Six Jailed In Bizarre Scheme

PHILADELPHIA - An unidentified investigator of the Revolutionary Action Movement, an ultra-militant group reported to have plotted the assassination of President Lyndon B. Johnson and other key U. S. leaders, declared last week that Robert F. Williams, formerly of Monroe, N. C., is the leader in exile of the bizarre scheme.

Williams, former leader of the Union County (N. C.) NAACP fled the United States several years ago rather than stand trial in the South for what he described as a trumped-up charge against him of involvement in the kidnapping of a white couple.

He went to Cuba, where he launched a campaign against "U. S. imperialism, fascism and racism." He is now said to be living in communist China and last week was expected to be an honored guest at the National Day celebration in Peking.

The linking of Williams with the plot by RAM to assassinate top U. S. and city officials and dynamite public buildings came to light as huge bonds were set for six RAM members, reported to be connected to the plot. The bail, set by Judge Lee Weinrott, totaled nearly $200,000. Local police are still seeking a seventh member of the group.

Williams is editor of a newsletter called the "Crusader" which attacked racism in the United States and which has been banned in America. Williams charged that President Johnson was responsible for the banning.

The investigator here said Williams had learned "armed revolution" from the master-Chairman Mao.

In addition to the President, FBI Director, J. Edgar Hoover was also marked for assassination.

The plot by RAM, which is rumored to have Communist leanings, was uncovered when two members tipped-off local authorities.

Housing Tension Easing

DURHAM - The return of the delegation from Washington Monday was expected to have great impact on a meeting of the Durham Housing Authority when it met Wednesday, 10 a. m.

Two proposals for "turnkey housing" were on the agenda, along with the controversial Bacon St. project. The Benjamin St. project is expected to be reopened even though the City Council refused to zone it from the present two-family residential zone.

Developments in the Bacon St. controversy took a new twist as H. M. Michaux, Jr., an attorney, said a federal housing official's letter made public Tuesday "gives us an out."

In the letter from E. R. Williams, development director of the Atlanta regional office of the Housing Assistance Office, Durham officials were told: "As recently suggested we agree to your presenting the following sites." The letter noted five sites for "tentative approval," and this, Durham Negroes say, was a "package deal" that would not have been approved if the Bacon St. site were submitted alone.

The letter continued, "Our agreement on presenting those sites in your development program..."

Dance Produces Shooting

GOLDSBORO - Saturday afternoon about 4:50 two women, Zealy DeVaughn and Esther Virginia Shepherd, engaged in an affray with the result being serious injury to one party. These two women were among a number of people at 308 Bright St., where there was some dancing and roughness.

Esther Shepherd was alleged to have been dancing with Zealy's boyfriend, Robert Lee Smith, and Zealy became outraged. They argued, then became violent.

Supreme Court Says Now

WASHINGTON, D. C. - The United States Supreme Court left no doubt in anyone's mind that it meant business when it told the Deep South Monday to set its house in order.

The court told the 12-judge 5th Circuit Appeals Court that it would have no part of its "each state doctrine." The order told six southern states that all grades, in all public schools, must be open to both Negroes and whites, this school term.

The Appeals Court directed each state to bring about at once "a unitary school system in which there are no Negro schools and no white schools just schools."

After the high court refused yesterday to review it, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People said the 5th Circuit ruling was "the most influential school desegregation opinion" since the Supreme Court's landmark 1954 decision.

NAACP REACTION - The NAACP said Monday's announcement would "accelerate" school integration. It said "we are proceeding in almost

41 Die In Traffic Mishaps Since Oct. 2

The Highway Traffic records show that since October 2 thirty three whites died and seven Negroes lost their lives up to and including October 8.

On Thursday, Willie Claude Thaxton, 54, 120 Dudley Street Danville, Va., lost his life in Caswell County, on NC-86, 11:15 p. m., when he was struck by a vehicle, while standing in the highway.

Thomas Boone, 3 months, Rt. 2, Gibsonville, was killed when the car in which he was riding was struck in the side by a car that was on the wrong side of the road, at 11:30 p. m., Friday, on U S-70, 1.3 miles east of Greensboro.

There was a double fatality in Montgomery County, 10:20 p. m., Friday, on NC-105, 2.3 miles south of Mount Gilead. Janice Faye Payton, 19, 2000 30th Avenue-N, Birmingham, Ala., and James Patterson, 18, Mt. Gilead, lost their lives when the vehicle, said to have been traveling at a high rate of speed, went out of control, ran off the road, struck two power poles and overturned several times.

In Bertie County Saturday, 4:00 p. m. on RPR-1500, 3.5 miles southeast of Windsor, Willie Adolphus Mebane, 19, was killed when a speeding car went out of control and overturned.

Harnett County registered one as having occurred at 1:50 a. m., Saturday. Willie Glenn Thomas, 21, Amos Mad, Barbour's Point, Hawaii, is said to have been killed as a result of operating a car at excessive speed, on RPR-2030, (See MISHAPS, P. 2)

Alabama Girl Prods Johnson

ATLANTA, Ga. - Joyce Turner, honor graduate of a Prichard Alabama high school, just would not let money nor conditions deter her from getting an education and set out to do something about it.

She says she pondered her situation and came to the conclusion that if America could aid peoples of foreign lands it should be able to aid her in getting an education.

So she wrote to President Johnson for help. Twice.

Now she's a freshman at Morris Brown College in Atlanta after a whirlwind climax two weeks of uncertainty and discouragement.

"Maybe now my younger brothers and sisters will be able to go to college, too," said Miss Turner, 18, in an interview Sunday.

