Evers Asks Black Unity

Delivers Blistering Address

In one of the most blistering speeches ever delivered at a "Freedom Day Celebration" sponsored by the State Conference of NAACP Branches, Charles Evers, brother of Medgar Evers, slain Mississippi civil rights leader, to a cheering crowd in Raleigh's Memorial Auditorium Sunday afternoon to tell "white folks, we are tired."

The speaker pulled no punches as he related the injustices and the insults that the Negro has suffered at the hands of white America and served notice that he "would rather be dead and in hell three times than to have to continue to endure the hardships that the white man has heaped upon him."

He lashed out at the white power structure for saying that the Negro is the cause of the unrest that is prevalent throughout the land. "The white man has been wrong so long until he thinks he is right and anyone who stands up to him and gives him the dose of the medicine he has been prescribing for the Negro is called a trouble maker," he said.

"No, the Negro is not responsible for the riots and looting and I want it definitely understood that we do not believe in violence and even if we are shot down in Mississippi, murdered in Memphis. And even though white Mississippi draft boards are sending Negro boys to Vietnam, in the name of democracy, to be slaughtered for what nobody knows, we are going to stick to nonviolence. However, we are not to be responsible for what hot headed Negroes do, no more than the white power structure wants to be held responsible for the lawlessness perpetrated upon a defenseless loyal minority," he said.

The program was a memorial to Medgar Evers and Martin Luther King. Kelly Alexander, in reading the pronouncement, wanted it definitely known that the NAACP deplored violence and that it would continue its course, which has done more to break down the barrier of hate and prejudice throughout its existence.

"CITIZEN OF THE YEAR" - Dr. James E. Cheek, president of Shaw University, was named "Citizen of the Year" last week by District Six, Omega Psi Phi Fraternity. The District comprises all the Omega chapters in both of the Carolinas. President Cheek, a member of the Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, was on hand to receive the award, presented at the Annual Meeting in Winston-Salem.

Theatre's Conditions Protested

Three students from Shaw University presented a petition of protest Tuesday night to Homer E. Sharpe, manager of the Lincoln Theatre, E. Cabarrus St. This theatre is owned by the Bijou Amusements Co., Nashville, Tenn.

When contacted by a CAROLINIAN reporter for a statement, Sharpe referred him to a statement which had appeared the same day in a Raleigh daily newspaper.

Their statement to Mr. Sharpe and the Amusement Co. follows: We, the undersigned, have conducted a thorough and exhaustive investigation and examination of the physical premises of the Lincoln Theatre, located at 126 E. Cabarrus St. Based upon our inspection, we believe and forthrightly assert that it is another form of slum commercialism and exploitation of the black community which constitutes its principal clientele. Moreover, we believe it is a direct affront to the dignity of Black

MRS. DOROTHY WINTERS

EMORY E. GARRETT

Garrett, known to many as "Pee Wee," and Mrs. Winters had reportedly been to City early in the day and arrived back at her residence about 11 a. m. She said she asked him to put some food in the oven and an argument ensued during which Garrett is said to have kicked Mrs. Winters in the stomach and "I stabbed him," she reported.

Hawkins, Others Are Defeated

The Negro voters of North Carolina, 300,000 of whom are registered, failed to rally behind the first member of the race ever to make a bid for governor.

Although more Negroes were running for offices in the State, both local and national, none were elected. Dr. Reginald A. Hawkins, Charlotte dentist-minister, as a result, came in third in a field of three Democratic candidates for the top position in the State in last Saturday's primary.

However, by garnering more than 124,000 votes in the primary, the Hawkins faction let it be known that it is a strong contender to be reckoned with in politics as far as the Negro and the Liberal white vote is concerned.

live together, but he stayed here on weekends. "After I stabbed him he lay there on the floor," she concluded. Other witnesses to the slaying included Mrs. Winters' 10-year-old son, Tommy Winters, Jr., whose story confirmed what his mother had earlier told detectives. Mrs. Betty Joan Porter of 316 Jamaica St., said she heard them fighting and went over and told them they should stop it. Leroy Smith, who resides at 318 Jamaica, said Mrs. Winters came to his house and asked him to call an ambulance, saying, "Pee Wee" was hurt bad." Smith said he went to the house and Garrett was lying back in a chair with his eyes rolled back and had a "cut place on his left shoulder."

Smith said he proceeded to call "the law."

