

Ala. Attorney General To Speak Here Friday

Richmond M. Flowers, once considered the hope of Alabama, and currently Attorney General, will be the guest speaker at a banquet given by the Southeastern Lawyers Association, 6:30 p. m., Dec. 9, in the Raleigh Memorial Auditorium. The banquet is open to the public.

Flowers gained quite a reputation as a fearless prosecutor and in many instances denounced Alabama justice in its attitude toward the cases he tried that were fraught with racial tension and lawlessness. He vowed that he would use all his energy to rid Alabama of hate, injustice and utter disregard for law and order.

The Southeastern Lawyers Association was formed in 1954 to consider special problems facing Negroes and members of minority groups in the administration of justice in Southeastern United States.

Flowers address will highlight the three day meeting which is placing special emphasis on legal services to the poor. Attorney Tex Wilson, Regional Director, Mid-Atlantic Legal Services Office of Economic Opportunity will keynote the Friday services workshop. Mr. Wilson will discuss a proposal designed to make legal

Randolph Asks 185 Billion To Underwrite Poor Needs

WASHINGTON - Civil rights leader A. Phillip Randolph, urging a vast increase in anti-poverty spending, told Congress Tuesday, there would be "disastrous consequences" if the Vietnam war is financed by "the black and white poor."

The 77-year-old president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car porters AFL-CIO made the statement in testimony prepared for a Senate subcommittee studying city problems. He called for approval of his 10-year, $185 billion "freedom budget," including a guaranteed annual income.

CABARRUS ST. ABC STORE HELD UP

Alert Music Box Service Man Foils Try

BY ALEXANDER BARNES

Milton "Bud" Hunter, 49, took detectives and the writer over the route he traveled Tuesday afternoon after he gunned down one of the two white men who robbed a Wake County ABC Store, 130 E. Cabarrus St., about 5:30 p. m. and almost got away with approximately $558.00. Hunter said the man backed him up against a fence and told him, "I'll Kill You."

Hunter related how he started in the store and noticed that Baxter Squires, 53, was holding the employees, at bay with a sawed-off double barreled, shot gun. Hunter who works next door, at the Dove Music Company, says he rushed back into Dove Music Company and took out the trusted 38-caliber, Colt left-hand-wheeler, stuck it into his belt and made a rapid trip to his truck, which was parked along the east side of the ABC Store.

"It was not long before I saw the two men, Squires and another white man, later identified as Thomas Willford

New Con Technique Used Here

Miss Joyce Beverly Flipping, 1201 E. Lane St., reported to local police that she was the victim of one of the strangest robberies ever committed in Raleigh.

Police files disclosed that Miss Flipping reported that on Dec. 1, as she was going to Kennedy's Office Supply to get some supplies for the office of Mitchell & Murphy, she was approached by what she termed a colored man.

She is alleged to have told police that the man asked her to direct him to a Wilson Hotel. Apparently not knowing the location of such a hotel, she says she told him he must to have been looking for the Andrew Johnson Hotel, and told him she would show him the way to it, in view of the fact it was on the way to where she was going. The Kennedy Office Supply Company is at 228 S. Salisbury St. and the Andrew Johnson Hotel is on the corner of Martin and Salisbury Sts.

The record did not disclose whether she directed him to the Andrew Johnson Hotel, or not, but did show that she says after she obtained the supplies, the same man seemed to have been waiting for her. She further alleged that he walked back up Salisbury Street with her to where there was an old model pink automobile parked.

She reported that he nudged her into the parked car and proceeded to ride around for about one hour. During this time she alleges that he made her give him her watch, ring and $25.00. Here is where the matter becomes mystifying. According to the report he is

TORCH KILLER GETS 25 YRS.

25 Years In Burning Of Girl To Death

ASHEBORO - Livingstone Brown, 59, who stood trial twice for the burning to death of his girl friend, Lucille Currie, March 15, 1964, was given a 25-yr. sentence by Judge Walter E. Johnston in Randolph County's Superior Court, Friday after an all-white jury found him guilty of second degree murder.

The five-day trial was the second time Brown had faced a jury for the death of the Currie woman, who, evidence disclosed, died after her clothing and body had been saturated with gasoline. Brown said he would appeal the case to the State Supreme Court. He won a new trial, after serving two years of a 20 to 25 years sentence, given him in 1946.

The accused man gained the second trial on the contention that Negroes had been systematically excluded from the first jury. The panel for the second trial included some Negroes and two were examined for jury duty, but were excused. The jury that found him guilty in the second trial was all-white and consisted of seven men and five women. It deliberated only 30 minutes.

