

RAPE

Womble reported that the girl had a cut in the corner of her mouth, bruises on her head and behind one ear. He reported that she received emergency treatment at the Wake Memorial Hospital.

The harrowing story was the fact that after she was beaten each man raped her. She is said to have managed to wrest herself from the clutches of the four men and ran into the yard, just about the time Dunn drove up.

Blount was arrested and placed in the Wake County jail, without the privilege of bond, on a charge of rape, Monday. The arm of the law stretched farther Tuesday night and brought in two more, accused in the crime. Deputy Womble reported that Joseph Carr, Jr., 22, 752 Fitzgerald Dr. and Edward Joseph Lee, 21, 1217 S. Person St., were arrested, jailed and held without bond, on a rape charge, which is scheduled for a hearing Sept. 28.

Just before press time Deputy Sheriff Womble told the CAROLINIAN James Henry Worth, who formerly lived in Raleigh, but now a senior at A&T University, at Greensboro, had been placed in the Wake County jail and was being held on a rape charge, same as the other three accused men.

Mrs. McCain took second place, with $1,064.71. Mrs. Crawford is deputy of her district, #14. The third prize winner was Mrs. McCorkle, who was reported as having $1,043.00 to her credit. This year the following were remembered: March of Dimes, NAACP (Life membership), Morrison Training School, Shaw University, Leonard Training School, O'Berry Center, State Training School for Girls, Eastern Star Scholarship Fund and distressed members. The 1968 session will be held in Oxford.

The tickets are yellow this week and are dated Sept. 16. The ticket with #8130 will bring you $25: #3088 is a whopper. It is a long shot, but not a favorite to the extent it pays less. It will pay $45. If you have 7235 you draw down $10. Visit your store, if it has the Sweepstakes program, pick up your ticket and compare.

The marchers have met considerable resistance as they continue to march into the Polish-American Southside of Milwaukee.

They were greeted with shouts of "White Power," "Hell Hitler," "Go Home," and "Feed Your Rats."

This must have made one of Polish America's historic figures turn over in his grave. Much of the interracial friction occurred near Kosciuszko park, named after the Polish general, Tadeusz Andrzej Kosciuszko, who used his pension for serving in the American Revolutionary War to buy Negro slaves and set them free.

took his suspect, in a car used in the holdup, only two blocks from the bank. Rowland is alleged to have produced a gun and to have disarmed Hope and recovered $5,000 in cash.

Hope is said to have been wearing a pair of blue denim pants, a green work shirt and a white cap, when he entered the bank, with a gun strapped to his right arm. After being captured it is said that this garb covered a neatly pressed pair of slacks, a white shirt and tie. There was found in the car a pair of brown shoes brightly polished, according to the report.

The accused man was reported as being from Milton, and aside from graduating from Winston Salem State he holds a master of arts degree from North Carolina State University.

son Civic Action Committee, a Community Action Agency, which will be succeeded by a permanent homeowners association to be elected from among the development residents.

"This is the type of homeownership plan I had in mind when I testified before the Banking and Currency Committee," said Secretary Weaver. "It was developed in this department and utilizes the principles of the HUD Indian Turnkey self-help program, enabling residents to earn 'sweat' equity by doing the maintenance work themselves and by helping pay for the houses as their income rises."

"It also carries out my home ownership recommendations to the President, adopted by the Kaiser Commission in its August 16 memorandum, urging prompt action on Turnkey I and Turnkey II. The Kaiser Commission recommended flexibility in the traditional management approach of the local public housing authorities - together with a program to encourage the sell-off of public housing projects to co-ops and to private families."

The Secretary declared that this "precedent-making development" in Mississippi has been "encouraged, perfected, and will be financed by the Department of Housing and Urban Development."

"It is a part of the Department's announced program to involve private enterprise to the maximum in all of its activities," Secretary Weaver said. "Also Turnkey III is an element both in President Johnson's program for experimentation in home ownership and in the current drive of HUD to increase by 100 percent the number of new low-income houses occupied during the next 12 months."

Secretary Weaver said the proposed Mississippi development contained several exciting new elements -- the role of the National Council of Negro Women in initiating and coordinating the project, and the Turnkey management organizations to be established.

"This will be the most constructive far-reaching role that the National Council of Negro Women has undertaken in its concern for family life," said Dr. Dorothy I. Height, President of NCNW. "I urge other organizations to consider very carefully the role they can play in bringing together people, programs, and interests that cross all lines in our society -- government, business, social, ethnic, racial, and economic."

"By combining these interests we are achieving a result that the whole country seems to be seeking -- the pride and dignity of the individual and his confidence in his own worth," she said.

The NCNW Program Director for Mississippi is Mrs. Anita Z. Blackwell.

The Harrison Civic Action Committee, headed by Dr. Gilbert R. Mason, will select the families best suited for home ownership and train them in their future role as home owners.

"This kind of training is the key to successful tenant relations with the Housing Authority and with each other," Dr. Mason said. "This is the substitute, at no expense, for many of the services that the taxpayer would have to supply otherwise to create a healthful social living environment, whether the housing publicly or privately owned."

The committee also will provide extensive pre-occupancy training in the care maintenance, and management responsibilities which go with ownership. This training will continue after the families move in to make certain they understand their responsibilities to their own property, to that of their neighbors to the Housing Authority, and the community.

At the same time, the residents, also will be trained as to the functions of the permanent home owners association, which will assume the management responsibility and will represent the residents in their relations with the Housing Authority and the community.

"Home builders have accepted enthusiastically Turnkey I from the standpoint of giving private enterprise the opportunity to build housing for low-income families," Mr. Collins said. "However, with this new ingredient of home ownership, those members of the organizations who feel that they must oppose public ownership should now be fully satisfied that they can participate in the program without reservation."

