

SETBACKS

(Continued from page 1) rector Charles Graves reversed an earlier decision in issuing the no-registration order, after Senate GOP leader Everett M. Dirksen, of Illinois, charged that the anti-poverty workers could become "powerful political tools" by promoting voter registration among potential Democrats.

Hatcher's candidacy has drawn considerable nationwide attention because of its racial overtones.

The nation's Negro vote may hinge on the outcome of the Gary elections, it has been pointed out.

Conversely, powerful political forces both in Gary and outside were determined, for racial reasons, to keep Hatcher from winning.

The Lake County Democratic organization has refused to back Hatcher financially or otherwise, and one of its spokesmen said Gary was "not yet ready for a Negro mayor."

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey entered the Hatcher controversy by supporting the candidate and declaring him to be "capable of the post he seeks."

The veteran Democratic chiefdom taking the unusual political step of contradicting a local Democratic organization, said Hatcher should be accepted "on the basis of who he is, and what he is."

"Will we judge a man on the basis of his experience, his merit... or on false premises?" Humphrey asked.

Also supporting Hatcher was Sen. Birch Bayh (D.--Ind.), who praised the candidate in glowing terms.

The interest in the campaign shown by Humphrey and Dirksen demonstrated the political importance of the Hatcher campaign.

For Humphrey and other Democrats, the election was a last-ditch effort to keep a waning love affair between the party and the Negro community going.

For Dirksen and his party, a Hatcher election could mean the loss of a sizable community to Democratic control.

Dirksen also appeared to be concerned about his white constituents' reaction to a "Negro takeover" in Gary.

Almost lost in the controversy was the candidate himself, criticized for supposed "black power," extremist, and pro-Negro sympathies.

Hatcher said he was "opposed to anyone who advocates violence or hatred or follow that path... I believe in building up, not tearing down."

But few people appeared to be listening.

NNPA

(Continued from page 1) nam, included in this number is 1,000 officers. They supported their argument with the following statistics.

The Army had 12.6 percent colored personnel; Navy, 5.4; Marine Corps, 8.0 and the Air Force, 10.3 percent.

As of that date 16 percent of the fatalities suffered by hostile action in Vietnam or 1,060 out of 6,644 were colored. Again the Army had the highest percentage with 83.2 or 20 percent; and the Marines, 23.3, or 11 percent; the Air Force, 4 or 1.5, and the Navy only one out of 199 or 0.5 percent.

EQUAL EMPLOYMENT-Opportunities in the Department of Defense, the need to include colored contractors in the $47 billion contract outlay by the DOE, and action programs to include more colored civilian personnel in DOD were discussed.

In addition, the urgency of strengthening the programs to assist colored veterans separated from the services in making the transition from military to civilian life was emphasized, and DOD was urged to include more prominent colored entertainers in visits to Vietnam and other overseas installations.

OVERTONES

(Continued from page 1) programs which will simultaneously serve those not so handicapped," Dr. Whiting said. He stressed the role a faculty must play in the development of such programs.

"My hope is to assemble and encourage here a group of teachers who believes in the potential of their students to attain satisfactory norms rather than those who decry their alleged incompetence; teachers who have the ability to motivate students and live their levels of aspiration rather than those who are wedded to the 'grades' approach; teachers who so excite their students that they are led to think rather than simply to memorize and regurgitate; teachers who can develop creative imagination in students and who themselves are creative in the solution of problems; and finally, teachers who in their behavior and interests represent models of liberally educated persons."

The veteran Democratic chiefdom taking the unusual political step of contradicting a local Democratic organization, said Hatcher should be accepted "on the basis of who he is, and what he is."

"Will we judge a man on the basis of his experience, his merit... or on false premises?" Humphrey asked.

Also supporting Hatcher was Sen. Birch Bayh (D.--Ind.), who praised the candidate in glowing terms.

