

Meredith Raps NAACP

NEW YORK (NPI) - Two prominent leaders have accused NAACP officials of giving their own people a hard time. One of the leaders was himself an NAACP official.

James Meredith angrily charged that he was being "blackballed" and "discredited" by the NAACP. He said NAACP executive director Roy Wilkins caused the cancellation of his scheduled speaking engagement before the Columbus (Ohio) branch.

"This is a blackball, in effect. It's a move to discredit me," Meredith said.

He added that the Rev. Ward S. Parnham, Columbus NAACP branch president, sent him a letter regretting that "we must cancel your appearance." The letter went on to say, "We have been directed to take this action from which there is no appeal," Meredith said.

Meredith said he phoned Rev. Parnham and was told that the communication ordering the cancellation was signed by Roy Wilkins.

In St. Louis, Cecil Moore, Philadelphia NAACP president, said the NAACP should really be called the NAACP, the National Association for the Ad-

Police Ordered To Close So-Called Trouble Spots

The recent order by Judge Raymond Mallard to close four of Raleigh's night spots seemed to have caused a stir among night life lovers. The order is said to have been issued due to the fact that the places had been tabbed as nuisance spots and therefore were a menace to law and order.

Club 54, located at the corner of Bloodworth and Davie Sts., said to be operated by John Stuart was the first to be banned and operations were to have ceased there as of Tuesday night. Mr. Stuart could not be reached to ascertain whether he would seek to reopen the place or call it a closed issue.

The operator of the J. C. Blue Light Inn, 400 E. Martin, according to a spokesman, had not been padlocked as late as 12 noon, Wednesday. The spokesman stated that the place had been leased for one year, but the understanding was that it would be run in compliance with the law of the city. The spokesman said that in view of the fact that the operator had run afoul to have the city lift the ban so that its members could operate the place in accordance with the law.

Mrs. Lucille Plummer, who was listed as the operator of the Blue Gardenia, 821 S. Bloodworth, was also unavailable for comment about the order.

LACY MURCHISON Wins $1,000 Food Store Sweepstakes

Very few people get the thrill of winning $1,000 in a life time, but Lacy Murchison got that thrill when he went into a local Winn-Dixie Store Monday and found that he had ticket #108 in the Harness Race Contest, sponsored by that firm, on Saturday evenings.

He lost no time in making his way home and relating to his wife, Elsie, how lady luck had smiled upon them and he had received $1,000. Mrs. Murchison told the CAROLINIAN that they were both so thrilled that they became overwhelmed and had not quite decided what they would do with the money.

Mr. Murchison works at a local shoe shop and Mrs. Murchison, who hails from Williamston, said they had narrowed their decision to two ventures - buying a home, or going into a profitable business. She says she is not employed and has been

Texas Lady Senator Says Brown Power, Not Black Power

ALEXANDRIA, La. (NPI) - The first Negro lady senator in the Texas legislature has denied the existence of "black power," while affirming the existence of "brown power," which she called the "only measurement of men."

Those who have "brain power" lose their identifying qualities, such as race, creed, or color, said Sen. Barbara C. Jordan of Houston.

Sen. Jordan was addressing a combined meeting of the Louisiana Education Association and the Louisiana Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Also addressing the meeting was Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., who declared that one should not try to be the best Negro teacher or the best Negro carpenter, but to be the best in his line, whatever that line might be.

Black and white men are dependent on each other, and neither can rise any higher than the other, he said.

The Crime Beat

ASSAULTED AND ROBBED

Katie Bell Dunston, 28, 712 E. Martin St., described how she was assaulted by Albert Moore, 26, K-18 Washington Terrace. She alleges that her London Fog beige coat were taken at the same time. She lamented the fact that her pocketbook, containing $21.00, was in the pocket. She signed a warrant which charged Moore with assault and battery and larceny. The crime is alleged to have been perpetrated at the Hargett Street Laundromat, 900 block of Hargett St. The complaining witness was treated for abrasions on both hands.