8,000 To Shriners' Gala Day

DURHAM - Shriners are the desert of North Carolina will converge on Durham, Friday, for their ancient ceremonies of Gala Day. More than 8,000 Nobles, and Daughters of Isis are expected to be in attendance for the two day meet. Registration will begin at the Downtown Hotel, Pettigrew and Chapel Hill Sts. at 10 a. m., Friday. Poor People's March Still Heads To D. C.

SELMA, Ala. - The Poor People's Campaign was held up Tuesday while its leaders stopped to decide whether to bypass Montgomery, the capitol of Alabama, which is now mourning the death of 41-year-old Governor Lurleen B. Wallace, who died in the Governor's mansion there early Tuesday morning.

More than 100 token marchers were scheduled to ride in four old school buses to Montgomery, a 54-mile jaunt down U. S. Highway 80, route of the 1965 Selma to Montgomery March, led by the late Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.

However, the leaders went to conferences late Tuesday to decide whether to stick to the original route or go directly to Atlanta, the headquarters of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, sponsoring the march and campaign.

Another segment of the March on Washington appeared stalled in Louisville. The Rev. A. D. Williams King, brother of SCLC's founder, said residents of the Kentucky city would have to donate $8,000 to get an estimated 2,000 marchers on their way out of the city.

Body Of Victim Arrested

KINSTON - The body of a woman whom the coroner said probably died while sitting in a car in front of a local funeral home, was carted off to jail here late last Tuesday night, locked up and charged with public drunkenness. Lenoir County Coroner Raymond Jarman declared Wednesday that Miss Lauristine Kinsey, 28, died of acute alcoholism. She (or her body) had been jailed on the public drunkenness rap at 11:30 p. m. the previous night.

Miss Kinsey's body was placed on a cot in a cell and, according to reports, her death was discovered when a policeman noticed that she was not breathing. After investigating a report that three persons were sitting in a parked car drinking in front of an unidentified funeral home, Deputy Sheriff Carl Long brought the charges.

The deputy said the woman was unconscious, it is alleged and he summoned Policeman Leon White to help take her to the jailhouse. Charged with possession of non-taxpaid whiskey and arrested were Howard Blow, 31, and Robert Lee Watson, 31, the other occupants of the automobile.

The deputy said he "thought the woman had 'passed out' when she was taken to jail."

EVERS CROWNS STATE'S NAACP MOTHERS - Charles Evers, President of the Mississippi State Conference of NAACP Branches, is shown crowning Mrs. R. B. Armstrong of Candor as "NAACP Mother of the Year" at Raleigh Memorial Auditorium last Sunday afternoon during a Freedom Day Rally. Mrs. Hallie Burnett, right, representing Gibsonville and the Greensboro area, wears the crown that Mr. Evers moments before placed upon her head. These ladies represent the smaller and larger branches of the State's Chapters, respectively.

Citizens Organize Fair Housing Group In City

Since the early part of January a group of Raleigh citizens from the academic, business and professional communities, who are concerned about the existence of racial discrimination in Raleigh housing have been meeting for the purpose of seeking ways to bring about equal opportunity in housing in Raleigh. The group has adopted the name HOME, which stands for Housing Opportunities Made Equal, and has just released the following principles and purposes of the organization.

"Two fundamental principles of American democracy held that all men are regarded equal in the eyes of the law and that race, color, religion or national origin should not limit a man's place in society. These views are supported in principle by all of the major religions, the federal government, most state governments, and the vast majority of the country's population. Great strides have been made in obtaining equality, under the law for all people, but discrimination still exists.

"In Raleigh, Negroes in particular are still confined to specific residential areas. Social pressures now prevent a Negro from obtaining better housing in other areas, even though his financial integrity and social

Winners Claim $120 As Three Ladies Go To Right Stores

Three happy ladies claimed a total of $120 in Sweepstakes winnings last week. Mrs. Irene McAllister, 129 Star St., really made her first win a "whopper" when she picked up ticket number 6002 at Hallig-Levine Furniture Store. Mrs. McAllister has been a customer at the store for McALLESTER many years and was extremely happy to be so lucky.

Taking second place money, $25, was Mrs. Mary P. Mials of Rt. 2, Raleigh, who picked up ticket number 3075 at Tire Sales and Service Company. Mrs. Mials said with a smile, "This is the first time for me, but I always felt like I could win."

Mrs. Esther Rowlands, 578 E. Cabarrus St., got ticket number 5129 at Carter's, Inc. She received a check for $20 from The CAROLINIAN.

College's Power Is Discussed

DETROIT, Mich. - Dr. S. E. Duncan, president, Livingstone College Salisbury, in appraising the values of predominantly Negro schools told the delegates of the 38th Quadrennial Session of the A.M.E.
