THAT HERE

Washington meeting by S. E. Dencan of Salisbury, NCTA past president; and Rudolph Jones of Payetteville, NCTA president. Others in the delegation includ-ed Mr. Dawson; Helen Wells of Asheville, NCEA vice - president; and three North Carolinstate directors including Pert Ishee of Fayetteville; John R. Lucas of Durham; and Mrs. Anna Neese of Lexington.

NEA's February directive had called on dual associations in the South which would not be merged by June I, to submit "jointly developed and jointly approved" arrangements for producing merger which could be evaluated by the Executive Committee at the special Washington, D. C., sessions May 20-

Dr. Applegate stressed importance of the June 12 target date for receipt of the clarifying information from North Carolina affiliates. Failure to provide the information would mean that further steps, including possible censure, suspension, or institution of disaffiliation procedures, would have to be taken by the Executive Comm'ttee at its June 29 meeting in Vinneapolis, Minn., prior to the NEA Convention there.

"The primary purpose of the meetings just concluded," she said, "was to determine whether these six southern states, including North Carolina, are in compliance with the intent of NEA Resolution 12-1966 which called on all NEA dual affiliates

The NEA president expressed confidence that in view of the "good faith and progress" al-ready evidenced by North Carolina educational leaders they would be able to satisfy the Executive Committee on questions raised regarding the merger plan. She added:

"In the future as in the past, the NEA Executive Committee will work closely with North Carolina affiliates to help them more shead on implementation of the merger plan in line with NEA policy directives."

Dr. Applegate noted that since July 1, 1966, dual affiliates in Florida, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, and Virginia, have merged, and that all affiliates have now removed racial restrictions of membership from their Constitutions.

DROPOUT (Compared from Page 5)

There were 63 graduates in elementary education and 75 in the secondary education fields as follows: Biology (3); Business Education (13); English (13); History (10); Mathematics (14); Physical Education (12); and Sociology (10). Two candidates of the two year secretarial science diploma are also listed.

Top honor graduates included Mrs. Geraldine Henderson of Fayetteville, (History and Political. Science) who was the valedictorian and magna cum laude; Arletha Williams Mc-Lean of Autryville, (English) cum laude and salutatorian; and Luther Miller, Jr. of Winston-Salem, graduating with a B. S. degree and cum laude.

Key speaker of commencement is Dr. Benjamin Quar-les, Professor of History, Morgan State College.

"Education is the master key for entrance into the mainstream of life," Dr. Benjamin Quarles, chairman of the de-partment of history at Morgan State College, told the 1967 graduating class at Fayetteville State College Sunday. B. S. and B. A. degrees were awarded to 138 candidates at the 90th annual commence. ment in Seabrook Auditorium by Dr. Rudolph Jones, college president, Dean Malvin E. Moore, Jr. and John H. Cook, chairman of the board of trustees. Dr. Quarles stressed the value of higher education by noting that "cybernation and automation have virtually eliminated the demand for unskilled labor."

Dr. Quaries said graduates should see Frederick Douglass, the "father of the civil rights movement" who died in 1895, as their model.

Constant learning and ser-vice to all mankind" were goals cited by Dr. Quaries.

BROWN ed from gage () or whether she made any outcry. Mrs. Fieming is employed at TEM and when interviewed talked glibly, but when confront-ed with questions relative to the inclient, said, "wait a minute," and left the phone. She was a-way from the phone for some-time and later a man's voice said, "I am sorry I will have to have up, one to the fact Ann does not want to talk any

Mr. Brown is well-known in igh ead has not easy been ncilve in the business world, but has been prominent in polltics and civic work. He lives with his family at 500 Deby Dr. He is quite notice in the Monly Street United Church of Carles.

on wom years to Visitanese representa-

"" tuliero I isom wint our restabled will do! in the cores for pulses, he said. "T west to that our what Worth I see that do this market? there is any possibility of

Sea. Brooke' may go on to Cairo is an effort to ease the Mideast crisis. Sen. Brooke said Massachu-setts rabbis and professors from Massachusetts Institute of Technology had urged him to go to both Israel and Egypt.

