Greater Love Than This Has No Man But To Lay Down His Life For A Friend

The story of Christ has been told and retold. Nonetheless, it can never become monotonous to those of us who are conscious of another person who would be a friend.

Every day we meet people who are called friends, those we call loved ones, those who are our relatives, but never has the world witnessed such a symbol of love as Jesus Christ, who humbled Himself for the redemption of man.

Possibly it would be easy for many of us to understand the love of Jesus Christ should we listen to a friend who pulled a bully off our back, while he was beating the daylight out of us. We may more easily understand the visitation of Christ to this earth should we become stricken with TB, cancer, etc., and some medic was able to effect a cure.

While it is reported that he never went to church, one of his disciples was instructed to found the church. A church is defined as a called out assembly whose motivation stems from, "Greater love has no man that he gives up his life for a friend."

Raleigh Ministerial Asso. Featuring Good Friday

Under the auspices of the Raleigh Ministerial Association and the Raleigh Council of Churches, composed of ministers of both races, "The Seven Last Words of Christ" will be spoken at First Baptist Church, Friday, beginning at 12 noon.

The Rev. Jack L. Ballard, Millbrook Baptist Church and president of the Ministerial Association will speak the "First Word." The Rev. Dr. John Lewis, First (White) Baptist, will meditate. Joseph Southerland will deliver a special solo.

Rev. Dr. O. L. Sherrill, General Baptist Convention, will say the "Second Word" and the Rev. Dr. Howard Edwin Picard, White Memorial Presbyterian Church will meditate. Mrs. Gloria Perry will sing the solo.

The "Third Word" will be spoken by Rev. Frank Hutchison, Davis Street United Presbyterian Church. The Rev. John Cobb, Holy Trinity Lutheran Church will meditate. The solo will be by Johnny P. Williams.

The "Fourth Word" will be spoken by Rev. Dr. P. H. Johnson, bringing the meditation. Mrs. Margaret Lockamy will render the solo.

Rev. G. Paul Phillips will speak on the "Fifth Word." He is the pastor of Layden Memorial Methodist Church. A duet will be sung by Mrs. E. M. Kelly and Laddie P. Bell.

Rev. Dr. J. I. Warren, St. James Methodist Church will meditate.

The "Sixth Word" will be done by Rev. T. J. Youngblood, Hillier Memorial Christian Church. The Rev. B. S. Foust, St. Paul AME Church will bring the meditation and Mrs. Beatrice Wilson will sing.

The final "Seventh Word" will be brought by Rev. G. W. Larkin, presiding elder, North Carolina Conference of the AME Church. The Rev. James Beckwith, St. Michaels Episcopal Church will bring the final meditation. Mr. Bell will sing the last solo and Rev. Jack Ballard will offer the closing prayer.

Four Days Left To Join Worship Of 7 Last Words

The Raleigh Ministerial Association, composed of ministers of Raleigh, joined in a city-wide observance of Holy Week, which began Monday night. The first service was held at Grace AME Zion Church, with Rev. Frank Hutchinson preaching. The Tuesday night service was at Davis St. Presbyterian and Rev. Norman Mitchell delivered the sermon. The Rev. P. H. Johnson was the speaker Wednesday night at Davis St. Presbyterian.

Invite A Friend To Go With You To Church Easter Sunday

THE QUESTION IS - Are We Interested, Or Are We Not

Inasmuch as there seems to be little interest in this year's city council race possibly several Negro candidates should offer. Of the ten candidates offering for the council, two are Negroes. This seems a good proportion. There have been many fine and able professional and business men and women, who have offered in the past. If their interest could be kindled, Raleigh would have more persons to choose from and should give us the needed number of fourteen, for a primary.

Other boards and councils are not out of reach for more than one Negro to serve on. Surely if there is a dearth of white persons interested in these positions, Negro candidates should be sought, in greater numbers than the usual one to a body of 5, 7 or whatever the number may be.

Possibly now the people of the community are aware of the many Negroes who are capable of filling positions of trust as well as others. There are also Negroes who would carry show a dedicated interest in serving the people of Raleigh. Surely there must be more interested persons than 10, at this point, to run our city's business and more than those who have expressed interest, up to now, to determine our intellectual planning and promotion.

Raleigh has grown and is still growing. Its citizens, of both races, are required to meet the challenge that they now face. It cannot be met unless we get the best among us to chart the course of our government. Our political mores are not sufficient and we must realize this. We must face up to the fact that politics are not in the best interest of our society. We must also find out that individual politics will not put one in office. We must learn to join our forces with other forces, if we are going to make any headway in politics.