The interest in the campaign shown by Humphrey and Dirksen demonstrated the political importance of the Hatcher campaign.

For Humphrey and other Democrats, the election was a last-ditch effort to keep a waning love affair between the party and the Negro community going.

For Dirksen and his party, a Hatcher election could mean the loss of a sizable community to Democratic control.

For Humphrey and other Democrats, the election was a last-ditch effort to keep a waning love affair between the party and the Negro community going.

For Dirksen and his party, a Hatcher election could mean the loss of a sizable community to Democratic control.

Dirksen also appeared to be concerned about his white constituents' reaction to a "Negro takeover" in Gary.

Almost lost in the controversy was the candidate himself, criticized for supposed "black power," extremist, and pro-Negro sympathies.

Hatcher said he was "opposed to anyone who advocates violence or hatred or follow that path... I believe in building up, not tearing down."

But few people appeared to be listening.

MURDERED

(Continued from page 1) for the sleeping units. The prison consists of 8 dormitories. Four of the dormitories are reserved for white inmates and four are for Negroes. From information received from Major Ross, Leroy was "off limits."

He further claims that he doesn't know why Leroy climbed the stairs leading to the white unit.

When asked to elaborate on a statement he had made earlier about "sexual overtones" being involved in the murder, Major Ross stated that the three prisoners, Battle, Smith, and Morgan have been reputed as being homosexuals.

Tension among the Negro prisoners were pretty high after the death of Battle. Many of them were not at all satisfied with the situation surrounding the slaying of Battle. Major Ross said in the interview that about 90 of the Negro prisoners employed in the laundry division of the prison, refused to work Tuesday. Many of them disliked the idea of a white man stabbing a Negro with a pitchfork. According to Ross, one of the prisoners stated, "Since Dwight Parrish is white, I doubt if anything happens to him."

The "demonstration," as it was termed by Major Ross, was quite orderly. In order to "avoid confusion," the 90 demonstrators were transferred to Central Prison, Ivy Bluff, and Odum. One third of the group was assigned to each unit. Sheriff J. R. Daniels, of the Halifax Sheriff Department, informed the office that the transfer of the prisoners was quite "orderly."

Dwight Parrish will be given a preliminary hearing on October 3. He has been reassigned to Central Prison here in Raleigh.

"HOPEFUL"

(Continued from page 1) Vietnam.

Stanford Chaplain Dr. B. Davie Napier said the couple had discussed their marriage with him and were "well aware" of the problems involved.

"I wanted to be sure they were aware of the difficulties a bigoted society may place in the way of their marriage," Dr. Napier said, adding that he was confident that the couple would have a happy married life together.

The chaplain said Rusk had told him he was "hopeful" about the outcome of the marriage.

The bride is a Stanford sophomore, who shares a strong interest in horseback riding with her husband. They met several years ago at a riding stable near Washington.

The pinto pony named "Navejo" that played cupid for Guy Smith and the Secretary of State's daughter is in shipment west, TME magazine reports in its forthcoming issue.

The 1 1/2-ton cutting horse, trained for jumping as well as riding, had been in the words of the groom's father, Clarence Smith, an "only brother" to his son and the "common denominator" between Guy and Peggy, who were among the few riders that the stubborn horse took to at the stable where the couple met. Guy was then 18 and Peggy 14.

The horse "Navejo" now aging and somewhat flabby, is enroute to join them in California after the honeymoon.

Morgan's line play is anchored by the All-American candidate Gerald Boyd, 6-2 195-pound senior end, was selected by many pro teams last year. He is considered one of the best blockers and pass receivers on the team.

The starting veteran backfield for Morgan will have Daryl Johnson at quarterback, George Mock and John Fuqua at halfbacks and William Brooks at fullback.

Johnson, the number one field general last year, completed 44 of 81 passes for 714 yards and eight touchdowns. Boyd was on the receiving end of 17 of these tosses for 319 yards and five TDs.

