Can your hair be damaged from brushing, alone?

All hair becomes damaged from exposure to sun and natural elements. Certain greasy compounds and many chemicals, improperly used, also take their toll...not to mention simple attempts at beautifying the hair with any brush not made of natural bristles. The results are brittleness, breakage, dry and

Your professional beautician knows how artificial bristles actually brush away a great deal of the "lubricants" of the hair that give It body, lustre and protection. And trained beauticians claim that nothing beats Clairol' condition* Beauty Pack Treatment for overcoming brittleness, dryness and breakage . . . leaving hair lively and easy to manage, condition° is an easy-towork-with creme which can even be applied during a chemical straightening retouch to prevent drying of hair that has been previously relexed, condition* is the ultimate in repairing deepdown damage. And, when time is a factor for their customers, hairdressers turn to new Clairof® Hair Dew®-the lotion conditioner that penetrates so fast many think of it as an instant conditioner. When applied regularly by your beautician, Clairol Hair Dew adds body, softens and gives a glowing new look to your hair that many friends will notice and admire.

Damage can come from using brushes with artificial bristles. But damage to every woman's hair comes from so many other causes that all human hair (including wigs) needs to be revitalized periodically. Visit your professional beautician and ask this expert to check the condition of your hair.

Only your professional beautician knows the answer for sure.

O God, our heavenly Father, help us to rest in Thy loving care, knowing that they grace will turn our lives into true likeness to Thy giorious life. Then we shall indeed become new creatures in Thee. Our Father, so many of us are living in the gloom of worry and anxiety. Grant to us the light of faith and quite confidence in Thy love and kindness. Teach us to pray, so that Thou may send into our lives the light of Thy truth and the power of Thy love. Fix our minds on the Master so that Communion with Thee becomes the Gibralter of victorious living. This, we pray in Hisname,

In keeping with the President's request that Sunday be a day of mourning for the late Senator Kennedy, Rev. Foust began his message by saying that Robert Kennedy's life seemed to have been marked by the cross of Jesus Christ. The cross of Christ makes a new and different individual of one. It takes old men, whose lives are wrapped in sin, and makes new persons of them.

Since the existence of the cross, it has changed many lives. Very few people are willing to jeopardize their lives for others. One can imagine that there were times when Robert Kennedy was tempted to turn his back on public life, but he chose to offer himself for the people. This was no small undertaking on his part as everyone desires a life free from troubles and woes.

He was in a position to enjoy all the material comfots this world can afford one; yet, he realized that life consisted of something more than material things. Life is an involvement and he chose to become involved with those perplexities of life which blighted the lives of others. Living is in vain unless one can attune his actions to the suffering around him.

He concluded by saying that it seemed that the Almighty had created families for specific purposes. The Kennedy family seems to be such a family in that they bear grief with pride and dignity.

The memorial service was concluded with the choir singing very effectively "The Battle Hymn of the Republic." Meditative prayers followed.