He said the State Department knew he might go to Cairo, but that he had not talked with Administration officials about the dispute between Israel and the Arab countries.

Dunn Youth

(Campbound from Page One) assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill charge, Police said they arrested him an hour and a half after the alleged shooting.

The girl, Lasta Massey, who police said was sitting in the front room of her home at the time, was hit twice in the hear by the shots.

Police said Leak told them he had an argument with the girl's

DUKE

(Continues from Page One) limitations placed on her social life by the fact that the University's total undergraduate Negro population was three giris and two men. But, she remembers, she came to Duke to study, not primarily for the social life here. "I have met some fine people at Duke and made friendships that I hope will continue through the years," Mimi says.

White, who has been on the dean's list for each of the last two semesters, has received a research assistantship from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. He will begin studies there this fall toward a Ph. D. in statistics. At Duke, he has worked as a part-time consultant to an undergraduate computer programming course in mathematics.

Mrs. Harris went through elementary, junior and senior high schools, as well as the university, in many of the same classes with White.

Soon after her sophomore year at Duke, she married Michael William Harris of Raleigh, a North Carolina College graduate who now works with the North Carolina Fund. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Willie Lee Mitchell of Durham.

She had always dreamed of attending Duke and when the time came to decide on a college, Duke was her first - and only - choice.

Mary found that being one of the university's first Negro students was occasionally convenient.

"At least everyone knows who you are," she says.

(Continued from Page (ime)

the car in which he was riding about lo'clock Sunday morning, came upon a Tintersection on RPR 1143, Il miles south of Smithfield. It was reported that the car crossed the road, throwing Nixon out and crashed into a tree. Two other persons in the car were injured.

A Sunday morning wreck, about II:15, as a party was leaving home to attend church, killed Junious James Carraway, 88, 0.9 miles west of Wadesboro, on U. S. 74. It was reported that the car in which the victim was riding was waiting to make a left turn and another car hit his car and knocked it into the third car. Carraway was said to have been killed instantly. His wife was injured and taken to the hospital and treated for shock, without knowing that her husband had been fatally injured. Ollie Sam Price, 26, died Friday, after having been hit by a car on RPR 1503, 3 miles north of Asheboro at 11:50 a.m., Memorial Day. Price is said to have been riding a bicycle on the wrong side of the highway and when the car swerved, to avoid hitting him, he swerved into the path of the car.

LIBRARIES

(Commune tress Fage Carr) and empowered to do under Article 8, Chapter 160 of the General Statutes of North Carolina. This library will be governed by a Board of six trustees appointed by you.

(2) Preceding under the authority of the general statutes, we then request that you, upon your own motion, call for a special election to consider the question of whether a special tax shall be levied for the support of the newly created it-brary. We propose that in order to support an adequate countrywide public library program, this tax must be approved in an amount of 7¢ per $100 of appraised valuation, and we pro-pose, after considerable sindy, that the date for this tax vote be set for Tuesday, October

And, finally, the Otivia Rancy Corporation, upon ap-proval of this tax question by the voters of Wake County, and catisfied that a countrywhile itbrary system skall be adequate-iy expected, themsed and maintained by Wake County, will printed upon your request as

(a) It will occurry and delivor all of the exacts of the cor-poration principally books, but excluding all monetary assets, to the governing body of the newly created countryolds library on the condition that the Whichel Herry wall costone

the rame of Olivia Ranev and that the branch on New Bern Ave. continue the name Richard B Harrison

(b) We would enter into a fair and equitable agreement with the Board of Trusiees of the new countywide library to provide for the employment of all qualified personnel of the Olivia Raney Corporation at comparable salaries, working hours and conditions now in effect. Thereafter, the Olivia Raney Corporation would perform the essential and continuing function of supporting the Wake County Library system through monetary contributions of its own and the active campaign for library gifts and endowments.

MEHODIST

(Continued from page statement was said to have had the endorsement of the Board of Bishops of the denomination. Bishop W. J. Walls, seniorprelate, and accepted in church circles as "Mr. AME Zion Church" vehemently disagreed with Bishop Tucker and declared that neither the AME Zion Church, nor its Board of Bishops had taken any action, unanimously or unilaterally with reference to the execution in Vietnam or "evasion of the draft. He stated that "while one has the right to determine whether he will serve in combat or in some other capacity with the armed forces, the draft law is a universal symbol of patriotism for which we have no question." As a member of the National Council of Churches, the denomination adheres to the position of the National Council with regards to the war in Vietnam.

