YOU ARE THE DETECTIVE

As you enter the crowded, smoke-filled bar, you immediately see the body of the dead racketeer, Marty Jacobs, lying sprawled on the floor in front of the telephone booth. After noting the crimson-stained bullet hole in his whiteshirted chest, you carefully step over the body into the phone booth with your handkerchief-covered hand and removed the receiver from the hook, drop in your coin, and dial Detective Lieutenant Dan Miller at headquarters. After Lieutenant Miller's arrival ten minutes later, you both listen to the story of Hank Barton, owner of the bar.

"I was busy tending bar about thirty minutes or so ago when Marty walks in the front door and hurries over to the phone He looked excited or worried or something .... kept booth. glancing at the front door while he was dialing his number. Then I got busy again washing some glasses while he was talking ... then suddenly I hear him yelling into the phone, 'Billy, here he comes now ... he's gotta gun!' Just at that moment a couple of shots ring out .... I glanced over at the door and saw a big guy run across the sidewalk, jump into a black car on the street, and gun it away. I looked back at Marty ... he's dropped the receiver in the booth and is all bent over holding his hand over his chest.eethen he backs out of the booth and falls onto the floor."

You turn to Lieutenant Miller and explain that you had been walking along the street a few doors away when you heard the shots, ran inside here, and found Hank Barton leaning against one of the bar stools staring down at Jacobs' body.

Consider Miss Jacqueline Dennis, youngest daughter of Mrs. Dorothy T. Dennis, of 20 Chatham Terrace, in Raleigh's Chavis Heights. Jackie is VERY happy --largely because of what she KNOWS, but much MORE because of what she does NOT know. This spunky tot often pitches a little FIT when not allowed to have all things HER way. You see, in her big-baby mind, she realizes that she is almost always with people who love her, and she hopes that protesting will help her to win her way! But Jackie could not be NEARLY so happy if she could understand NOW many of the facts about the BIG world outside her LITTLE world--if she knew that her economic status, her social category, her future livelihood chances -- her ENTIRE existence is as it is MAINLY because she is Negro! No, Jackie does not know that political egotists played FOOL with her freedom LONG before her time -- and haven't stopped vet!!!!

She hasn't learned that decades ago they burdened her GREAT grandchildren's GREAT grandchildren with na-

Psalm 88:1, 2, 3.

A THOUGHT "O Lord God of my Salvation. Have cried day and night before Thee. Let my prayer come before Thee; incline Thine ear unto my cry. For my soul ds full of troubles: and my life draweth nigh unto the grave."

"Yeh, that's right," adds Barton, shaking his head mourn-ily. "It all happened so fast I didn't know what to do." fully. "You say Jacobs backed out of the booth before falling to the floor," says Lieutenant Miller. "Do you mean he opened the door first?"

"Oh ... no, he had the door open the whole time he was talking."

"You didn't go to him after he was shot to make sure he was dead?" you ask.

"I didn't have to do that. I could see from where I was standing that he was a goner. And I wanted to be sure, too, that I didn't touch or move anything. I know how you guys are about that."

"You seem to know that lesson pretty well," you agree. "But now you're going to learn something else--that you can't get away with the story you've just told us!"

What is wrong with Hank Barton's story?

SOLUTION Hank Barton told you that the victim had dropped the receiver of the phone when he was shot. Yet, when you stepp-ed into the booth to phone Lieutenant Miller, you found the receiver on the hook. Barton also said that he hadn't touched anything after the shooting.

"Pastoral Counseling" was discussed at the regular meeting of the Ministerial Alliance on Nov. 7 by the Rev. Frank Hutchison, Minister of the Davie Street Presbyterian Church. "One of the essential areas where counseling is vital is that of marriage," stated the speaker. Several sessions of premarital counseling was recommended with the treatment of such topics as finance, personal responsibility and the reading of such pamphlets as "Sex Without Fear" which many young couples had pronounced help-

Educational counseling was also recommended and a review of the Project ABC, "A Better Chance" was given. This project provides scholarship aid for needy, worthy students to attend highly specialized provate schools in New England. The applications for these scholarships may be made at Duke University by contacting the director of Project ABC. Junior High and High School Students may apply.

A third area of counseling described was the general area of employment up grading with emphasis placed on furthing at such institutions as Holding Institute.
