Tobacco Growers, Farmers, Everyone Welcome In Harnett

DUNN - Merchants listed in this special tobacco and back-to-school edition, welcome the farmers and non-farmers to visit with them in Dunn.

These merchants, along with buyers and sellers in this section, are experiencing one of their most prosperous years in business.

This Harnett County town has been one of the most attractive places for marketing tobacco, and sellers and buyers have come from across state and many other areas to participate in the many sales.

Those who come to market their wares may be assured of conveniences. They are asked to kindly trade in Dunn and take advantage of its hospitality.

The Dunn Tobacco Market opened Wednesday, August 25, and local warehousemen are ready this year as never before for the opening and continuing sales.

Like other eastern N. C.

belt markets, the market here will sell both tied and untied tobacco on the market for several days, and then plans to revert back to only tied tobacco.

A full set of buyers are already on hand. This town has more buying companies purchasing weed on the market here than almost any other market in the east.

The Big Four Warehouses are being operated by Norman Hardee, Jack Calhoun, and Tom Smith. This warehouse is located on the north side of Dunn.

Operating the Planters Warehouse at the south end of town are Leland Lee and J. M. Smothers.

The local market sells 2,200 baskets of tobacco a day, with each of the two warehouses having an equal number of baskets to sell.

Mr. Farmer, you may be assured of receiving the Top Dollar in Dunn.

Rocky Mount's

Human Relations Conference Wins Award

BY J. B. HARREN
ROCKY MOUNT - This community's first attempt at holding a Human Relations Conference, on an integrated basis, was an apparent success when some fifty whites and 150 Negroes spent a day of wholesome, harmonious study, and analyzing of ways and means by which much more equal employment opportunities can be made available to colored citizens here.

Meeting Saturday, Sept. 17, in the Church of the Good Shepherd, Episcopal rector Rev. Charles Penick led appropriate devotions with the singing of "In Christ there is No East Nor West." and "Jesus Calls Us Over the Tumult..." This was followed by an inspirational message by Father Thomas Ke-rin, who set the tone of the conference as one of interracial goodwill, harmony, and justice in the realm of Christianity, as well from a business viewpoint tinged with the spirit of "I am my brother's keeper" attitude.

Braxton B. Townsend, banker, reviewed the progress of the local Mayor's Good Neighbor Committee's activities from its beginning five years ago. He cited the breakthrough in employment which placed one or two Negroes in several "white collar" jobs in the downtown area, and several in the larger industries.

Hard-working Atty. William (Bill) Thorpe, Jr., and his sister, Mrs. Mildred Thorpe Draper, have been responsible for much of the detail work in assembling the program which was declared a success by all, in that it opened the eyes of "concerned citizens" that such an interracial forum was possible without damage to community relations.

Discussion leaders making up two panels included Lonzie McKeitham of Manpower, Graham Cottingham, Employment Security Commission, Salvatore Del Mastro, Wilson Technical Institute, and Tim Brim, Nash-Edgcombe Educational Development (NEED). Also Rod Locklear, N. C. Fund Mobility program, Mrs. Sarah Herbin N. C. Fund, The Rev. Julius Corpening, Baptist State Convention; the Rev. Jack Crum, No. Carolina Council of Churches; Ernest Ward, Clerk, City of Rocky Mount; R. D. Armstrong, the Rev. Albert L. Hockaday, the Rev. Thomas Kerin discussed "Community Attitudes toward Equal Employment."

With lunch served at the First Presbyterian Church, U. S. Robert Harrell and D. S. Coltrane reported on the state-wide success of the Governor's Good Neighbor Council program of aiding communities to prevent racial turmoil by acting to correct or improve employment, civic and school problems before they boil over into demonstrations.

Dr. J. M. McChesney, Presbyterian, conducted the closing devotions with the Rev. George W. Dudley Baptist, exhorting the group to lend themselves to action before trouble erupts.

QUESTION: We hear a good deal these days about correct language and/or pronunciation? What is correct pronunciation?--E.L.

ANSWER: It is admitted that in the United States, like in other countries, we have regional dialects and even sectional dialects. But, when we say good pronunciation or standard oral speech, we refer to the socially accepted pattern of speech spoken by the best educated people of a country, or community. The very breadth of the phrase standard American speech, when we come to define it, raises a number of questions which we cannot hope to treat in this column.

These are some questions: Is there a preferred standard of American English? How do we know what is preferred? Does the standard ever change over the years? Etc.

New Super Dollar Store Operating In Dunn

DUNN - The grand opening of Dunn's new Super Dollar Store was held last Thursday, beginning at 9 a.m., in the building formerly occupied by Sears, and located beside Thomas Walgreen Agency Drug Store, in the East Broad Street Shopping Center.

Mr. H. M. Lamm, is district supervisor. He hails from Goldsboro, while the store is managed by Mr. George Bennett. Both agreed last week that everything was in readiness for the opening, which lasted through Saturday.

To be given away as the grand prize on Saturday, Sept. 24, is a handsome 19-inch portable television set, and free balloons, bubble gum, lollipops and other favors are still on hand for the younger set.

In attendance at the mammoth opening were several of the company's top executives. Among them were: President Leon Miller, and Vice-Presidents Gene Free and M. E. Hutchins.

EVERY DAY IS "SALE DAY" This new chain store, which is incorporated, was formed by a group of North Carolina businessmen, and carries clothing, shoes, household goods, toys, health and beauty aids, and novelties at discount prices.

One of the fastest-growing chains of its type in the country, Super Dollar Stores, Inc., has been opening new stores in this state at the rate of two per week. A new store was also opened by the chain last Thursday in Roxboro.

Two others were opened two weeks ago in LaGrange and Pembroke; two are scheduled to open this week in Lexington and Wadesboro; two more next week at Williamston and Warsaw; and another in a city to be announced week after next.

Supervisor Lamm stated: "We're opening so fast I can't remember the names of all the towns." He declared his company is particularly happy to be in Dunn and in such an excellent location.

The store opened with a staff of about 15 persons, experience assure fast, friendly and efficient service in each of its big departments.

According to President Melvin, the purpose of Super Dollar Stores, Inc., is to provide a store devoted entirely to bargain buy merchandise for the home and family, where every day is "sale day" and guaranteed satisfaction accompanies each item bought at the facility.

Mr. Melvin said this is possible because company buyers concentrate their efforts in making volume purchases on close-outs, cancellations and irregulars of name brand merchandise through their many special mill contacts with supervisors from coast to coast. Regular name brand good will also be sold at discount prices, said the president.

Registration for the television set will continue until the drawing on Saturday, September 24.