The Bishop stated that it is "regrettable" that there was an indiscriminate criticism of Dr. King, winner of the Nobel Peace Prize, attributing inflamatory statements to him and accusing him of actions "near treason." As a personal friend of Dr. King, and a supporter of the Non-Violent Movement (the Southern Christian Leadership Conference), he endorses the spirit and non-violent tactic in the struggle for human rights and world peace. Bishop Tucker's attitude about the matter is said to have been expressed in Indianapolis, ind., last week, when he addressed th Indiana Conference of the denomination, over which he presides. It is further alleged that the statement was given out in Salisbury as the personal feeling of Bishop Bishop Tucker, who reportedly read in his message a letter addressed in President Johnson raising the question as to how long 'the government will permit Dr. King and Stokely Carmichael to roam this country and to commit what I consider near treason."

Bishop Raymond L. Jones, a resident of Salisbury, recently gave an episcopal message, in which he discussed a recent appraisal of five Negro Civil Rights Leaders, in the May 15, issue of Newsweek. He spoke of the apparent "disunity" among them and praised them as "a force for good in helping to push the cause of minority groups in America."

"Certainly, he declared, "I do not agree with all in each one's program, but there is enough they say and enough they do to claim my attention and support in time and in money."

To Bo Mixed

Delegates of the North Carolina Teachers Association who will attend the National Education Association's Conference will meet for orientation on June 10, at 10 a. m. in Greenversity, and at 1 p. m. at the Ruleighite Farms Top Honors At St. Aug.

Dr. P. R. Robinson, president of St. Augustine's Col-lege conferred degrees on 117 students at the Centennial Commencement on May 28. Graduating with honors were Patricia Gill and Cecelia Smith Jackson, cum laude and Frank E. Godfrey, summa cum laude. North Carolinians; Cecil Eugene Alston, Jr., Florence Thorpe Arnold, Frances Baker, Mary Ann Barbour, Alcester Bryant, Naomi Rosaline P. Colden, Marion Lucille Davis, Bet-

J. Debnam, Kenneth D. Dun-Lucinda Marie Fagan, atthew Fisher, Clarence Thomas Ford, Melvin Glenn, Jr., Rosa M. Goodson, Margery E. Graham, Carol Hagans, Dorsey E. Hairston, Lewyn Mc-Cauley Hayes, Alice Marie Holley, Agnes E. Holmes, Susie Ann W. Hunter, Portia Ann Jamison, Beitie Jean Johnson, Alice Faye Jones, Louis Jordan, Shirley Lyle Liggett, Albert E. Love, Lula Mae Davis Mitchell, Edith Ann Murrell, Joseph S. ermond, Vernon L. Perry, Bessie Delores Peterkin, Barbara S. Robinson, Audrey C. Sessoms, Phyllis E. Sharpe, Shelton Steward, Barbara J. Swann, Billy Evans

150 Degrees Conferred At W-S State

WINSTON-SALEM - Degrees were awarded to 150 Winston-Salem State College Students Tuesday at the college's 74th annual commencement exercises in Fries Auditorium.

Dr. Harold W. Tribble, president of the Wake Forest College, was the commencement speaker. He emphasized the status of college graduates as educators in their communities and in the world. "Now that you are assumed to be educated, you must become educators," he said.

As graduates you must function as potential and vital factors in making Winston-Salem State College a more important factor in higher education," the speaker said. "Use your political influence and your pocketbook to support this college. No matter how much that state gives this college, this school needs you," he said.

"Negro Colleges must not be lost in integration. You must improve them and integrate them, too. These schools are of major importance. We cannot afford to lose them nor let them lose strength," he added.