Carroll said North Carolina is looking for ways to bring in more teachers.

"I have asked our department to look anew and afresh at any possible obstacle or deterrent preventing out-of-state teachers from converting their certificates for our state," he said. "I am hoping this will help us get a better supply of teachers."

Carroll said it will be necessary for the state to provide more and greater scholarship aid for prospective teachers to attend college. He said a study by his department showed the costs of attending North Carolina colleges and universities "have mounted rapidly and appreciably."

The Gospel Travelers Anniversary began at 7:30 with Miss Jannie Faye Watkins and Miss Lucille Young in charge. The Gospel Travelers wish to thank their many friends who came out and helped them celebrate this affair.

Our missionary service began at 3 p. m. with Mrs. Dozie Robertson and Mrs. Hattie Moore in charge. Speaker for the evening was Rev. Vandergriff. The subject was "The Ship of Salvation" from St. Mark, 10th chapter, 50 verse.

These proposals, together, would bring us significantly closer to the goal of the Conference, "an integrated, democratic, plural society in which every individual is accorded equal rights, equal opportunities and equal justice..." In our statement of purpose we recognize that civil rights cannot be considered in any narrow sense but must also mean "the realization of social and economic conditions in which alone the fulfillment of these rights is possible." The proposals that will be before the Senate shortly will help create the necessary conditions.

In his Poverty Message to Congress this year, President Johnson observed that while many Americans have found employment during the three years of the War on Poverty, "economic policy and unprecedented prosperity have not reached thousands of men and women who live in the nation's slums."

The Clark-Javits Emergency Employment Act with its immediate promise of 200,000 new jobs the first year and 300,000 jobs the year after that, would begin to move thousands of the unemployed and unskilled poor into a position where they can become functioning members of American society, able to enjoy their constitutional rights.

NCC Eagles To Meet Champs

DURHAM - The North Carolina College Eagles will open their 1967 home football season against the powerful Morgan State College Bears Saturday afternoon. Kickoff time for the CIAA contest is set for 1:30 p. m. on the O'Kelly Field, on the NCC campus.

This will be the first game of the season for the defending CIAA champion, Morgan. However, this will be the second test of the campaign for Coach James Stevens' NCC gridlers. The Eagles dropped a 27-12 decision to Allen University in Columbia, S. C. last Saturday.

Coach Earl Banks' Bears will put a 20-game winning streak on the line against the Eagles. Morgan has gone undefeated for the last two years posting 9-0 records both years. Morgan climaxed its 1966 season with a 14-6 win over West Chester (Pa.) in the Tangerine Bowl of the NCAA Atlantic Coast Championship Game.

Morgan has moved ahead of NCC, 9-6-1 in the series between the teams by virtue of winning the last three years. The Bears have held the Eagles scoreless in these three outings, winning 27-0 in 1964, 33-0 in 1965 and 21-0 last season.

Morgan lost 13 veterans from last year's team but still the Bears boast a strong team. The Baltimore eleven has been chosen as the team to claim the title again this season.

Morgan's line play is anchored by the All-American candidate Gerald Boyd, 6-2 195-pound senior end, was selected by many pro teams last year. He is considered one of the best blockers and pass receivers on the team.

The starting veteran backfield for Morgan will have Daryl Johnson at quarterback, George Mock and John Fuqua at halfbacks and William Brooks at fullback.

Johnson, the number one field general last year, completed 44 of 81 passes for 714 yards and eight touchdowns. Boyd was on the receiving end of 17 of these tosses for 319 yards and five TDs.

Carroll said North Carolina is looking for ways to bring in more teachers.

"I have asked our department to look anew and afresh at any possible obstacle or deterrent preventing out-of-state teachers from converting their certificates for our state," he said. "I am hoping this will help us get a better supply of teachers."

Carroll said it will be necessary for the state to provide more and greater scholarship aid for prospective teachers to attend college. He said a study by his department showed the costs of attending North Carolina colleges and universities "have mounted rapidly and appreciably."

