news story appeared in the Monday morning local newspaper, in which Durham Community House was played up as a refuge for homeless girls, the City Council, Monday night, ordered city attorneys to seek a civil injunction against the operators, due to the fact that the operations are not permitted in the zone in which the home is located.

The order is said to have been based on the fact that the operations are not in compliance with the zoning ordinances. The solons maintained that the area was zoned for "one family residential" and the operations violate all of the authority that the zone permits.

The home is located at 901 S. Duke St. The house has come in for much criticism, Mrs. Newton and other concernaccording to the news story, due to the fact that many of the neighbors, all-white, resent the

Mrs. Anne Arnold Hedgemann, director of Ecumenical Action of the National Council of Churches, speaking at North Carolina State University Tuesday, defended the Negro discontent over the treatment he has received throughout the years. Dr. Hedgeman, considered an authority on many national issues, told the N'CSU Erdahl-Cloyd Union that the Negro has not been violent, but reacted to the violence that he has been receiving, in a way that his gro in more ways than one way. She said that even though violence is the American way, the Negro has been less violent than any other segment and has suffered more, as the result of violence, than any other segment.

In commenting on what the Negro wants, she said, "Negroes want everything - everything that any other American wants." She was forceful in pointing out that the Negro was more deeply rooted in American heritage than any other group, except perhaps the Indians. She was mindful that could be seen as a mirror, to the Negro was no longer begreflect the violence that has ging at the bountiful Ameri-

American Documentary Films announces the production of their new film, Revolution in Black America, written by Larry Neal. This will be the first time any film organization has viewed ghetto problems through ghetto eyes, Several films on urban unrest have been made, but never presented from the point of view of the people most concerned. Revolution in Black America will be written and photographed by Black People.

A feature length semi-documentary, production has begun with footage taken in Newark and Harlem, location recordings of speeches, poetry readings and other socially and culturally significant events. To coordinate production of Revolution in Black America, American Documentary Films has opened a new office in New York City in the Bleecker Street Cinema whose owner, Lionel Rogosin, director of "On MERIDAN, Miss. - It's Wednesday morning in this town, that has watched, with mixed emotions, the trial of 18 white men, charged with conspiracy, for 9 days, in the death of two white "Foreigners" and one "uppish" Negro who lived here. The trial has not attracted too much attention, in view of the duration, locally, but has keyed the world as to how Mississippi reacts to freedom loving people.

On Tuesday, testimony ended after the defense had paraded 114 witnesses among them two Negroes, who pictured the defendants as 'good citizens' and people of high morals and Christian beliefs. The government had only 41 witnesses and the defense spent more time in berating their character than it