A second function outlined for the graduates was to as educators in the church and in society." "College graduates must help provide leadership in the church and must be involved in the solution of problems of this society," he said. Finally, Dr. Tribble told the graduates that they must influence individuals, especially young people to stay in school, to do their best and to go on to do better things. Dr. Kenneth R. Williams.

president of the college, conferred the degrees and Attorney Winfield Blacknell, chairman of the college board of trustees, introduced Dr. Tribble and presented the diplomas to the graduates. Prizes, awards and scholarships totalling more than $7,000 were announced on the commencement program.

Rev. Henry S. Lewis, college chaplain, gave the invocation leaf Auditorium of Shaw Uni- and benediction and music was furnished by the college choir North Carolina Education Head- under the direction of Dr. James A. Dillard.

A Saucy Sauced Steak

The French have long been famous for the unique way they use sauces to enhance familiar cuts of meat. With the added advantage of convenience products, you can quickly turn a pan-fried steak into something special. The secret is in a bottle of Open Pit Barbecue Sauce—piquant and flavorful, it blends with sour cream and onions to top this steak. Served with tender fresh asparagus, your favorite rolls, and potatoes, it's a dish giamorous enough to star at a company meal. For more wonderful recipes using barbecue sauce, send your name and address including ZIP code to: Open Pit Recipes, Box 1128, Kankakee, Illinois 60901.

1 pound sirloin steak,

cut in 4 pieces 1/4 cup unsifted all-purpose flour 1-1/2 teaspoons sult I medium enion, sliced

2 tablespoons butter 1/5 cup all-purpose barbecue sauce 1/3 cup water 1/3 cup sour eream

Pound steak thoroughly with edge of plate or dull edge of knife. Combine flour and I teaspoon salt. Dredge steaks in flour mixture. Set zeine. Cook onion in butter until wilted. Add bersecue space, water, and 1/2 teaspoon selt. Simmer about 10 minstea. Meanwhile, brown steaks in hot lightly greated heavy skillet. Remove to warm platter. Stir sour cream into hot barbecase sauce mintare. Pour over stenks and serve immediately Makes 4 servings.

Sees More Support For Negro Institutions

chairman of the North Carolina State Board of Higher Education, Sunday predicted that the gap between predominantly Negro and white college: will be closed with increased appropriations to Negro colleges from the State Legislature.

Speaking at North Carolina College's 56th commencement exercise, Hill said, 'I believe this legislature will begin a national breakthrough by making money available to the traditionally Negro colleges to enable them to catch up with their white counterparts.'

"The new policy is to pro-vide not just equal opportunity but... we will do what is necessary to eliminate the causes of future inequality," Bill said, "This means a recogdiscrimination. Can this be

NEW YORK - Dr. James M. Nabrit, Jr., president of How-He predicted that colleges ard University, will receive an honorary Doctor of Humane Letters degree from Yeshiva University at its 36th annual commencement exercises on education." Monday, June 12, it was announced Tuesday by Dr. Samuel Belkin, president. Dr. Nabrit will be among ten distinguished leaders in the arts, sciences, religion and public life who will be honored at the exercises, which will get under way at 10:30 a. m. on the University's Danciger Campus, 185th St. and Amsterdam Ave., New York City. Dr. Nabrit, 66, was elected president of Howard University on July 1, 1960. He has served the University, which is currently celebrating its Centennial year, since 1936. Positions he has held include professor and later dean at the School of Law, director of public relations, administrative assistant to the president and Sykes, Annie Glendora Thomas.

Gwendolyn A. Thompson, Hoyie

E. Utley, William Henry T. Vandergriff, Roosevelt J.

Warner, Lynn E. Williams,

Robert E. Williams, Jr., Patricia' A. Williamson, Joan F.

Creecy, Roy Clinton Evans,

Alma Ree Ford, Barbara A. Mc-

Coy Fryar, Shepherd Scott, Jacqueline M. Burton, Vivian

Grimes, Valjean Myers, La-

Verne Solomon Thomas and An-

Dr. J. M. Nabrit

Honorary Degree

nette Bowers.

