Ticket Racket Broken Open Here "Hot Tags" Sold In Raleigh Give Officers Much Concern

One of the evils that attend promotions have charges and counter charges flying throughout the city, investigating officers looking for principals involved, has caused the arrest of two well known people and has several people wondering - "Hot Tags."

The urge to make some quick money by having a bogus ticket printed and then selling same, often at a reduced price, has been a headache for promotors of affairs, almost since promotions began. A dance given under the sponsorship of Radio Station WLLE and promoted by James Henry Dulaney, at the Raleigh Memorial Auditorium, Monday night, caused the arrest of Allen B. J. Smith and James D. (Pat) Patterson.

Investigating officers are working on the theory that a number of tickets were printed and sold for the dance that were not controlled by the promotors. Working on that theory and on a warrant signed by William Henry Jackson, they arrested Patterson Tuesday night and the records show that he was placed under a $100.00 bond for his appearance in court.

Allen B. J. Smith was also arrested in connection with the sale of the questionable tickets and is also under bond. He was still being sought by officers Wednesday for further questioning. The CAROLINIAN made several futile efforts to locate him.

The officers are working on the information that Smith operated on Hargett St. Saturday in front of Patterson's Record Shop, both as a photographer and an agent for the sale of the tickets. It is alleged that he took pictures, for a price, and also informed persons that he had tickets for the dance. Officers have one of the boni-fide tickets and also one of the bogus tickets. They are also trying to find who and where the tickets were printed.

In a special interview with the CAROLINIAN Patterson said that Smith came to his place Saturday and said that he was representing WLLE and that tickets sales, for the dance, were going slow and he would like to sell some tickets there, due to the fact that it was a good place to sell them.

Patterson alleges that he told Smith that he did not sell tickets for WLLE, but if he wanted to sell some, on the outside, he had no objection. Patterson further stated that Smith began to ply his trade and sold quite a few outside. He said that Smith at no time told him the tickets were "hot."

Patterson stated that toward the end of the day Smith came to him and said that he had only 10 tickets left and that he was expecting some people to come there looking for them. Patterson alleges that he told Smith he would give the people the tickets and turn the money over, when he returned. Smith, according to Patterson, left the Record Shop to go to Radio Station WLLE.

Smith returned and Patterson alleges that he gave the money for the tickets and that was all he had to do with the tickets.

Held For Armed Robbery

Johnny Thomas, 20, of 407 S. Bloodworth St., is having it pretty rough, even though he had been in jail, in lieu of a $5,000 bond for armed robbery, found himself in deeper, when he was picked Sunday as the trigger man, who committed another armed robbery Aug. 18. Thomas has had an eventful life with the law, despite his age. He was arrested in December 1963 for the larceny of automobiles and received from two to three years, on two counts in 1964. Williams was taken to the line-up Sunday, as officers were attempting to clear up other robberies, from the Wake County jail, where he was under a $5,000 bond, for a Friday night hold-up.

He was picked as the man who held up a Broughton Rd. gas station, on the night of Aug. 18. The accusing finger was pointed by Bruce A. Wood, Rt. 4, who identified him as the man who came into station, drank a soft drink and then waited until the persons whom Wood were waiting on left, Williams is alleged to have pulled a gun and relieved Wood of $126.

Wood says that Williams told him to remain in the rest room for five or ten minutes, or he would be shot.

In the Friday night robbery, (the other robbery was on Fri-day night), he is alleged to have used a different tactic. He is reported to have gone into
