The slaying occurred during racial disturbances in Brooklyn last summer. The 17-year-old Gallashaw said he plans to return to school and resume his studies so that when he becomes old enough "I can become a police detective." (UPI PHOTO).

will be succeeded by a man like Ed Brooke."
"Ed has been a courageous and diligent Attorney General for our Commonwealth and I am certain he will be a courageous and diligent Senator. He will be very helpful in the Senate because there are important issues facing our nation and we Republicans need able, articulate spokesmen with ideas, men who keep their feet on the ground and yet look ahead to the needs of our society. I know of few men as well equipped to get our story across to the American people as Ed Brooke," he concluded.

$10.00. Mr. Smith is a member of the Juniper Level Baptist Church, and resides with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rommie (Florence) Smith, at the above address.
He is employed by Rockwell Manufacturing Company, S. Sanders Street. He is a 1964 graduate of Garner consolidated High school. Smith stated in an interview, "It is a good feeling to be a winner. You see, I have never won anything in my life."

There were no winners of first and second prize last week and so the cash does not go to anyone. We urge each individual 21 years of age and older to participate in the Sweepstakes and patronize the firms listed on the Sweepstakes page. All the public has to do is go by one of the businesses listed on that page and pick up a ticket. (Only one from each business allowable) There's nothing to buy. Get your ticket each week.

New tickets are available each Monday morning at 10:00 o'clock. Weekly tests close Sunday at 12:00 p.m.

BANQUET SET

The introductory banquet was held February 7, 1966 at North Carolina College, Durham, with the college, the North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Company, and the Mechanics and Farmers Bank as active sponsors. Participation in the beautiful and enjoyable affair last year revealed much interest in the total development of the Hammocks property as a place of rest, recreation and informal educational activities, which will reflect credit not only to the immediate group, but to the state and nation.

The banquet set for November 4, is being sponsored by the Winston Mutual Life Insurance Company, Shaw University, The Raleigh Branch of the Mechanics and Farmers Bank, the Raleigh Branch of the North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Company, the Metal Arts Jewelry Company, Dove Music Company, and the Victor Peebles' Hotel and Cafeteria Interests.

Admission to the banquet is gained by a pledge of $50, $75, $100 or more on the memorial, with one fourth of the amount pledged paid as admission to the banquet. Contributors represented in this group will receive a special certificate and their names will be placed on a bronze plaque to be preserved at the Hammocks.

Mr. Collins stated that persons will have time to join the group for the November 4 affair if they send in their pledge intention with one fourth payment as admission on or before October 31. Tickets and programs will be forwarded immediately upon favorable responses from those interested.

the civil rights movement." In an article in Commentary magazine, Rustin charged that the black power slogan "diverts the movement from a meaningful debate over strategy and tactics, it isolates the Negro community, and it encourages the growth of anti-Negro forces."

Rustin took issue with SNCC's Black Panther perspective, charging that it "would give priority to the issue of race precisely at a time when the fundamental issues facing the Negro and American society alike are economic and social."

The rights leader saw a "better alternative": a liberal-labor civil rights coalition which would "work to make the Democratic party truly responsive to the aspirations of the poor." Rustin charged that the "new militant leadership, by raising the slogan of black power and lowering the banner of non-violence, has obscured the moral issue facing the nation and permitted the President and Vice President to lecture us about 'facism in reverse' instead of propagating more meaningful programs for dealing with the problems of unemployment, housing, and education."

The "no-win" policy lying behind the slogan of "black power" does the Negro no service, Rustin said.
During the Meredith march in Mississippi SNCC and CORE members houted a "black power" slogan that may have afforded them a momentary satisfaction, he said. But that slogan "is calculated to destroy them and their movement."

The rights leader noted, on the other hand, that "it is the business of those who reject the negative aspects of 'black power' not to preach but to act."

Meanwhile, moderate Negro leaders announced issuance of a manifesto disowning proponents of black power.
"Black power is a menace to racial peace and prosperity," said A. Phillip Randolph, president, AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, who confirmed that the leaders were conferring on splitting with the black power forces.
"No Negro who is fighting for civil rights can support black power, which is opposed to civil rights and integration," Randolph said.

Meeting with him are Dr. King, president, Southern Christian Leadership Conference; Roy Wilkins, executive director, NAACP; Whitney M. Young, Jr., National Urban League executive director; and Dorothy Heights, president of National Council of Negro Women.

Dr. King has been quoted as saying SCLC would meet to determine whether his organization and the black power groups are so "diametrically opposite" that they can't work together.

At the same time, Rep. Powell charged that Carmichael, head of SNCC, was using the "black power" slogan to incite violence. He called Carmichael's "black power" in America's cities.

"Black power is the brain power that admonishes, instead of 'Burn, baby, burn,' we should be shouting, 'Learn, Baby, learn,'" Powell said.

"After years and years of rioting, black people should realize by now, that when we burn up a neighborhood dry-cleaner in a riot or rebellion, we are burning our own clothes."

