Aid Given Nude Girl Raped 4

According to Deputy Sheriff P. L. Womble, McKeever Dunn rendered an act of mercy early Monday morning when he drove into the driveway of Lakeview County Club, off of Creech Rd., about 2 a. m. The officer is said to have reported that Dunn found 18-year-old, Miss Barbara Elaine Debnam, who gave her address at 419 Watson St., but a visit to the house revealed that her mother lived there and according to her mother she lives at an address unknown to her mother, somewhere on Newbern Ave., in the nude, screaming for help.

It was alleged that she insisted that Blount carry her home, due to the lateness of the hour, but he refused. She is said to have alleged that instead of taking her home, someone turned out the light and she was thrown into a corner. Her clothes were torn off and when she attempted to protect herself, she was beaten by the four men, with their fists.

Local Woman Accuses Cop In Arrest

Mrs. Ethel Bass Watson, 115 Seawall Ave., convinced the judge of City Court Monday that she was not drunk when picked up by an officer, at the corner of Lane and Cooke Sts., Sunday night. Mrs. Watson alleges that she and her husband, Rufus, along with her 9-year-old son, Larry were on their way home, when a white policeman arrested her husband for being drunk. She alleged that when she went to try to talk, in defense of her husband, that the police told her she was drunk and told her she was going to lock her up. She says that she protested and that he hit her in the face. According to her, she was charged with assaulting an officer and being drunk. She alleged that at no time did she strike the officer. She said she attempted to tell him that she wanted to see that her son got home safe and that the officer would not even permit her to give the key to her son. She alleges that she was locked up Sunday night and remained in jail until she was freed Monday.

WOMAN'S DAY SPEAKER - Mrs. Millie Dunn Veasey will be the Sunday morning speaker for the annual Woman's Day observance at the Grace AME Zion Church. Mrs. Veasey is the president of the Raleigh Branch of the NAACP. Everyone is cordially invited to attend this service.

Convicted, But Freed

DURHAM - Mrs. Emma Louise Umstead, 35, Gerard St., was cleared of the 1965 Christmas shooting of her boy friend, Dossie Gray Hoover, 40, in the Tuesday session of Durham County Superior Court. The defendant did not take the stand and plead not guilty to a manslaughter charge which was heard by Judge W. H. S. Burgwyn, without a jury. The judge gave her a suspended sentence and placed her on probation. She was also taxed with the cost of the court. Detective Lorenzo Leathers testified that Hoover was shot with a 22 - caliber pistol and that the bullet virtually cut his throat and then took a downward turn, that destroyed one lung. The officer said that Hoover was taken to Duke Hospital after (See CONVICTED, P. 2)

Protestors Will March To Victory

MILWAUKEE - Open occupancy marchers have vowed to keep on demonstrating in white areas of this city until a strong fair housing ordinance is passed. That they mean business is evidenced by a nationwide boycott declared against the Joseph Schlitz Brewing Company, the city's largest brewery. The beer manufacturer was chosen solely because of its size, march officials said. The boycott, called by the Midwest NAACP, will at first affect the Midwest, then go nationwide, according to march officials, who were determining that concrete gains come of their demonstrations.

They recalled Dr. Martin Luther King's open housing marches in Chicago which resulted in a "summit conference" with civic leaders, a series of agreements, and little action. And they didn't want the same thing to happen in Milwaukee. Girding for an all-out fight, civil rights leaders kept their marches from pitting whites against Negroes by encouraging interracial participation.

Marching at the head of the line were the Rev. James Groppi, White Roman Catholic priest NAACP Youth Council advisor, and comedian Dick Gregory. According to Sidney Finley, NAACP quadstate director, "many whites" are among the hundreds of Milwaukeeans participating in the marches. "At least 800 people from out of town are here, and there are more on the way," he added. The Milwaukee marches have turned out to be the biggest interracial demonstrations since James Meredith's march (See PROTESTORS, P. 2)