The prosecution contended that Brown made a human torch out of the woman for running around with other men. I further contended that Brown gave officers oral permission to search his house, without a search warrant and the officers

Both Hurt, No Accuser

They say love covers a multitude of faults. The police were not able to determine whether it was love or fear that kept the cause of injury to the so-called friends. It appears that when police answered a call to the 500 block of Dorothea Drive they found Wilbur McCoy at 508 Dorothea Drive on the steps with an injury to his head. McCoy did not tell the police how he received the injury, nor did he tell them who inflicted it.

The slouches investigated further and found one Annie Mae Williams, 24, 721 S. Saunders St., who told them she was McCoy's girl friend. She is said to have had a cut on her left hand. She is alleged to have told them she and McCoy had a "friendly" argument and she did not know how either one of them got cut. Both were taken to Wake Memorial.

FOILING ROBBERY - Milton "Bud" Hunter demonstrates how he was able to foil the robbery of the Cabarrus Street ABC Store Tuesday, when two white gunmen scooped up approximately $558.00 and ran out of the store. The picture on the left shows Hunter in Stronach Alley as he fired at the robber who had the shot gun. This shot missed, due to the fact, Hunter says, that he was too scared to aim. The picture on the right shows him taking dead aim and it is believed that this is the shot that struck the other robber and shattered a bone in his knee.

ROLLING FORK, Miss. (UPI) - The car slowed as its headlights swept over the two Negroes in the yard of the frame house in the Mississippi Delta. Then it rolled on down the highway and turned around.

Mrs. Lucille Willis was walking toward the house when it approached again. Will McGee, who had driven her home from a visit with friends, stood beside his truck.

"When it passed a second time, a gun went off," Mrs. Willis said Tuesday in recounting her experience of Thanksgiving night.

Her 13 year old daughter, Jennie, had heard the truck drive up and "poked" her head out the door just as the gun went off.

"She came out on the porch and screamed 'I've been shot.' I grabbed her and the blood from her eye ran down my hands," said Mrs. Willis.

Jennie was taken to a hospital at Rolling Fork for treatment of birdshot wounds of the eye and body. The body wounds were superficial, but doctors could not save her eye and it was removed by a surgeon at Mercy Hospital in Vicksburg. She came home Sunday.

PHILADELPHIA - In telephone interview with the CAROLINIAN Tuesday, Rev. Ozre T. Jones, Jr., son of Bishop Ozre T. Jones, Sr., the object of a church fight, at the 59th session of the Church of God in Christ, the result of which, Bishop Jones was ousted, it is believed that the fight will mushroom as the result of a meeting which began at Holy Temple, 60th and Callowhill, Tuesday at the call of Bishop Jones.

The young Rev. Jones said that the "supposed ouster" of his father was a sham and had not been accepted by either the bishop or his thousand of supporters throughout the country. The spokesman alleged that the meeting was called to set out the principles of the constitutionality of the law of the church and to show that there must be respect for the law by all persons connected with the body.

Rev. Jones further stated that

The Thought Exchange

REFLECTION ON THE ELECTION

Interpretation is quite as important as observation, if not more so, in given situations. The recent elections were matters of startling observations, but also matters demanding studied interpretations. Not only was it firmly established that the nation's two-party political system is very much alive—which in itself is a fine and salutary thing—but a hopeful sign that our vaunted democracy is not merely a forlorn dream. We can easily conceive the advantages which will accrue to the nation from the two-party system; but it is not so easy to see how it will affect the fortunes of the struggling Negroes, with minds set on full-fledged citizenship in a country far from fully decided that he should enjoy this citizenship. So, in summing up the results and trends as shown in the recent elections, it is difficult to avoid the conclusion that on the whole, these were anti-Negro in their general implications. The strong under-current of anti-Johnsonism was a stroke against the Johnson attempt to integrate the Negro. The strength of the anti-Johnsonism in the South, as shown in the South's turn toward Republicanism, points up the fact that anti-Johnsonism is the South's expression of its opposition to the Johnson policies as they pertain to Negroes and the Negroes' civil rights movement, or the newest revolution, as it is so often called. The swing away from the Democratic Party toward the Republican Party was largely an attempt to put brakes on The President's civil rights train. The election results suggested a slow-down in the civil rights movement in general, and on every hand the Anti-Negro Southerners express the hope and joy that the coming Congress will see President Johnson slowed down in his legislative ambitions which clearly include a fuller citizenship for the harrassed Negroes. Anti-Negroism is mirrored in Anti-Johnsonism! Negroes must not be deceived. Johnson is hated because he dared to include the Negro in his Great Society. In fact, the great jibes and jeers at the Great Society presuppose that such a Society will consist of men whose destinies will not be fixed by color, but by human worth. The Old South just cannot conceive of such and so they are against Johnson and his Great Society unto the bitter end, and so the South's
