

Dr. Grady D. Davis Keynotes Northampton NAACP's Meeting

GARYSBURG - The Northampton County Branch of the NAACP held its annual meeting, Sunday, Oct. 30, at the Roanoke Chapel Baptist Church, Garysburg, N. C. Dr. Grady Demus Davis, a native of Northampton County, gave the main address.

The meeting was an all-day affair with a morning and afternoon session. A country-styled lunch with hot coffee was served between the sessions by county churches.

The morning session began at 10:30 with Rev. Shirley Edwards presiding. Mr. Clyde Pierce was master of ceremonies. Heard during the morning session were reports from precinct workers throughout the county and Jack Faison, President of the Northampton County Branch of the NAACP.

In his report, Faison stated that Northampton County had made much progress, but he reminded his hearers that much work remains to be done. Commenting on race relations, Faison said, "We must work for better race relations, for the white man needs us and we need the white man. When the white man understands us and we understand him, our problems will be solved. The Negro does not want any favors. All we want is what is rightfully ours."

Faison was applauded highly as he reported certain accomplishments, which some said couldn't be done. He ended his remarks by reciting Edgar Guest's poem, "They Said It Couldn't Be Done." The Twentieth Century Quartet and a mixed chorus of voices from Northampton County Churches under the auspices of Jessie Freeman furnished music for the morning session.

The afternoon session got under way after the lunch period with music being furnished by the Tri-County Chorus, directed by Mrs. Cherry Clark. After brief remarks, Vice President Shirley Edwards presented Rev. Clyde Johnson, who presented Dr. Davis, Dr. Davis is a member of the Union Baptist Church, Durham, N. C. In his preliminary remarks, Dr. Davis praised Faison for his wonderful services as leader. He likewise said that he had some good supporters.

In his address, Dr. Davis stressed four main points: Education in the head, Money in the pocket, Ballot in the hand, and God in the heart. A standing-room only audience applauded Dr. Davis throughout his dynamic address. This was the largest attendance of any NAACP meeting ever held in the county. More than 900 persons were present. Recognition was given to workers who brought in memberships. Mrs. Myrtle Bynum led by reporting 60 memberships. Financial contributions amounted to over $600.00.

Every precinct in the county was represented at this meeting. Northampton County Branch of the NAACP has been praised by state and national officials for being one of the best chapters in eastern North Carolina.

The session closed to meet again in its regular meeting, Sunday, Nov. 6, at 4:30 p. m.

NEWS DIGEST

COVER NAMES

WASHINGTON - Many Ku Klux Klan organizations hide behind "innocent-sounding cover names," the House Un-American Activities committee said in a report of its year-long investigation. Klans often appear as "civic, sporting, or even rescue organizations," HUAC said. There are about a dozen KKK groups in 15 states, the largest of which is the "Alabama Rescue Service."

CLUB BIAS

KUSAKA, Zambia - Non-whites have been urged by Home Affairs Minister Mainza Chona, to join clubs which hitherto have been for white only. Calling upon the non-whites to "report any difficulty in obtaining membership either because of lack of sponsors or for ridiculously high entrance subscriptions," he also urged clubs for Africans only to admit whites. "The two groups must know what the other is saying and doing," he explained.

NEAR DECISION???

WASHINGTON - The U. S. Supreme Court appeared to be near a decision on racially mixed marriages as it wrote the Virginia attorney general for his opinion on an appeal filed by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Loving of Carolina (Va.) county.

The court is considering a review of a decision that the white man and his Negro wife may not live together in the state. The request by the court is said to indicate serious concern about Virginia's miscegenation ban.

CORONER'S VERDICT

SAN FRANCISCO - The white policeman who killed a local youth, and thus touched off two days of rioting, was cleared by a coroner's jury. Alvin Johnson's shooting of Mathews S. Johnson, Jr., 16, was ruled "excusable homicide." The policeman, who had been suspended, was immediately reinstated. He testified that he shot the youth after ordering the victim and a companion to halt, as they fled a stalled car.

STUDENTS' INTEREST OFF

NEW YORK - White college students' interest in the rights movement is waning as a result of Viet Nam pressure and "crow-jim," rights leaders have reported. SNCC and CORE have lost many of their white supporters on campus because they are no longer wanted--in leadership positions, anyway. "Students don't see what role they can play in the South and in civil rights since SNCC made it clear they don't want white students working in the black community," said Ron Carver,

"MISS A&T ALUMNI" - Mrs. Virginia Brown, right, Greensboro, is crowned "Miss A&T Alumni," the winner in a national fund raising contest sponsored by the A&T College General Alumni Association. Doing the crowning chores is Miss Dorothy Spain, of Greensboro, the retiring queen. Mrs. Brown was sponsored by the Greensboro Gate City Chapter of the alumni group. The action took place at the annual homecoming ball, a feature of the A&T homecoming weekend celebration held at Greensboro last week.

chairman of "Friends of Snick."

UNDER FIRE

WASHINGTON - School practices were under fire in U. S. District court, where civil rights activist Julius Hobson brought suit. Hobson contended that the Washington school system is not making a full effort to integrate its faculties or the seven per cent white and 93 per cent Negro population. Negro pupils do inferior work because less school money is spent on them, he charged.

A Single fact will often spoil an interesting argument.