Rocked Boat Sends Two To Bottom

George McGregory, 540 E. Davis St., awakened from sleep Tuesday night and related how his step son, Thomas Farmer, Jr. 16, and Marvin Dunn, also 16, both students at Carnegie Junior High School, met their deaths in a watery grave, in Lake Benson, Saturday. Mr. Farmer began by saying, "If I had known this was going to happen I would have not gone fishing." He then began by saying that Thomas was in the back of the boat dancing and rocking the boat and Marvin was only rocking the boat. "This he stated, "caused the boat to sink in the back and rise in the front." This activity, according to the father caused the boat to go under, (See FATHER, P. 2)

IN GARY ELECTION National Negro Vote Could Be Decided

GARY, Inc. (NPI) - All eyes are on this city's mayoral election, which could decide whether the national Negro vote stays aligned with the Democratic party. Running in the election is Richard G. Hatcher, 34, who seeks to become the first Negro to be elected mayor of a large U. S. city in this century. Hatcher has been repudiated by the local regular Democratic organization for refusing to condemn black power advocates Stokely Carmichael and H. Rap Brown. But he drew national fundraising support from Vice President Humphrey and a group of liberal Democrats, sensitive about what could happen to the national Negro vote should Hatcher be defeated. Until the election of President Roosevelt in 1932, Negroes generally had been aligned with the Republican party since the Civil War. The party of Lincoln was identified with emancipation and Southern Reconstruction, while the Democratic party pursued a line more amenable to South segregationists. Roosevelt, however, wooed Negroes away from the Re-

The Crime Beat
Suspected

Lawrence Hinton, 25, 713 Cumberland St., had the finger of suspicion pointed at him by one James Graham Roberts, who is said to live at 428 Morrison Ave. Roberts is alleged to have told police that a business place, 319 S. Person St., was broken into by physical force and change was removed from within. He reported the crime as one of breaking and entering. ***

Caught This Time

The person listed above as being suspect is said to have been caught this time. The same complainant, James Graham Roberts, told the police another story on Lawrence Hinton, which caused him to be charged with larceny on auto, according to police records. It seems that Fletcher Hinton was awakened out of his sleep, by the noise of an automobile due to the fact the car was being driven in a reckless manner, according to police. Fletcher Hinton is reported as having looked out of the window and recognized it as belonging to Roberts Amco Station.

At this point Roberts is brought into the matter. Hinton is alleged to have called Roberts. He identified the car. It is said that there were two men in the car, but the police were only able to detain but one. The other is said to have escaped the clutches of the law. (See Crime Beat, p. 3)

Churches Redeem Crusade Image

MILWAUKEE - Churches of all denominations - often accused in the past of avoiding social issues -- have turned out to be the most avid supporters of this city's open housing demonstrations. Led by the Rev. James Groppi, the marches have been backed by church groups ranging from the National Council of Churches to the American Lutheran Church and the Missouri and Wisconsin Synods of the Lutheran Church. Chicago's Catholic Interracial Council has set more than 30 members to Milwaukee to participate in the marches. William E. Cousins, Roman Catholic archbishop of Milwaukee, has given qualified support to the marches, and the Catholic Diocesan Priests' Senate voted, 21-7, to support Archbishop Cousins' refusal to take action against Father Groppi. Jewish rabbinical and Lay groups have also backed the demonstrations. In supporting the marches, the Lutherans, broke with their tradition of avoiding pronouncements on social issues, especially those as explosive as open housing. The church took an ad in Milwaukee newspapers declaring that "individuals are free to engage in such demonstrations as are lawful under the U. S. Constitution and as may help to focus attention upon racial issues." An influx of clergymen from coast to coast has swelled the ranks of the marchers, who have vowed to continue their demonstrations until Milwaukee gets a fair housing ordinance. Father Groppi specifically called on the nation's clergymen to take part in the demonstrations. And the National Council of Churches, one of the country's largest religious bodies, asked member churches to send representatives to the Milwaukee marches. Some churchmen were particularly interested in participating in demonstrations because they did not want to see the civil rights movement lose its non-violent character. As the Rev. David Benedict, Methodist pastor from Bayport, L. I., put it, after arriving in Milwaukee for the marches: (See IMAGE, P. 2)