The Gospel Travelers Anniversary began at 7:30 with Miss Jannie Faye Watkins and Miss Lucille Young in charge. The Gospel Travelers wish to thank their many friends who came out and helped them celebrate this affair.

Our missionary service began at 3 p. m. with Mrs. Dozie Robertson and Mrs. Hattie Moore in charge. Speaker for the evening was Rev. Vandergriff. The subject was "The Ship of Salvation" from St. Mark, 10th chapter, 50 verse.

These proposals, together, would bring us significantly closer to the goal of the Conference, "an integrated, democratic, plural society in which every individual is accorded equal rights, equal opportunities and equal justice..." In our statement of purpose we recognize that civil rights cannot be considered in any narrow sense but must also mean "the realization of social and economic conditions in which alone the fulfillment of these rights is possible." The proposals that will be before the Senate shortly will help create the necessary conditions.

In his Poverty Message to Congress this year, President Johnson observed that while many Americans have found employment during the three years of the War on Poverty, "economic policy and unprecedented prosperity have not reached thousands of men and women who live in the nation's slums."

The Clark-Javits Emergency Employment Act with its immediate promise of 200,000 new jobs the first year and 300,000 jobs the year after that, would begin to move thousands of the unemployed and unskilled poor into a position where they can become functioning members of American society, able to enjoy their constitutional rights.

Dr. Weaver Addresses 1st Assembly

The students of DuBois School were challenged by Dr. Frank P. Weaver to continue their education for their own personal gains.

Dr. Weaver, Educational Consultant with the State Community College program, spoke at the first assembly for the school year, Sept. 22. He was invited by Mrs. E. W. Perry, Guidance Counselor at DuBois.

John Bledsoe introduced Dr. Weaver who spoke on "Education Pays in So Many Ways." The speaker equated the benefits of education to "Gold Coins on a Bracelet." He listed some of the coins as (1) The improvement of earning power, (2) Thorough knowledge of health habits, (3) Personal satisfaction, and (4) Good citizenship.

During his address, Dr. Weaver informed the students of the many new jobs in Industry, Health, Technology, and Construction which are being offered by the Technical Institutes and Community Colleges in North Carolina. He stated that, "The purpose of these schools is to provide education for the people of the state who for various reasons cannot attend a four year college."

Miss Lois Langley was mistress of ceremonies and Miss Jacqueline Ricketts directed devotional music for the program.

The principal, Mr. T. J. Culler, expressed the gratitude of the staff and students to Dr. Weaver.

The battle cry of the Civil Rights Movement in the March on Washington, August 28, 1963, was "Jobs and Freedom." The 112 national civil rights, religious, labor and civic organizations in the Conference believe we can help make that cry a reality by urging all members of Congress to vote for the Economic Opportunity Act in the form in which it is now before the Senate of the United States.

Allen (B. J.) Smith, who was charged in an illegal sale of tickets during the early part of the month told the CAROLINIAN Tuesday that Magistrate B. W. Poole dismissed the case for lack of evidence.

In a statement, prepared by Smith, for the CAROLINIAN, he stated that the following is a running account of the matter.

"It was alleged that Smith, a local man, sold joke advance tickets to a dance that was held at the Raleigh Memorial Auditorium. According to Smith he was given the tickets, by a man, who claimed to be a representative of WLEE Radio (WLEE was the sponsor of the dance). Smith states that the WLEE representative agreed to pay him 10% commission for selling the tickets. He further states that on Friday, before Labor Day, the WLEE representative approached him, at his home and asked him (Smith) if he were interested in selling some advance tickets, for a dance, that his company was sponsoring. Smith states that he sold a portion of the 200 tickets he was given, and on Labor Day morning the WLEE representative came to his home and picked up money for about 125 tickets and gave him his 10% commission. The WLEE representative failed to return to Smith's home on Labor Day night, as he stated he would, to collect the money for any other tickets he (Smith) had sold."