Negroes today are in dire circumstances and the same thing must not happen to another generation of aging Negroes.
"In order to alleviate the plight of those who are without coverage today, it is also essential that special programs be devised and implemented to meet their day-to-day needs for homemaker services, counselling, part-time jobs, and intensive health care," Miss Jones said.

"They didn't call me until about 7:30 Friday night," beamed Coroner Bennett. Dr. Pace at the hospital (Wake Memorial, Raleigh), told me that a baby girl had been born alive at the school, but after being placed in the plastic bag, suffocated."

From information gathered through investigation and from Coroner Bennett, it was established that Miss Harris had asked her teacher to let her be excused, went to the rest room and gave birth.

She told the coroner that no one assisted her in the delivery.

The infant's body was removed to the hospital, where an autopsy was performed.
Miss Harris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie (Ellen) Harris, of the Wake Forest Community, is scheduled to face a six-man jury at an inquest set for Thursday, October 20, in the courtroom of the city courthouse at Wake Forest, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

STATE NAACP

Negroes" to concern themselves about greater participation in trying to get the civil rights message over to the less fortunate, that they may benefit by the many programs designed to help the poverty stricken.

Both McMillan and Alexander denounced the philosophy of "black power" as it has been generally interpreted to mean the isolation of Negroes from whites.

Along with building the economic strength of the Negro community, it was stressed that there must be oneness of the races in solving the domestic, as well as the foreign policies of America.

McMillan said: "Too often the man or woman with an unsavory reputation is in better position to express the honest yearnings of his community than the so-called 'middle-class leaders.'" These people, McMillan said, hold the key to the making or preventing of conditions leading to riots and bloodshed.

A delegation of ministers called on the Governor's office, but came away not too encouraged regarding their protesting the State's renting of booth space to the Ku Klux Klan, from which booth much derogatory material was distributed, particularly in the form of race-baiting recordings offense to Negroes, and decent whites as well.

Rev. Carroll Felton, Elizabeth City, (formerly of Knoxville, Tenn.) told of how a reputed 'boot-legger' gave of his building and paid a secretary to aid NAACP programs when so-called "respectable" persons would not assist even when able to do so. He added: "We've got to learn to communicate with these people to get their cooperation."

The Rev. F.L. Andrews, whose Herford NAACP branch has been quite active in the area of direct action, stressed the need for "good organization, education and action" in all such programs. The Rev. K. O. P. Goodwin, Winston-Salem, urged care in the use of credit unions and cooperatives less they become unwieldy and impersonal and lose the main spirit of the true purpose for which they are created--that of administering to the needs of the under-privileged cooperator.

Rev. Andrews warned the delegates to be alert to the obstacles placed in the way of Civil Rights efforts by, not only the Uncle Toms, but by the Dr. Toms as well. Often the Dr. Toms are more dangerous, he said.

W.C. Patton and John Brooks, both NAACP voter-registration field workers, called for greater participation in political action on all fronts. G. Foster B. Current, director of branches, joined others in saying that unless Negroes join NAACP in large numbers, register and vote, and support (make use of) the many governmental programs enacted to upgrade the poverty-stricken--the larger per centage of whom are Negroes--"the middle-class may as well kiss those expensive autos and 25 to fifty grand homes goodbye."

NAACP general counselor Robert L. Carter joined Alexander in cautioning branch officials and youth leaders in strictly adhering to NAACP national policy in all efforts at demonstrations, marching and picketing less there be another unfortunate $87,000 damage suit against NAACP as was the case in Savannah, Ga., where the regulations and the law was not observed.

toter had headed toward S. McDowell and said he had just gone around McDowell.

The officers then returned via the same route they had just taken and caught Louis Thomas Davis, 29, hiding in the parking lot between Berry's Shell service station and the police station. He was behind a truck and had a .32 calibre pistol beside him on the ground.

After bringing the suspect to police headquarters, it was discovered that Fort, of Route 5, Raleigh, had been struck in the upper part of his left arm, while Miss Clementine Denise Woods, 24, of 309 E. Cabarrus Street, was shot in the stomach.

Fort signed a warrant, charging Davis with assault with a deadly weapon, while the cops signed another, charging the man with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill Miss Woods.

He was arrested under a bond of $2,000 to await a hearing in City Court here.

The incident is believed to have occurred after Miss Woods drove her car up to the bus station, preparatory to taking a trip. It is also believed that a lover's triangle triggered the shootings.

mination's quota in a 10-million dollar expansion program, begun by the college in 1956.
The church leaders took this action as a result of an extensive survey as to the needs of its schools. Plans are to be let for a new dormitory at the Alabama school in the very near future and it is believed that work will be underway in Rock Hill very soon for a new girl's dormitory and other capital improvements.

There was a big display of interest and even though the plans are set over a two-year period it is believed that the first report, on Livingstone's Founder's Day, Feb. 10, 1967, will reveal that more than half of the money will have been given. This is believed to be the largest voluntary effort ever put forward by the membership of the denomination.