JIM GARDNER FLAYS POWELL

TOTS SAVED IN BRONX FIRE - New York: James Lee, 3, and his sister, Jennifer, 2, lie on kitchen table of their apartment as fireman Edward Burke applies resuscitator to Jennifer. The children were overcome when fire broke out in the apartment at 4036 3rd Ave., the Bronx, early March 12th. Fireman said the children had stopped breathing but were revived by resuscitation. They were taken to Morrisania Hospital where they were reported in fair condition. Their mother, Juanita Lee, was treated at hospital and released. (UPI PHOTO)

N. C. Solon Proposes Jail For C. Powell

In a Monday morning news conference Jim Gardner, congressman from the 4th district, to a question, posed by The CAROLINIAN, threw a broad side at Adam Clayton Powell.

When asked whether he would vote again not to seat Mr. Powell if he came back, his answer was a definite YES. The next question was whether he felt that Mr. Powell deserved the role of martyrdom that congress had bestowed upon him by not seating him. His reply, "I think Mr. Powell should be in jail, due to the fact he has violated every moral and ethic right that is incumbent upon a congressman. He has misused the public's funds, he has forged checks and has falsified about expense funds."

The 4th district representative went on to say that he could not see how the Justice Department could get around investigating the conduct of former congressman Powell and he did not see how he could escape a jail sentence, for his escapades.

He was asked about the investigation of Senator Dodd of Conn., and whether he thought the investigation had been as vigorous as that of Congressman Powell. His reply was that he was not as familiar with

Howard U. Students Jeer Hershey

WASHINGTON, D. C. - Lewis B. Hershey, director of the Selective Draft Service was virtually thrown out of a meeting, scheduled to be held on the campus of Howard University, Tuesday, when 50 screaming students surrounded him, waving posters and demonstrating their resentment of his presence.

The 73-yr.-old general was rescued by school officials and led from the auditorium. He left in a huff, after saying "I am insulted and will not speak. The students said that the draft was unfair to the black man and the banners carried such words as "draft beer," not college students."

Hershey has been the target of student protest from the pacifist element on any campus he visits, is running into more general and hostile resentment at Negro colleges.

The day before, Morgan State College, in Baltimore, Hershey received a less rude, but de-

TO RUN AGAINST POWELL - New York: Mrs. Lucille Pickett Williams adjust her hair in feminine fashion as she talks to newsmen March 15th after she was named by Republicans to run against deceased Democratic Congressman Adam Clayton Powell next month. Mrs. Williams, 50 and a grandmother, said she wants to "demonstrate to the people of America that not all Negroes endorse the antics" of Powell. (UPI PHOTO)

From Raleigh's Official Police Files THE CRIME BEAT

EDITOR'S NOTE: We think it fit and proper that we announce to the readers of this column that there was no news to put in this part of the column this week. For the past two weeks crime has not shown its ugly face upon the police blotter as much as it has in past weeks. We are happy over this fact and hope that crime will continue to fall off. We are hoping that the citizens will remember what the season means, and reverently celebrate it by refraining from violating any of the laws of the city and not bringing upon the rights of others. Please turn to page 3 for this week's Crime Beat.

Sweepstakes Participant Wins $45.00

There are two persons in and around Raleigh who could have had $25 and $10 respectively if they had gone into one of the stores that have Sweepstakes tickets. Ticket #1 was not picked up and ticket #6625 was also left in the store. #1 was worth $25 and #6625 would have brought $10.00. This means that $35 is added this week.

6842 is worth $50.00; 5871 will get you $15.00 and 3970 will pay off $20.00. Turn to (See SWEEPSTAKES, P. 2)

We expect a day change in temperature, a high warmer than Thursday and Friday. A little cooler over the weekend and a little warmer Monday. Rainfall will be moderate totaling 1.5 of an inch. Rainfall most likely over the weekend.

DOWN WITH THE DEATH PENALTY

DID NOT CHRIST PAY THE SUPREME PENALTY FOR SIN?

During the Easter season men's minds and hearts are prone to accept One who lived and sacrificed on the cross, beside a thief, so that the human race might be redeemed. Under the law, Christ was put to death. Under man's law, today human beings are being executed to their death for crimes they committed, or of crimes, in many instances, they did not commit.

This era of life, by man, which cannot be resurrected, as did Christ, should be looked upon, by society, with disdain. The public should be aroused to the point of cutting, writing, wiring and where possible, making a personal contact with legislators, asking them to lend all possible influence against the death penalty.

Joseph D. Quillian, Georgia Justice of the Supreme Court, had the following to say about capital punishment. "To know that upon an error of my own a man deprived of his legal rights is going to die is a horrible specter that haunts me day and night."

The following letters are from the collection of Paul Green, Chapel Hill.

Dear children:

"Your daddy died in the gas chamber. I want to say to you that I love you all and hate to part from you but the life I led shining against Jesus he took me from you, your mother and grandmother."

"So, children, please remember this - be good and think about the way your daddy died for being disobedient to God's laws. Please go to church and take Jesus for your savior, read your Bible and Jesus will make you happy and bless you the longer you live. Please mind your mother."