The Mississippi Regional Housing Authority # 6, which will supervise the development of the North Guilford units, has been working with all participants to launch the program. Executive Director Alfred E. Rushing of the Authority said that the Turnkey III method "could revolutionize the public housing program in this part of the county."

VOTE

whether the Negro vote will remain aligned with the Democrats. If Hatcher is defeated - in a predominantly Negro city - because the local Democratic organization refuses to support him, this might be seen as a signal for a Negro switch to the Republican camp.

Hatcher, an attorney, bucked the Democratic organization to win the Democratic mayoral nomination. He faces Joseph B. Radigan, a Republican businessman, in the general election.

Although neither candidate has based his appeal on race, the election clash has become largely a black and white affair.

Close to 30,000 white voters are pitted against the same number of Negro voters, with most whites expected to vote for Radigan, and most Negroes for Hatcher.

Lacking Democratic organization support, Hatcher's biggest problem is campaign funds. And that's where the group of national Democratic officials comes in.

In addition to Humphrey, they are Postmaster General Lawrence E. O'Brien, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy (D. N. Y.), former Democratic Sen. Paul H. Douglas of Illinois, Sen. Walter F. Mondale (D.-Minn.), Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D.-Pa.), and Vance Hartke and Birch Bayh, Democratic Senators from Indiana.

The national group, anxious to have a Democratic in Gary's City Hall during the 1968 Presidential elections, is backing Hatcher by raising money on his behalf and giving him their moral support.

The future of Democratic elections with the Negro community could depend on how much backing Hatcher gets from the national leaders.

PROTESTORS

through Mississippi. They contrasted sharply with the racial exclusivism of the recent Black Power conference in Newark and the "Black Caucus" at the National Conference on New Politics.

But the marches were not altogether non-violent. Some demonstrators threw rocks at store windows as they marched through predominantly Polish-American areas of the city. And fist - fights between the marchers and white residents erupted.

Members of the NAACP Youth Council, which conducted the march, shouted slogans like, "Sock it to me, black power," and whites residents answered with cries of "white power." Police had to use tear gas to disperse a group of white hecklers.

Earlier, members of the militant youth council took part in the near destruction of the office of Mayor Henry W. Maier. This resulted in a statement by NAACP Executive Director Roy Wilkins that the organization could not condone such activity.

But the NAACP youths had made their point. Mayor Maier changed his stand on open occupancy and said he would support a fair housing law -- to take effect only after half of the city's 26 suburbs enact similar ordinances.

YOU ARE THE DETECTIVE

The headline news that "Big Bill" Garrison has been shot to death by one of the hoodlum members of his own gang does not sadden you too much. The notorious Big Bill has long been a cruel and merciless killer himself, feared not only by his enemies but also by members of his mob.

Prior to this killing, you had been informed by one of your "sources" that eight of Big Bill's followers had been planning to revolt against him and "eliminate" him. And now the job has been done, and it's your unpleasant duty to identify the killer.

According to your information, the eight suspects are Benny Phillips, Tim Mason, Sammy Rowan, Al Willis, Tug Yates, Eddie Hill, Moony Jasper, and Billy Barth.

You have jotted down the following scraps of information about these gang members: 1. Phillips, Rowan, and Big Bill's killer were the most discontented of the gang and the most difficult for Big Bill to control. 2. One of the eight malcontents was, unbeknownst to the other seven, serving as Big Bill's bodyguard, and it wasn't until after Big Bill's death that Yates and Jasper found out about this. 3. The night before Big Bill's murder, Phillips, Barth, Hill, and the bodyguard were seen as members of the crowd around the dice table in a gambling hall just outside of town. 4. Mason, Bill refused to listen to them, Willis and the killer along with the bodyguard, decided it was time for Big Bill to be liquidated. 5. The ringleaders in the revolt against Big Bill's authority were Hill, Barth, and the killer.

Now, after sifting through this information, can you identify which of the eight hoodlums was the bodyguard, and which the killer?

SOLUTION

Neither Phillips nor Rowan is the killer (1). Neither Yates nor Jasper is the bodyguard (2). Phillips, Barth, and Hill are eliminated as the bodyguard (3). Mason, Yates, Willis, and the bodyguard are eliminated as the killer (4). Hill and Barth are eliminated as the killer. (5.) Thus, through this process of elimination, we can identify the killer as Jasper and the bodyguard as Rowan.

REFUSED TO OBEY ORDERS - San Francisco: Army Pvt. Donald Lockman, 23, of Philadelphia, said Sept. 13 he would refuse to obey orders to embark for the Far East Sept. 22. Accompanied by Atty. Terence Hallinan (L), Lockman told newsmen at the offices of the San Reporter, a Negro weekly newspaper, that he wants to do his fighting in the Philadelphia ghettos, rather than Vietnam. (UPI).

POET - Charlene R. Person presents another poem for readers interest.

"TRY TO STAY IN SCHOOL" BY CLARENCE R. PERSON

School life is very important. Among our generation today, we are the students and most of us know that "EDUCATION" is the only way.

Going to school on an average from the age of six to eighteen, is only the first step, to start on our journey, To see what our future will bring.

Whenever you decide to walk out of the door, You're going to wish that you'd stayed And learned a little more.

So don't be a "DROP-OUT" For you're only being fooled You had better take my advice And "Try To Stay in School!"

DUAL ACTION - Washington: Charles Evers, executive secretary of the Mississippi National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, arrived September 10 to tell President Johnson and Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark about voting irregularities against Negroes in the recent state primary elections. Shortly after his arrival, Evers visited Arlington National Cemetery where he placed wreaths at the graves of President John F. Kennedy (left) and his brother, Medgar Evers (right). (UPI).