WOOD'S 5 & 10 FORGERY VICTIM

Richard J. Glassford reported that on Nov. 23 a colored male came into Wood's 5 & 10 store and bought two pairs of dungarees and a work shirt and tendered a check in payment for same. Glassford reported that the check was drawn for $30.00 and the merchandise bought came to $10.00. The check was drawn on the Mechanics & Farmers Bank and bore the signature of James A. Shepard and made payable to Robert Lee Kittrell. The check is said to have been endorsed by Robert Lee Kittrell. At sometime Glassford called the bank to ascertain whether the check was good or not and told that it was. When the check reached the bank it was found that it had been forged. Glassford is reported to have notified the police on Nov. 23. The complaining witness described the customer, who presented the check as a colored male, 23 or 25 years old, medium height, weighing about 140 or 150 lbs. The alleged forger is still being sought.

THE FACTS OF SURVIVAL

It is most important that adolescents at certain stages of their development must be told the facts of life, for the omission of such facts may lead to grievous consequences in the life of the mature individual. It is just as imperative that a maturing race should be told the facts of survival and the failure to impart such facts could lead to grave consequences in the struggle that lies ahead for people of color in general, and the Negro in particular. A too rampant optimism on the part of Negroes could be disastrous: for the struggle ahead of the Negro is a bitter one and a struggle for survival rather than a struggle for a certain kind of survival. Our leaders are prone to minimize the effects of riots and threats of riots, which are still in the air, but the fact is, these riots have consolidated the anti-Negro forces of the South in particular and the country in general. Some of our so-called leaders are still threatening with talks of riots. They fail to see that the grip that race prejudice has on the world is far stronger than any fear that the threats of riots can generate. Let's stop threatening to riot and get along with the work of mapping out a constructive program for the Negro masses who are left out in the cold, so far as the upper echelons of Negro classes are concerned. Our pulpits, our schools, and our Negro elite never had it so good before. Our poor struggling Negro colleges are taking their cue from Harvard, Yale, Princeton, and Columbia and all I can hear is a cry for "excellence," and this cry is in good order generally. But Negro educators should make it clear that "excellence" has two dimensions—the vertical and the horizontal. The former reaches from top to bottom and this is mighty fine! But horizontal excellence could refer only to the academic levels. This concept is dangerously narrow for impoverished Negroes. Unless the excellence we are hearing so much about these days extends from our United States Congressmen to the sweepers of the streets, the very suggestions could be fateful in their implications.

Excellence is a fine class slogan, and it could also be a fine mass slogan. Moral excellence is far more important than academic excellence and our educators should cry aloud this solemn fact. Intellectual excellence is not more important

"Black Power" Head Appeals STOKELY CARMICHAEL SENTENCED

Says Guilty To Crime, Sentenced

CLINTON - The gripping story of a low voice, of a Duke University white freshman girl, Miss Camille Warren, of how she was treated and how her escort, Louis Earl Raynor of Raleigh, was tormented on the night of August 6, left defense counsel, Joe Chambliss and M. E. Gadsden with no choice, in the case of Glen Edward Lane, in Superior Court Tuesday.

Miss Warren gave a graphic account of the bizarre acts. She described how Raynor and she were trying to make an 11 o'clock deadline that had been set by her parents to be home, when Lane stepped from the darkness, armed with a pistol, and entered the car. The occupants of the car are said to have inquired of Lane what he wanted and his reply, according to the testimony, "You know what I want."

Lane is reported to have told Raynor to drive on and refused.

INVITING A FIGHT - This lovely Chicago woman is really out for a fight. She says that the next title fight that Cassius Clay takes part in should be staged in the Windy City and she represents a syndicate that is ready to offer Clay $250,000.00 to fight there in February. She is not only willing to put up a fight to get a championship fight, but can put up the money.

Carmichael Pleads Own Case In Ala.

SELMA, Ala. - As a lawyer, militant "Black Power" leader Stokely Carmichael probably would admit today that his future isn't too promising.

Acting as his own defense, Carmichael was convicted in city court Tuesday of inciting a riot last Nov. 5 when several hundred Negroes demonstrated for "Black Panther Party" candidates.

He was fined $100 and sentenced to 60 days at hard labor and judge Edgar Russell warned him if he failed to pay the fine the active term would be extended to 167 days.

Carmichael, 25, head of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) filed notice of appeal and was released under $300 bond.

