Statewide Resource-Use Workshop At NCC Nov. 10

DURHAM - North Carolina College at Durham will be the scene of the 20th annual meeting of The North Carolina Resource-Use Education Conference on Nov. 10, with nationally known educators and public servants participating.

Dr. Theodore R. Spelner, NCC Director of the Division of Resource-Use Education and State Chairman of the Conference, said the one-day Conference will feature three main speakers, a resource-use education symposium, and fourteen resource-use emphasis clinics in subject-matter areas which will point out modern theories of teaching and learning.

The Honorable Ofield Dukes, Administrative Assistant to the Vice President of the United States, will deliver the keynote address at 1:45 p. m. in E. N. Duke Auditorium.

Peace Corp Tests Here Nov. 12

Raleigh area residents interested in putting their skills to use in developing nations around the world are invited to take the Peace Corps placement test at 9 a. m. on Saturday November 12, at 9 a. m. at the Main Post Office, on Fayetteville St.

The Peace Corps uses the placement test to determine how an applicant can best be utilized overseas. The test measures general aptitude and the ability to learn a language, not education or achievement. (If test scores indicate a limited language-learning ability, for example, the Peace Corps tries to place the applicant in an non-competitive -- an applicant can neither pass nor fail.

The application form, not the placement test, is the most important factor in the selection of Volunteers. Persons interested in serving in the Peace Corps must fill out an application, if they have not already done so, and present it to the tester before taking the test. Applications may be obtained from local post offices or from the Peace Corps, Washington, D. C. 20525.

The placement test takes about an hour and a half.

Negroes, Cops Cooperating In California

How Negro residents and police have cooperated to ease racial tensions and improve community relations in San Diego is reported by Helen Ellsberg in a November Reader's Digest article, "Things Are Looking Up in Logan Heights."

When there were threats of violence in the area last year, Ted Patrick, 35-year-old Negro president of the Logan Heights Businessmen's Association gave up his public relations business to concentrate on improving conditions. He went from door to door among the poorest families of the area to organize the mothers and fathers into what became known as the Volunteer Parents.

Eager to prevent an outbreak, these parents went about among the militant juveniles, talking, even threatening. They dispersed groups of potential troublemakers and sent letterers home.

Lt. William Kolender began a series of discussion meetings between police and Logan Heights youths at police headquarters at which the boys poured out a torrent of troubles. The Volunteer Parents and Logan Heights business groups sponsored a potluck dinner which drew 100 young adults whose evenings were usually spent on street corners. Honored guests were police officers and the district's councilman.

When a survey by the Volunteer Parents revealed that nearly 1500 families in Logan Heights were without proper food and clothing San Diego pitched in to see that every family had a Christmas. The police helped pick up and distribute the gifts. For the first time since anyone could remember, no one in Logan Heights went hungry or without a gift. In return, the Negro community declared a "Police Appreciation Week."

Volunteer Parents patrol the school grounds after hours and watched the meeting places of troublemakers. In the first year of the organization, there have been no major disturbances in Logan Heights.

While San Diego's racial problems are by no means over, Mrs. Ellsberg, who lives in Alpine, Calif., writes "even the most confirmed racial cynic cannot ignore the clear evidence of improved community relations and the success of the juvenile program."

FAMU Prof Writes Book On Oratory

TALAHASSEE, Florida - Dr. Marcus H. Boulware, authority on Negro oratory, has completed the manuscript of a book entitled VOICES OF AN OPPRESSED PEOPLE - History of Negro Oratory, 1910 to 1965 and now seeks a publisher.

Professor Boulware states that the book covers the periods of several great Presidents: Theodore Roosevelt, Woodrow Wilson, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, Harry Truman, John F. Kennedy, and Lyndon B. Johnson.

Covering the oratory from Booker T. Washington to Martin Luther King, Jr., the manuscript includes these periods: The Rooseveltian Era, New Freedom Period, New Deal, Square Deal, New Frontier, and the Great Society.

The book treats leaders with oratorical ability, and those who advanced various civil rights movements by speaking not only effectively but with some measure of artistry.

Homecoming At KC Set Nov. 4-6

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. - A variety of events have been scheduled for the Knoxville College Homecoming Nov. 4-6, Dr. Herman B. Smith, Jr., chairman of the Homecoming Committee has announced.

The Homecoming theme is "Don't Fence Me In," which alludes to the constant overall growth taking place at Knoxville College and a desire for the continuation of this trend.

The annual Alumni Dinner and Dance will be at 7:30 p. m. November 4 in the College Center Dining Room and Ballroom, J. A. Matthews, class of 1931 and principal of Alcoa (Tenn.) Hall School, will be toastmaster.

Dr. James Foster Reese, pastor of First United Presbyterian Church on campus and member of the 1946 class, will preach for the annual Homecoming Worship Service in McMillan Chapel at 11 a. m. Nov. 6.

Andrej A. Gromyko, Soviet Foreign Minister; "The aggressor has come to Vietnam, the aggressor should leave."

Livingstone's Homecoming Set Nov. 11-13

SALISBURY - Homecoming will be observed at Livingstone College Nov. 11-13, with a big weekend crammed full of thrills and gala events which promise to make this the most memorable Homecoming in the 66-year history of the college.

Highlight of the festive occasion will be the dedication of the Alumni Stadium on the campus constructed at a cost approximately $75,000 with funds contributed by the General Alumni Association. Dedication ceremonies are scheduled for 1 p. m. immediately preceding the game on Saturday.

Other activities planned for the tote grads will include an All-College Assembly at 10 a. m. on Friday, an "Old Timers Football Game" at 4:30 p. m. featuring stars of by-gone years, social affairs and an Athletes' Dinner in the Aggrey Union, Homecoming Parade at 11 a. m. Saturday and a big half-time show during the football game.

Livingstone, currently one of the leaders in the powerful CIAA, will host the Pirates of Elizabeth City State College for the game. Alumni and Bear rooters will have the opportunity of watching Alfred Tyler, leading passer in the CIAA and Livingstone's greatest ever, perform on the gridiron.

The half-time show will feature mass band demonstrations, including the Livingstone College band in its premiere performance, the crowning of Miss Livingstone and Miss Alumni and the introduction of alumni dignitaries.

Dress up leftover turkey for special family meals. Combine rice, soup, seasonings, turkey and Carnation Evaporated Milk for Rice and Turkey Bake. Carnation will keep the casserole moist and delicious right through baking. Keep several of the snappy red and white cans handy and use them often!
