn in New York. Mrs. Wynn is a resident of this town but was visiting her children in New York. Funeral arrangements are incomplete pending the arrival of the body and relatives. For information contact Brock funeral home.

Mrs. S. S. Boatwright left Monday after spending the week end with her mother, Mrs. Maude M. Kornegay.

A cook-out was given Saturday evening for the members of Paynes Temple A. M. E. Zion Sunday school students in lieu of the summer outing.
All teachers of Carver School returned to work Tuesday after spending the Labor Day at various places.

The meeting of the board of directors of the community center was deferred until a later day instead of Monday night. A call meeting is soon to be called to plan for the opening of the kindergarten. The head start program has planned to open September 12.

Mrs. A. R. McKinnle and husband of Goldsboro attended the morning service at Paynes Temple A. M. E. Zion church Sunday.

Sunday, September 11, Youth Day service will be held at Wynn Chapel. The Junior Choir will sing under the direction of Mrs. Leon Jarnon. The public is invited to attend.

Wake's Democratic Women Launch 6th Yr. At Lunch

The Democratic Women of Wake County will launch their sixth organizational year with a traditional gala luncheon, featuring one of the State's most popular speakers and most valuable citizens, on Thursday, September 15, at 1:00 p.m., in the Virginia Dare Ballroom of the Hotel Sir Walter.
The Honorable Volt Gilmore who represents the eighteenth senatorial district in the North Carolina General Assembly will address the first session of the new year, continuing the program theme, "Good Government is a Habit in North Carolina." Mrs. Dewitt Moore of Raleigh will introduce the speaker.
Special invitations have been issued to Governor and Mrs. Dan K. Moore, Lieutenant Governor and Mrs. Robert W. Scott, other members of the Council of State and their wives, and all other Democratic Party officials.
The luncheon speaker has a distinguished record of service to his community, his state, and ty wide assemblies, informal social events, exhibits and other programs of a varying nature.

According to Mrs. Mamie B. Reese, National President, the purpose of the observance is to interpret the program of the Association more fully to communities throughout the nation. This year's annual celebration will coincide with the 70th anniversary observance of NACWC which was founded in 1896. It is the oldest organization by Negro women in America and has a membership of more than 100,000 women and 20,000 girls.

The Association recently adopted slogan "Put Ugliness to Flight." It is hoped that a project to beautify every community where such is needed. Evaluations will be made and awards announced at the close of the program.
