1966 AKA Debutante Ball Ushers In Social Season In City

86 Beauties Make Debut In Annual AKA Affair

Three thousand persons are said to have been on hand for the 29th annual AKA Debutante Ball, held in Raleigh Memorial Auditorium, Friday night, Nov. 27. J. D. Lewis, who presented the young ladies, had no trouble, due to the fact the scenery depicted the occasion and as each young lady came within the scope of the spotlight the setting of the greenery and lovely appeal of the red roses made her more attractive.

Sorors of Alpha Theta Omega Chapter were presented to their friends as they formed the figure AKA, Special presentations were Basileus, Susan Malone, Chairman, Audrey Logan, Executive Secretary, Odessa Hicks. All visiting sorors were invited to join the circle to sing the Sorority Hymn led by Joyce Davis.

The Debutante Ball is a social, cultural and educational project of the Alpha Kappa Sorority. Over the years young women from different parts of North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, Pennsylvania, New York, Maryland, and the District of Columbia have received scholarships to attend college or business schools. They have also been given the privilege of cultural, social and vocational advantages offered by the Sorority. Over the 29 years the Sorority has kept pace with the various social changes, helps support the Cleveland Job Corps, the Adult Education Program of Wake Opportunities Incorporated, other charities and Educational Programs.

The members of the Deb Steering Committee are: Mesdames Phyllis Mann, Irene Lane, Mertie Batey, Gladys Turner, Minnie Williams, Elizabeth Barfield, Myrtle Crockett, Majorie Debnam, Ophelia Noble, Miss Thelma Watkins, Mrs. Susie Perry, Chairman of Public Relations; Mrs. Anne Fulford and Mrs. Susan Malone.

DEAR SALLY

BY SALLY SHAW

DEAR SALLY: I have always been taught that if a man likes you well enough he'll do all the phoning necessary. But does this rule apply even when a couple has had a violent argument, especially when it was all started by the girl... as it was last night between my boy friend and me? SORRY.

DEAR SORRY: There is never anything wrong with ANYONE'S phoning his apologies for a mistake he knows he made. If this boy means as much to you as I suspect, pick up that phone and try to repair that wrong.

DEAR H. B.: There are, of course, any number of bleaching creams and preparations on the market that sometimes help to fade out freckles. But honestly, I think you're making much too much of this. There are lots and lots of fellows who like freckles and think they're real cute. And some of our most glamorous and beautiful queens of stage, screen, and TV have umpteen dozen freckles which haven't bothered them one little bit.

DEAR SALLY: Our family would appreciate your comments on a little matter we've been hashing back and forth for sometime. Just what is the correct form regarding the use of the suffixes after male names, "Jr.," "1," and "III?"

ONE OF THE JONES BOYS.

DEAR JONES BOY: When a son's name is the same as that of his father, "Jr." is tacked onto his name. When the father dies, the title "Jr." is dropped, except in the case of the father's having been famous or very well known enough to make it advisable for the son to retain the "Jr." for the purpose of identification. When a boy is named for a grandfather or uncle, he carries "III" after his name. And the third member of a family to use the same name becomes "III."

DEAR SALLY: I'm a girl of 16, and have parents who never drink and who feel very strongly about the subject, and especially about teenagers' drinking. I've been dating a nice boy whose parents were born in Italy and who always have wine with their meals. Whenever I eat at their home, they always serve me a glass of wine, and for the sake of courtesy I have sipped it. My conscience has been suffering because of this, because I feel as if I had been disobeying my parents. Do you think "drinking" includes wine? CURIOUS.

DEAR CURIOUS: This is not my decision to make. Ask your parents.

DEAR SALLY: This afternoon while I was walking along the street with my fiancée, we met a girl friend of hers. When my fiancée introduced us, she held out her hand and I took it without removing my glove. Later my girl really raked me up and down, telling me that it's only "common courtesy" for a gentleman to remove his glove before shaking hands with anyone, and especially with a woman. I told her this rule has been dead for years. Whose side are you on? THE GLOVE.

DEAR GLOVES: Yours. While once upon a time it was considered the height of rudeness for a man to keep his glove on when greeting a woman, today it's perfectly OK to handle her with kid gloves, especially when their removal would be awkward and time-consuming.

DEAR SALLY: I'm a girl of 17 with a face liberally sprinkled with umpteen dozen freckles. I have of course been living with these freckles all my life, but I'm still embarrassed about them, and sometimes feel that the boys I meet and date are very conscious of them, too. Can you please suggest a solu-