"If you live for Jesus you will see your daddy again. 'Daddy loves you but God loves him better. 'Daddy won't say anymore now only take Jesus for your friend."

Dearest Mother:

"I am writing this letter from the very depths of my heart. There have been times I know dear Mother, when because of my actions, you often wondered did I really love you. But this night as I look forward to being with my Loving Savior, I want to say, like I never said before, I love you, and my only regret is that I did not tell you long ago of my great devotion for you."

"I will be going to be with God, but I shall be waiting for you and our other loved ones, to come up there to be together forever more. Our parting will not be long, so don't cry or grieve for me. Just think we will be together with our Lord for eternity."

"I will never forget the day I got in trouble, because you told me that if I didn't stop and listen to you, I would get into trouble. But I didn't listen to you, and I am very sorry for not heeding your sound words of advice. And I remember very well how you, the good mother you are, stuck with me through everything, even after some others turned their backs on me. I forgive Father for what he said about me at the time I got into trouble. And I have been praying that he may accept God and spend the rest of his life serving the Lord."

"I hope and pray that you will be able to make arrangements with... to have... my darling daughter, to visit and stay occasionally with you at your home. Because I know your love and good advice will be a great help to her as she grows older."

"As to my trial I promised to tell you the truth. Of course the evidence was against me, but I did not kill the man. I believe that my lawyer could have done more if he had dug into the facts of the case, instead of talking so much about my "so called confession" and discrimination."

"I forgive... for what she did to me. I believe no other (See DEATH PENALTY, P. 2)

SNCC Head Predicts Acceptance By Whites

DURHAM - Stokely Carmichael, black power advocate, spoke before an overflow audience in the Page Auditorium at Duke University Friday. His previous speech before the law students was closed to the public and press. However, afterwards, outside the meeting room, opinions varied among the students concerning young Carmichael and the (SNCC) Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee Philosophy.

Many of the Duke students found Carmichael "impressive" and "profound," and others added that he was "evasive," and "shallow." That was before his address at the (See SNCC LEADER, P. 2)

Through the years, in the long struggle for every form of equality and justice, the Negro press has continued to be in the vanguard. It has fulfilled an indispensable role in the civil rights movement.

On its 140th anniversary, I salute the Negro press for its service to the nation, for its courageous battles and its significant victories. I commend its editors, publishers, staffs and supporters for sustaining hope and faith in America's promise of freedom and human dignity. The fulfillment of this promise is the heart and soul of our democratic system.

This year, I am very pleased that in our nation's Capital, the Special Committee on Governmental Affairs of the National Newspaper Publishers Association will participate in a series of briefings and discussions with top federal officials on the great issues facing our people. These meetings will be one of many ways by which we will give fullest meaning to the 1967 observance of National Negro Press Week. For this is a time for pride and for progress.

The Thought Exchange

By GORDON B. HANCOCK

DR. KING'S SECOND GREAT BLUNDER

The sun of Napoleon's military glory that rose so resplendently at Austerlitz and Jena was destined to set dimly at Waterloo by a series of great blunders among the greatest of which was the ill-fated expedition into Russia in 1812. Military historians with the know-how declare that the Russian expedition and its baleful consequences broke the back of Napoleon's amazing military power and sent him reeling to Waterloo when he awoke to the tragic fact that at last the end of his glittering dream had come. He died a tragic figure! There are indications that a parallel can be outlined between Napoleon and Dr. Martin Luther King and it is greatly to be feared that the sun of Dr. King's well-conceived and well-worn glory that rose at Montgomery and its walking protest is now setting at Beverly Hills, Calif. Dr. King's adventure into Chicago halfway pleading non-violence and halfway threatening violence could easily parallel Napoleon's expedition into Russia because it was the Chicago adventure with its boasts and its failure that first caused Dr. King's tactics to be a matter of question. So popular was Dr. King that people felt that he could do no wrong. But when he ingloriously failed to bring about the great Chicago housing revolution, it was like Napoleon's retreat from Russia. I was in Chicago a few weeks ago and there was no great housing revolution and quite noticeably Dr. King has been since unduly quiet. Almost suddenly he dropped from the headlines. Now comes Dr. King from Beverly Hills, Calif. with what amounts to an attack on his country and its administration. He is asking for our pull-out of Viet Nam in the interest of our poverty program. He is advocating our nation's surrender to communism and Russia. He offers not a word of assurance for our country in such abrupt surrender. He fails to tell the nation that an unconditional pull-out means giving the green light to Russia and its communism to take charge of the Twentieth Century world.

Dr. King fails to tell the country that if the world is turned over to Russia until the poverty and Negro problems are settled in this country it means slavery for us all. Poverty should be banished from the land and so should the shameful segregation and subjugation of the Negro. But if we put the solutions of these two evils over against the security and survival of our nation, we are poorly advised if we believe anything will be left with Russia in charge of the world (See EDITORIAL, FEBRUARY, P. 2)