To Receive

secretary of the University. An authority on law, he participated from 1945 to 1960 in virtually every major civil rights case. As a member the School of Law faculty, he organized in 1938 the first formal course in Civil Rights Law to be taught in an American law School. In 22 years as teacher of the course, he developed a syllabus and collected more than 2,000 civil rights cases. Many of the legal theories used in civil rights cases before the Supreme Court were developed in Dr. Nabrit's course. Dr. Nabrit who also has served the nation in diplomatic ca- us. But above all (and it is pacities in the Virgin Islands. Puerto Rico and Geneva, Swit- administrators fail to realize) zerland as well as in the United States, was nominated by President Johnson in August, 1965, as U. S. Deputy Representative to the Security Counnition of the consequences of anything but real progress?"

DURHAM - Watts Hill Jr.,

will one day lose their identifications as Negro or white and become "equal partners in a color-blind system of higher The speaker urged restraint on the students, to prevent the upsetting of what he called the "delicate balance" shown by the speaker ban controversy and the 1964 and 1966 elections. "This is no time for an institution to be embarrased by the same rudeness which characterized students at Harvard and Amherst who walked out on the Secretaries of State and the Vice President," Hill said. "I am suggesting that this is a time for the greatest exercise of responsibility and judgment on the part of students, I am suggesting that this is a time for administrators to listen - and to understand what they hear." Hill stated there are good reasons for the special problems of the Negro college, stemming from the pattern of segregation in the past. Prestdents and deans, he said, were caught between the needs of their colleges and society, dependent on churches and legislatures for funds, and the president was unable to be anything but "as conservative as they told him to be." Administrators, he said, can no longer afford to be autocrats. "Students have learned this power. The lessons learned in the social revolution of the past 10 years are not forgotten

when they return to the camp-this fact which today too many cil of the United Nations, a position he held while on leave from the University.

the students often know better what is going on in today's world than do many administra-

"If I were an administrator at North Carolina College today, I would read with great care the bulletins of the Student Government Association both past and future bulletins for among some misunderstandings of fact and occasional intemperate language, there is many a truth to be found," he declared.

The speaker, reminded the faculty that the president-elect of the college, Dr. Albert N. Whiting, has promised them "a central role in determining educational policies and practices" and urged them to accept the responsibilities involved.

He urged students who were graduating - 452 of them to remain involved in the college's affairs. "The quickest way to bring the future into the immediate present is for us all to stop talking about what might have been - about who is at fault - and spend our energies productively in meeting the new challenges, the new opportunities," he added.

undergraduate, graduate, and professional degrees and certificates, the college awarded four honorary degrees.

The undergraduate, graduate, and professional degrees and certificates included 319 bachelor's degrees, Ill graduate de-grees, 12 Master of Library Science degrees, six Bachelor of Laws degrees, and four Sixth Year Certificates. Hill, the speaker, was a-warded the honorary Doctor of Laws degree, as were Louis E. Austin, publisher of The Carolina Times, a Durham weekly newspaper, and William Jones, vice president for financial affairs at NCC and chairman of the interim committee now administering the college. John R. Larkins, consultant to the North Carolina Department of Public Welfare and a member of the college's Board of Trustees, was awarded the honorary Doctor of Humane Letters degree.

Library Grant

NEW YORK, N. Y. - The United Negro College Fund will receive $10,000 from the Jessie Smith Noyes Foundation to help strengthen the library staffs of the Fund's member colleges and universities, Fri-

In addition to conferring 452 . The Foundation grant, which supplement, a similar award made last year, will provide to ward scholarships to 15 practicing librarians who are working toward first professional degrees or toward Masters' degrees in Library Science.

Soon they'll find out i'm only YOUR HUSBAND!

does the light go off?

Take our word for it. It really

Even if you let it burn all night, it would cost less than a penny's worth of electricity. That's indicative of the value of today's electric service.

Actually, it's one of the very few items that have come down in unit price during the past decade. On the average, our customers pay 14 percent less for a kilowatthour of electricity today than they did in 1957.

Your increased use of electricity has helped make this possible. So have our constantly improving methods of producing electric power and delivering it The light in your refrigerator is just one of the countless ways electricity is put to work for you and your family. And the people of CP&L are working right now to make sure there'll always be plenty of electricity in your future.

CAROLINA POINER & LIGHT COMPANY

In investor-comed, temporying public writing company