Two other children were seriously injured. Distraught relatives of the victims stand outside City Hospital. (UPI PHOTO).

Black Mississippi Delegation Will Again Issue White Demo Challenge

JACKSON, Miss. - The specter of two Mississippi delegations at the Democratic National convention -- one black and the other white - has been raised by Charles Evers' resignation as a delegate to the convention.

The double delegation from the magnolia state would repeat the situation in 1964, when the Mississippi Freedom Democratic party sought - but failed - to be seated at the party convention.

Evers quit the delegation because "I cannot be and will not be used as a tool by a party which deprives my people the basic right to participate."

He was one of four black people named to the state's first interracial delegation to the party convention in this century.

"We have no alternative but to meet party leaders with another delegation in Chicago, site of the Democratic convention in August, he warned.

Evers was named to the delegation at a meeting of the state

Democratic organization, where a bi-racial group of Mississippi liberal Democrats charged "tokenism" and rail-roading.

The "tokenism" referred to was the designation of four Negro delegates out of 44 - or 9 per cent, whereas black people make up about 40 per cent (See MISSISSIPPI, P. 2)

NAACP To Shy From Moderates

ATLANTIC CITY - The NAACP, in coming out for black power, has broken with the moderate image it has long maintained.

Shortly after 200 angry "Young Turks" stormed out of the association's 59th annual convention, the remaining 1,000 "old guard" delegates approved a resolution declaring that the NAACP "adopts the concept of black power -- to liberate the people of the large ghetto areas of our nation."

Such a resolution had been one of the aims of the youth group, whose members left before the statement was approved.

The resolution defined black power as control of educational institutions and economic bases of power, as well as the creation and control of independent political groups within the black community.

Another resolution urged a week-long boycott "in which all black people in the USA will refrain from non-essential buying from businesses which are not black."

Just before the convention ended, the resolutions were approved as concessions to the young militants.

The youth group, while winning a theoretical victory in the NAACP's identification with black power, was unsuccessful in gaining autonomy within the association.

CORE Will Re-Define Direction

COLUMBUS, Ohio - CORE has become a "black nationalist" organization seeking to "redefine the relationship between blacks and whites in this country," according to its new acting director, Roy Innis.

The militant group plans to develop programs that will give black people the right of self-determination and control of their own communities. This includes domination of the economic, political, and social institutions operating in the community, Innis said at CORE's annual convention.

"We're talking about creating a new political subdivision, and as such we would control the flow of goods and services in that subdivision."

In addition to moving ahead with black nationalism, CORE aims at "tightening up" its structure so that it can build a disciplined force that will accomplish its goal.

Wake Girl Drowns In Farm Pond

A 22-month-old Wake County girl, Sheila Marie Blyther, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Blyther, Rt. 3, Zebulon, drowned in a farm pond near her home Sunday afternoon around 1 p. m.

Her body was found by Michael Foster, a friend of the family, lying face down at a side angle. Zebulon Police Officer Windel Perry and Wake County Coroner Marshall W. Bennett, (See WAKE GIRL, P. 2)

WILKINS ISSUES CHALLENGE - Columbus, O.: NAACP Executive Director Roy Wilkins addressing the 26th annual convention of CORE (Congress of Racial Equality) here July 5, said his organization will turn its back on CORE if that militant civil rights group strives for a separate black nation. The NAACP (National Association for the Advancement of Colored People) is the country's largest civil rights organization. Wilkins added that on fundamental issues of freedom and equality the NAACP would continue to cooperate with CORE. (UPI PHOTO).

Man Blasts Brother For Cursing His Mother

Failing to heed the warning of the Fifth Commandment "Honor thy father and thy mother," proved to be the undoing of 37-year-old Jacob David Hill last Friday morning after he allegedly cursed his mother. He is now hovering between life and death in the intensive care ward at Wake Memorial Hospital with six shotgun wounds in his body.

with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hill, Rt. 3, Raleigh (McCullers Rd., near Cary).

The reason for the ill-fated shooting, according to witnesses was that Jacob and Joseph were arguing about something which has not been made public. Jacob is said to have suddenly begun cursing at his mother and Joseph advised him to stop cursing her.

At this point, according to Wake Deputy Bob Linton, Joseph decided to retire to his bedroom and lay across the bed while Jacob remained outside the house, continuing to curse.

Jacob Hill is said to have secured a garden hoe and advanced toward his house with it. When he reached the door and was about 12 feet away from his brother, Joseph blasted away, the pellets hitting Jacob in the chest, stomach, right arm, left arm and left hand. A .12 gauge shotgun was used.