She is next to the oldest of seven children. Her father, Willie E. Turner, is a laborer (See GIRL, P. 2)

CONGRATULATES WINNER - Cleveland Mayor Ralph Locher (arrow) is engulfed in the celebrating supporters of Carl Stokes as he arrives at the Stokes headquarters to congratulate Stokes on winning the Democratic Mayoralty Primary election Oct. 3. After Stokes defeated incumbent Mayor Locher the victory celebration spilled into the street and Mayor Locher had to fight his way through to offer his congratulations to the winner. (UPI PHOTO).

"Right" Man Is Found

"To err is human; to forgive is divine." Yet, this old saying is not in the mind of Hiawatha Wynn. Although most newspapers have quoted Wynn as stating that he does not hold a grudge against anyone, a personal interview with Wynn, his family, and his friends reveal facts which are quite different from previous statements.

PARENTS TURN TEACHER AWAY FROM SCHOOL - New York: Teacher John Marsh had his beard fondled by students at the controversial Intermediate School (PS) 201 as New York public school teachers returned to their classrooms Sept. 29th, ending an 18-day work stoppage. Later, Marsh, one of the teachers who had warned Sept. 28th that there might be community harassment at ghetto schools, was shoved back from the entrance of the school by an unidentified man. Marsh and another teacher declined to enter the school. (UPI PHOTO).

Psychologist Says Leaders May Face Riots

CHICAGO - Dr. Kenneth B. Clark, a prominent New York psychologist and the architect of that city's largest and most controversial anti-poverty program warned a group of Negro office holders that they may be the targets of future riots if they are remiss in providing constructive programs for Negro ghettos.

Speaking here before a national conference of elected Negro officials, the Negro psychologist told the group that the ghetto Negro of today is cynical, bitter, hostile and frustrated at the lack of progress in jobs, housing, schools and other problems of the slums.

"Elected Negro officials are seen as, and are in fact, middle class," Dr. Clark said. "And unless you can produce positive results on problems that affect the masses, you may become the 'specific' targets of riots," he added.

"Lines of communication must be kept open and Negro officials must try to learn as much as possible from Negro nationalist," he said. He urged the 300 Negro officials attending the conference to discipline the constructive, emotional, and practical potentials of the Black Power movement.

However, Dr. Clark acknowledged that the Negro officials' middle class status obstruct positive communication between themselves and the masses of Black people.

The psychologist said that the few political appointments of Negroes and the fact that more industries and colleges were looking for "one or two qualified Negroes" were looked upon with contempt and scorned as tokenism by the Negro masses.

"The masses see the advances of the middle-class Negroes as being at their expense," Dr. Clark said, "or obscuring their plight, or, at best, not being in any way relevant to their being condemned indefinitely to their dehumanizing predicaments."

"There are some clues which suggest that the recent ghetto explosions were not only anti-white, but also involved vague stirrings of anti-Negro middle-

Alabama Jail Beckons King

ATLANTA, Ga. - Martin Luther King said here Tuesday that he will go to jail "willingly and in clear conscience" in compliance with the refusal of the United States Supreme to change its decision on his appeal from five day-sentence that he received for 1965 demonstrations in Birmingham, Ala.

King was not too happy about the decision by the high court and said, "The Supreme Court turned its back on an appeal to reason and the most fundamental freedom that all Americans cherish."

King and seven other ministers received the sentence from a lower Alabama court and appealed it up to the nation's highest court. The court ruled 5-4 to uphold the Alabama sentence, in June. The case found its way back and it was one of the first that the present session had to deal with, upon its opening.

A spokesman said King, head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, would voluntarily return to Alabama to pay the penalty when the final papers are processed, probably in a month.

SWEEPSTAKES NUMBERS

Anyone having current PINK tickets, dated Oct. 7, 1967, with proper numbers present same to The CAROLINIAN office and receive amounts listed above from the SWEEPSTAKES Feature.

One Winner "Was So Happy"

Mrs. Pearl Hayes, 300 S. Haywood Street, Garner, was the only winner of Sweepstakes last week. She picked up a ticket at Carter's and compared it and came straight to the office and picked up her winnings.

She had the following to say, "I was so happy." She said

You can win too. Just do business with the stores listed on the Sweepstakes page and pick up the tickets that are to be found there. Compare them with the numbers shown here. Be like Mrs. Hayes, if you do not win this week, pick-up the tickets that are to be found there. Compare them with the numbers shown she had been playing Sweepstakes for six months and it was the first time she had won.

Bids White Americans Adopt New Approach

JAMAICA, N. Y. - A local resident who is a veteran of the civil rights movement, last week advocated that white Americans adopt a new approach to solving problems of the Negro which he calls a concept of "Self-Interest, Not Stupidity."

Peter Saltz, an active leader of the Jamaica NAACP branch for 15 years, said in putting forth his concept, that "white people must learn to think and believe that every extra dollar, every educational enrichment, every advancement by black people benefits rather than harms white people."

"America does not need a professional or political dogooder approach to the black man, however well-intentioned" he declared. "Neither does America need a number of clergymen preaching to an indifferent congregation about equality, fairness and brotherhood of man."

Basically, Saltz asserted, "America needs the really selfish approach that the life of each white America will be better materially in dollars and goods, in comfort and safety, if the black citizenry gets its fair share of the gross national product."

Support for Saltz's proposal was voiced by W. Eugene Sharpe, Jamaica NAACP president, who pointed out that more than 50 years ago, white persons helped to organize the NAACP. In return, he felt that, Negro men and women would offer modest financial aid, legal talent and administrative help to white persons who desire to organize themselves under the SNS concept.

Saltz, currently a vice-president of the Jamaica NAACP chapter and a Wall Street broker, has been a member of the executive board for 15 years and an officer for seven. He was the originator of the national campaign against Mississippi bonds in 1964 and 1965.
