tant than manual and menial excellence and the latter must not be disparaged by over-emphasis on the former. However humble one's vocational lot may be, excellence is as pressing a need as in intellectual pursuits. The hope of being excellent in aerodynamics and electronics is somewhat tied in with being excellent in the humbler pursuits, but our educators are not making this plain. There are no short cuts to full citizenship. Hard work, honesty, saving, common sense approach to every day problems, willingness to pay the prices for what we get and need, facing up to the fact that the inculpation of the white oppressor does not in every case mean the exculpation of the Negro involved, facing the stern and ugly fact that we are an under-dog people and will be for years to come; facing the further fact that we cannot do what whites do in things amiss and get away with it and further facing the fact that in making threats and demands we have no way of enforcing in our attempts to frighten the white man into yielding to us a fuller share of American citizenship; facing the further fact that so long as the Negro masses have been deserted by our educators in their planning, the NEGRO NEWSPAPER IS OUR LEADER HENCEFORTH until a leader with a program arises. The foregoing are some of the facts of survival for the hardpressed Negro. The so-called Negro leader who is so blinded by emotions that he would further pose more threats of riots as a means of backing the white man down in his prejudicial planned course of defeating the Negro in his just battle for full citizenship, is out of intellectual and moral gas! He is trying to say something instead of having something to say. Booker T. Washington had a program, and although it was rejected, it vividly dramatizes whatw we mean by saying that the current Negro leader has no program. Negroes are suffering the lack of the facts of survival!

A third Negro, Thomas Lorenzo Taylor of Philadelphia, Pa., was convicted of resisting arrest and blocking traffic and fined $60 or 74 days in jail last week. He is free under $200 appeal bond.

Police officers testified that Taylor operated a sound truck urging Negroes to vote for "Black Panther" candidates who were defeated in the Nov. 8 general election. After Taylor was arrested, the officers testified, Carmichael and House tried to lead a march on city Hall.

Wearing army combat boots and an olive-drab field jacket, Carmichael was allowed to conduct his own defense when Russell ruled that Don Jelinek, a white civil rights attorney from New York, was not licensed to practice in Alabama.

Carmichael called Mayor Joe T. Smitherman as a witness. He denied lunging at the Mayor during the demonstration and he and Smitherman engaged in a running debate.

Russell cautioned Jarmichael several times about making remarks about "police brutality and racism."

House, also serving as his own attorney, was rebuked by Russell for his statements as a witness. "I had no intention of starting a riot and I know that SNCC people don't start riots, It's police brutality and suppression that start riots,"

"That's enough of that," said Russell.

Some Negro leaders, he said, are "leaders without followers." Many current Negro leaders are not really leaders "because they are chosen by the white man. They are the errand boys of segregation," he added.

Singling out leaders of the Urban League and the NAACP, Moore said there was a serious doubt "that the Urban League ever represented Ne-

to have Powell's powers cut

Gibbons noted that committee authority is re-established at the beginning of each Congressional session. He indicated that Powell could lose more power than ever.

During the last session, the committee votes not to allow Powell sit on legislation the committee wanted passed.

At the same time, Powell won Congressional victory as a federal judge in New York dismissed a suit asking to Powell's re-election to Congress be declared invalid.

The suit was brought by Las-sen L. Walsh, Republican candidate in Harlem, who lost to Powell by a 4-to-1 margin in the Nov. 8 election.

Raymond Rubin, Walsh's attorney, had charged Powell was ineligible for a term in the House because he was not an inhabitant of the state at the time of his election.

U. S. District Court Judge Dudley B. Bonsal dismissed the case, leaving it up to the House of Representatives to decide on the legality of Powell's election.

And a predominantly Democratic Congress was hardly likely to dismiss one of its Democratic Representatives at a time when the Democrats' majority in Congress had been pruned in a Republican come-

The attempt to have Powell ousted as congressman was linked strongly to a libel case which has been plaguing Powell for several years.

Rubin, Walsh's attorney, was also the attorney of Mrs. Esther James, whom Powell was convicted of libeling during a 1960 television broadcast.

Observers said the suit against Powell may have been an attempt to force the congressman to return to New York and pay a $164,000 judgment to Mrs. James - or go to jail, as directed by the New York Supreme court.

Powell had been told to start serving a 30-day jail sentence on charges of criminal contempt of court in the libel case. The finding of criminal contempt made it impossible for Powell to return to New York at any time without being jailed - and also made it questionable whether he could, under the circumstances, be considered a resident of New York.

Powell's whereabouts, meanwhile, were not known. He possibly was in Bimini on a fishing trip or could be in the United States -- but not in New

Meanwhile, a lawyer for Rep. Powell went into the Court of Appeals, the state's highest court, in an attempt to have one of four jail sentences pending against the congressman re-

When Lane and Raynor discovered she had the pistol, a struggle began. At a previous hearing, it was brought out that it was a toy pistol.

During the mixup Raynor is said to have stuck his thumb in Lane's eye. Lane is alleged to have jumped out of the car. Miss Warren locked the door and they sped away.

There was no other evidence and Raynor's lawyers agreed that the plea guilty by the defendant was all they had to offer. Judge Albert W. Cowper questioned Lane as to whether he knew the plea could result in a life sentence and he told him he did. The judge is said to have also asked him if he were satisfied with his lawyers and replied that he was. With the evidence closed, Solicitor Walter Britt said that the State was willing to accept the plea. The plea was also acceptable to the girl's mother and father. Judge Cowper sentenced Lane to life imprisonment,

HENDERSON

Many other factors were operative in the losses suffered by Democrats which cannot be attributed to the so-called "backlash."

"Black power," meanwhile, came off about as badly, as Dr. Henderson and M. Leo Bohanon, Regional Urban League director, assailed it.

Dr. Henderson condemned "the advocacy of black power." The concept is "nonsensical and unworkable," he said.

"Negroes cannot win in the struggle for full equality by any thesis of separation or by try-ing to go it alone. Negroes need whites and whites need Negroes."

He added, however, that "black power" will continue to appeal to the Negro masses until needed reforms are made.

Bohanon asserted that the "black power" slogan caused misunderstanding and diversion of attention from real issues. Speaking at a forum on "Black Power," in St. Louis, Bohanon noted, however, that Negroes need and want greater economic and political