Rush AMEZ Church Dedicates Center The pastor, officers, members of Rush Metropolitan AME Zion Church, together with members of the Board of Directors of the recently-opened Day Care Center took part in a dedicational service Sunday. Bishop W. A. Stewart, who presides over the work of the denomination in this area, was the speaker for the formal dedication. The prelate began by saying that the venture was evidence of a church that intends to do something about the community. He commended everyone for the manifested interest in the Center and told them that its outreach would be beneficial to all concerned.

Go To Church Sunday

NEW FACULTY - Shown, left to right, are Mrs. Margaret A. Piloniak, Department of History; John J. Penick, Department of Philosophy; Miss Lillie Lewis, Department of Romance Languages; James N. Colt, Department of Education; and Charles Carreras, Department of History. All are new faculty members at North Carolina College.

AT SHAW UNIVERSITY WORKSHOP - Claude E. West, Jr., Philadelphia, Pa. senior, is shown presiding at a session of the First Annual Workshop for student residents, tutor-counselors and orientation assistants at Shaw University this week. Staff members shown on back row from left, Charles L. Coleman, dean; Mrs. Elizabeth B. Cofield, dean of women; Tennyson Johnson, student; Mrs. Hazel Small, University counselor; and Thomas E. Kee, dean of students. (See story.)

Magistrate Poole Dismisses Smith

Allen (B. J.) Smith, who was charged in an illegal sale of tickets during the early part of the month told the CAROLINIAN Tuesday that Magistrate B. W. Poole dismissed the case for lack of evidence.

In a statement, prepared by Smith, for the CAROLINIAN, he stated that the following is a running account of the matter.

"It was alleged that Smith, a local man, sold joke advance tickets to a dance that was held at the Raleigh Memorial Auditorium. According to Smith he was given the tickets, by a man, who claimed to be a representative of WLEE Radio (WLEE was the sponsor of the dance). Smith states that the WLEE representative agreed to pay him 10% commission for selling the tickets. He further states that on Friday, before Labor Day, the WLEE representative approached him, at his home and asked him (Smith) if he were interested in selling some advance tickets, for a dance, that his company was sponsoring. Smith states that he sold a portion of the 200 tickets he was given, and on Labor Day morning the WLEE representative came to his home and picked up money for about 125 tickets and gave him his 10% commission. The WLEE representative failed to return to Smith's home on Labor Day night, as he stated he would, to collect the money for any other tickets he (Smith) had sold."

Rush AMEZ Church Dedicates Center The pastor, officers, members of Rush Metropolitan AME Zion Church, together with members of the Board of Directors of the recently-opened Day Care Center took part in a dedicational service Sunday. Bishop W. A. Stewart, who presides over the work of the denomination in this area, was the speaker for the formal dedication. The prelate began by saying that the venture was evidence of a church that intends to do something about the community. He commended everyone for the manifested interest in the Center and told them that its outreach would be beneficial to all concerned.

Go To Church Sunday

Advertisement for RCA Victor color televisions. Features include: 'Now You Can Own A Color TV For Only Pennies Per Day!', 'Nothing Down... After 36 Months You Enjoy Color at No Cost!', 'RCA VICTOR 18" DIAG. COLOR PICTURE 44c PER DAY', 'RCA VICTOR 20" DIAG. COLOR PICTURE 57c PER DAY', 'RCA VICTOR 23" DIAG. COLOR PICTURE 63c PER DAY'. Includes images of the televisions and promotional text.

Large advertisement for Jim Beam Kentucky Straight Bourbon Whiskey. Features a bottle of Jim Beam, the text 'Kentucky Straight Bourbon Whiskey 86 proof', and 'Jim Beam' in large stylized letters. Price information: 4.25 for 4/5 qt., 2.70 for 1/2 qt.