Sweepstakes Winner Plans Xmas Buying

With Christmas upon her, Miss Annie Jean Wilson of 116 Star St., knew exactly what she was going to do with the money that she received at the CAROLINIAN Monday when she turned in ticket # 6651, second place winner in the popular "SWEEPSTAKES."

When she was told that she had the winning number, she went next door to a neighbor's house to verify same. With authentic information, she exclaimed, "I am so excited, I hadn't seen the paper. Here it is," she stated that it was the first time she had ever won any money.

Miss Wilson plans to use the money to buy presents for her

CELEBRATION - New York: The room is smoke-filled as Democratic Representative Adam Clayton Powell speaks to the press after celebrating his 38th anniversary with the Abyssinian Baptist Church in Harlem. A Judge in Federal Court here ordered a hearing Nov. 22nd to determine whether Powell should be barred from retaining his seat in Congress despite his decisive re-election. The judge set the hearing to consider a charge that the Congressman was not a bonafide inhabitant of New York. Powell also received a fourth jail term imposed by the court for his repeated violations of court orders to account for his refusal to acknowledge a debt of $164,000 arising from a defamation - of - character suit. With Three-Two Count May Walk - In Bimini

NEW YORK (NPI) - It was ball three, strike two for the Harlem Democrat would instead take a walk in Bimini, outside the United States, where the possibility of his being struck out by the law was slimmer.

Powell was pitched one ball and one strike last week as the dapper New York Congressman was set back by the prospect of further challenges to his committee powers in Congress, but won a court victory in New York.

In Washington, Rep. Sam Gibbons, D-Fla., who engineered the "pruning" of Rep. Powell's powers as head of the House Education and Labor Committee, said he would press again in the 1967 session of Congress

Charlotte Church Meet Seeks Peace

CHARLOTTE - Churchmen from throughout the State met at Myers Park Baptist Church Tuesday and heard Dr. John C. Bennett, president, Union Theological Seminary, New York, and Arthur W. Barber, Assistant Secretary of Defense, Washington, D. C., speak to the Church Conference on Peace.

The well-known speakers went into all the ramifications of the church's participation in a bid for world peace. Rev. Jack Crum, the council's Director of Christian Social Action, said the purpose of the conference was to seek solutions to the conflict in Vietnam from a Christian point of view. The theme of the meet was "Christian Conference and Vietnam."

The climax of the day-long session was a worship service for the general public, in the sanctuary of the Myers Park Church. Dr. Robert T. Howard, pastor, led the service.

Judge, KKK Lock Horns

GRANITE QUARRY (NPI) - The grand dragon of the North Carolina Ku Klux Klan and Superior Court Judge, Allen H. Gwyn, have locked horns on whether Klansmen should serve on juries.

KKK leader Robert Jones retorted that a Klansman "has every right to be a juror," after the judge asked Klansmen not to serve on juries.

Jones accused the judge of not "practicing what he preaches" and urged the judge to retire if he "does not care to live up to the Constitution."

"Every Klansman swears his first allegiance is to God, country, and Constitution," said Jones.

The judge had said he was not issuing a "judicial mandate," but he noted that "mem-

Henderson: "Backlash Dangerous"

DURHAM (NPI) - "The white backlash" has been assailed both in the North and in the South as a dangerous, misleading myth in race relations.

In Durham, Dr. Vivian W. Henderson, president, Clark College, rejected the thesis of white backlash, calling it one of "the most unfortunate myths in current race relations."

"The fact is," he said, "that in Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas and other places of this nation, racial bigotry continues to be a dominant force."

In Chicago, the Coordinating Council of Community Organizations asserted that proponents of the "white backlash" theory "are innocently or deliberately promoting a lie, which, if repeated often enough, can obscure the truth and further racism in our community."

Office holders, CCCO charged, are using the "white backlash" as an "excuse" for their failure to defend or enforce human rights. This applies both to Republican and Democratic officials, CCCO said.

In Detroit, Rep. John Conyers, Jr. (D-Mich.) asserted that "the predicted white backlash in the 1966 elections failed to materialize."

"The only phenomenon observed in the November elections was the coming out from under the rocks' of anti-Negro, anti-liberal voters who