Deputy Linton said one of the pellets went into Jacob's heart. Joseph Hill is lodged in the Wake County Jail (Central Prison) on 11th Street, P. 2)

Heads NEA Educators

HEADS NATION'S TEACHERS - The new president of the National Education Association, Mrs. Elizabeth D. Koontz of Salisbury, was installed at the NEA convention in Dallas, Tex. late the night of July 6. Mrs. Koontz, a Negro and the first member of her race to head the million-member NEA, made a ringing call for "teacher power" in her inaugural address. (UPI PHOTO).

Salisbury Native Now Heads U. S. Tutors

DALLAS, Tex. - The 106th annual convention of the National Education Association critically examined American society Sunday termed it "in deep trouble," and prescribed better education as perhaps the only cure.

The 7,103 delegates and their leaders grappled with educational and social problems related to the ghetto, poverty, educational deprivation, growing racial separation, crime and riots, drug abuse, campus disturbances, and other evidences of current social unrest or malady.

An unscheduled incident -- a painful confrontation with the racial issue -- became the convention's most discussed and widely publicized event. It quickly grew into an international incident and gave NEA occasion to put the convention theme, "Commitment to Action," to an immediate practical test.

Refusal of service to the First Secretary of the Embassy of the Kingdom of Lesotho by a small Dallas tavern, and subsequent refusal to serve a Negro NEA staff member and some Negro convention delegates, sent waves of intense resentment through the convention. NEA filed a strong (See MRS. KOONTZ, P. 2)

The Crime Beat

ROSA BODY JAILED AGAIN - William Henry Bley, 21-year-old white male of 209 Lord Burkle Road, told the law at 3:13 p. m. Friday, that Mrs. Rosa Body, 7 Dadd Street, jumped into the path of his delivery truck, stuck a butcher knife through the window, and told him she wanted fifty cents. Bley stated he gave her twenty-five cents, saying that was all he had. She took the money and ran down the street, according to Bley.

Mrs. Body, who is well-acquainted with the law, having been a guest of both City and Wake Superior Courts on occasions, was booked on a charge of armed robbery.

STABBED IN FACE, BODY - Willie Hinton, Box 184, Knightdale, was stabbed with a butcher knife around 5:20 p. m. Friday. Mrs. Florida Batchelor of 204 1/2 Selwyn Alley, at whose home the incident occurred, called officers and stated a "boy named Ardibald cut Willie with a butcher knife."

A further check in the area revealed Clarence "Archibald" Keith, 21, 903 E. Jones Street, hiding at 204 Cooke Street. He had blood all over the shirt he was wearing. At police headquarters, he admitted cutting Hinton, but declared Hinton attacked him with a bottle. Keith was "hailed off" to jail under a $5,000 bond on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill.

Dr. S. E. Duncan Dies Enroute To Hospital

SALISBURY - Dr. Samuel Duncan, president of Salisbury's Livingstone College since 1958, died Wednesday afternoon just as The CAROLINIAN was preparing to go to press.

The Salisbury native and former president of the North Carolina Teachers Association, was known nation-wide as a churchman and head of the African Methodist Episcopal Church's largest college in the country.

The Livingstone College graduate had served as supervisor of Negro High Schools in the State before taking over the helm at Livingstone.

According to information received by this newspaper from Dr. J. C. Simpson, dean of instruction at Livingstone, Dr. Duncan, who has been in ill health for some time, was enroute to the Rowan Memorial Hospital when he died.

Dr. Duncan succeeded the late Dr. W. J. Trent, Sr., as president of the college.

Mrs. Ida Duncan, widow of the educator, has also served a tenure as president of the N. C. Teachers Association. His sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Duncan Koontz, was sworn in

Plight Of War Vet Told

FAYETTEVILLE - A depressing story was told to The CAROLINIAN Monday, by a 33-year-old businessman of how he and his family was intimidated by persons extending from the sheriff's office to unknown telephone callers, and finally resulted in a dry cleaning plant being totally destroyed by fire.

Marion Harris, a veteran of 12 years in the United States Army, revealed how he and his family, a wife and three daughters, had been molested, intimidated and harassed by Chief L. F. Worrell, the sheriff's office and persons, unknown to him, via telephone, since he acquired a contract to clean and press clothes and other items of persons attached to Fort Bragg.

Harris, who says that he got the contract on his bid, was a victim of a fire that burned his building to the ground, on June 29, destroying machinery that will cost $250,000.00 to replace, and another $125,000.00 to replace the building. He also said that it will take the $50,000 worth of insurance that he had to replace the clothes destroyed in the fire.

He alleges that he has reason to believe that the fire was set, in an effort to run him out of a business, in which he could realize a gross of $70,000.00 monthly. He said that since he got the franchise, he had received threatening telephone calls that if he did not sell out he would be burned out. He believes the latter (See FLIGHT OF, P. 2)
