

GENTLY DINE - Outgoing Johnson C. Smith University Student Christian Association President, Tyler Milner of Martinsville, Va., gently plants a kiss on the cheeks of Miss SCA Tommye Martin of Columbia, S. C. The SCA presented the blushing coed with a bouquet of roses during its annual installation ceremony last week in the University Church on the Smith campus.

DEAR SALLY

BY SALLY SHAW

DEAR SALLY: I'm a girl of 16 who is compelled to go through a parental third - degree every time I date a new boy. Even though I am an honor student at school, a regular church attendant, and never have gotten into any scrapes, still my parents don't seem to have any confidence in me and my judgment. If I say, "I have a date with a new boy by the name of Bob Smith tonight," the barrage of questions begins: "Bob Smith? Who's he? How old is he? Where does he live? What does he do? Where are you going? When will you be home?" And so on and on. Why do parents have to be so nosy? FED UP.

DEAR FED UP: You may be an honor student at school, but you show a remarkable lack of good sense and understanding of your parents' love. The fact that they want to know these perfectly reasonable things about the boys you date isn't nosiness on their part, but an earnest desire to keep up on the kind of company their daughter is with. Rather than resenting this, you should be ever so thankful that you have parents who are so interested in your welfare. Too many girls aren't so fortunate as you!

DEAR SALLY: Four years ago I married a woman 15 yrs. younger than I. We both realized at the time, of course, that this was a considerable age-difference, but we felt sure that our love was strong enough. And it WAS...for awhile. Now, however, she keeps complaining that I have become "an old fuddy-duddy," that I'm not active enough for her, that I don't take her dancing often enough, that I don't like late hours as much as she does, that I'm not romantic enough and do so and on. I'm now 44, and she's 29, and I think she is being very unfair about the whole thing, don't you? PAT.

DEAR PAT: How much "action" ARE you giving her? How close to the truth ARE her complaints? Be honest with your analysis, and decide whether or not you really have become "an old fuddy-duddy" in some of your habits and attitudes. Maybe you HAVE been spending too much time in the rocking chair and, if so, it's up to you to unglue yourself and do your part in bridging that 15-year age-gap.

DEAR SALLY: My 11-year-old son, a very bright boy, broke into a conversation I was having recently with my husband's mother, and corrected a grammatical error she had made. However, instead of being pleased over her grandson's quickness of mind, my mother-in-law seemed very much perturbed. Don't you think it was rather small of her to resent correction by a child, especially since he WAS right? MRS. R.C.

DEAR MRS. R.C.: Your son may, as you say, be a very bright boy and well up on his grammar--but he is sadly in need of some lessons in respect, thoughtfulness, and consideration for his elders! Not even an adult should be guilty of the rudeness of correcting another person's speech!

DEAR LIZ: I believe the same as you -- that the angels far outnumber the cads. Tell your husband that you love him for his devotion to you, but that you just cannot bring yourself to APPLAUDING him!

CURRENT EVENTS BAFFLERS

Look for seven errors in the following paragraph.

Finance Company, Forever! Some people has thev finances in such a mess that if you wasn't sure they done it theirselves, you'd think they was getting advice from the government. But then, the people is the government, aren't they?

Score: Seven - chuckle, five smile, three - it isn't funny. (If you find more than seven errors, the joke is on us!)

GRAMMAR HUMOR ANSWERS
Some people HAVE THEIR finances in such a mess that if you WEREN'T sure they HAD DONE IT THEMSELVES, you'd think they WERE getting advice from the government. But then, the people ARE the government, aren't they?

we care

Who cares
if the blueberries in our blueberry pie are wild!

Some people may not care... but we care.

Your grandmother's classic blueberry pies were baked with juicy, wild berries, not with today's pulpier, cultivated ones.

So, we're stubborn.

Only wild berries get into our Jane Parker Blueberry Pies.

In fact, we care so much about such things, we've made just one big change in the classic recipe: We bake only wild berries that are U.S. Grade A!

We've been in the baking business for 50 years. And that's the way we are about all our baking.

To celebrate our golden anniversary as bakers, this week, we're featuring Jane Parker Blueberry Pie at a price that's as wild as the berries... 49¢.

If you want proof that caring this much counts, try a Jane Parker Blueberry Pie this week.
