Raleigh's "Sonny" Peace First Teacher At Ga. Tech

BY STAFF WRITER

The advice, "Go West, young man," may be wisely heeded by some young man, but the best advice ever given to William H. "Sonny" Peace, III, Raleigh native, was, "Go South, young man." For it is in the deep south-Atlanta, Ga. - that he is teaching and lecturing as the first black instructor at Georgia Technological Institute, Atlanta, Ga. His classes are all in Afro-American history.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Peace, II, 116 W. South St., young Peace is a graduate of old Washington High School here - it's last class - and received his bachelor of arts degree from Shaw University in January 1961. During his college years, he was a contributing editor to "The Angry Black South," now published. Upon graduating from Shaw, "Sonny" went north to New York where he landed his first job - that of supervisor with the city's Welfare Department.

St. Paul To Observe 120th Anniversary

St. Paul African Methodist Episcopal Church, corner of W. Edenton and S. West Sts., will observe its 120th anniversary here Sunday morning (1848-1968) here Sunday morning.

Bishop George W. Baber of Washington, D. C., senior Bishop of the AME Church, will preach the anniversary sermon Bishop Baber at the 11 a. m. worship hour.

The Sunday service will mark the culmination of a year-long series of events for St. Paul. One of the outstanding ministers in America today, Bishop Baber appeared in national headlines last week as plans for a massive "get-out-the-vote" drive among the nine million black churchgoers in some 5,000 churches, elected him chairman of the campaign.

Bishop Baber has just completed a six-weeks tour of Europe, Asia, and will bring to bear in his message to Raleigh citizens here Sunday morning forty years of extensive training, travel and Christian experience.

He is the presiding bishop of all AME Churches in the District of Columbia, Maryland, Virginia and North Carolina. The Rev. Benjamin S. Foust, pastor of St. Paul, cordially invites the general public to share in this service.

Youth, 18, Loses Car And Pants

An 18-year-old white youth, who police said "had been drinking very much," literally lost his pants and car while trying to be a good samaritan, according to his statements.

Lonnie Wayne Neville, 311 N. Boundary St., Apt. 1, informed Officers Norman Artis and James E. (Bobby) Daye at 2:05 a. m. Saturday, that he consented to drive two colored males home from The Upstetters Club, located at the corner of W. South and S. McDowell Sts.

Neville, said that when they arrived in the 400 block of S. Swain St., one of the men started hitting him with his fists and the other one pulled off his pants. Neville said he kicked the shorter one away and rammed pants.

The officers reported finding his car in the 400 block of S. Swain St., along with a pair of trousers. Officers Artis and Daye also stated that the white youth told several different versions of what occurred. The wallet was reportedly missing (See WHITE YOUTH, P. 2)

"SLUGGED" WITH CHAIR
Daniel McAllilly, 43, 905 Cannister St., told Officer W. R. Price at 7:17 p. m. Saturday, that he and L. C. Whitner, believed to be a roomer in his house, were arguing about some rent money when Whitner pulled a pocket knife on McAllilly, who admitted he picked up a chair when he saw the knife, and struck Whitner in the face with it, then called "the law."

Whitner suffered three one-inch lacerations about the eyes. McAllilly was arrested and charged with assault with a deadly weapon. The incident took place at the Cannister St. address.

FIGHT OVER PIG TAILS
Walter Clemmons, Jr., 514 S. Saunders St., reported to Officer J. M. Edwards at 4:09 p. m. Sunday, that he and Miss Betty Rowland, same address, started fighting over some pig tails that he had eaten there, and she struck him about the head with a gun.

Both were arrested, however, and charged with engaging in an affray. Bonds were set at $100 each. Clemmons exhibited cuts about the head.

Fuller Issues Vote Denial

Charges Untrue: H. Fuller

Howard Fuller, chairman of the Foundation for Community Development, located in Durham, informed The CAROLINIAN this week that a story quoting him urging Negroes not to vote on Nov. 5 was erroneous. His statement follows: "This statement is to clarify my personal views on what I feel is at stake for the black citizens of North Carolina in the election on Nov. 5."

"The News and Observer article of Oct. 28th gives the impression that I have suggested that black people should 'sit out' the coming election."

"This is not true. I have worked in North Carolina for three years urging black people to exercise their right to register and vote. I shall continue to do so."

"As for this particular election, my personal views are as follows: I believe -- and I stated this belief at the Sept. (See HOWARD FULLER, P. 2)

Legal Staff Of NAACP Walks Out

NEW YORK - Monday marked the day of resignation of the entire seven-man legal staff of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), the nation's oldest and most respected civil rights organization.

The mass resignations were to protest the dismissal of an associate general counsel who criticized the United States Supreme Court. The resignations were announced at a press conference called by Robert L. Carter, general counsel for the NAACP, who said his resignation would become effective on Sunday, Dec. 1, and the others would leave the organization upon completion of cases in which they are currently involved.

Early Champion Of Black Power Passes

BY MATTIE SMITH COLIN

CHICAGO (UPI) - Death has stilled the pen of one of the most colorful men in the field of newspaper publishing, and one of the early advocates of black pride and power -- Balm Leavell, 58-year-old publisher of the twin black weekly newspaper, the New Crusader and the Gary Crusader.

Leavell was fatally stricken with cancer of the gall bladder, and died in Michael Reese hospital early last Saturday morning. Some months ago, he had entered the hospital for treatment of yellow jaundice. Upon release, he had a brief period of recuperation at his Southside home, before returning to the hospital with the gall bladder trouble that ended in his death.

Funeral services, attended by a host of his friends, co-workers, and even those who were often in opposition to his ideas, were held this week at the First Church of Deliverance, with the Rev. Clarence H. Cobbs as officiant. Burial was in Lincoln cemetery.

His publications accurately depicted his crusading, stormy and fiery career, which often was a source of irritation not only to those against whom he

Daytime highs are expected to average in the 60s in the mountains and 66 to 77 degrees elsewhere. Lows at night will average in the upper 30s in the mountains and 46 to 53 degrees elsewhere. A general warming trend will prevail through Saturday, turning cooler again Sunday and Monday. Precipitation will total up to one-fourth of an inch, occurring as scattered showers and thundershowers Saturday and Sunday night, ending Sunday.

Eulogy Of Rev. Avery Set Friday

Certainly one can really realize that in the midst of life we are in death. This was brought home to the Raleigh community Sunday morning when the news was flashed that the Rev. James Arthur Avery, 50, well-known Baptist minister, was stricken as he closed his Sunday morning service at the First Baptist Church, Holly Springs.

REV. J. A. AVERY

His death not only shocked church circles but cast a pall over the entire area. He was one of the most popular persons in area church, religious and civic circles, and one who served well the needs and desires of the community.

He was born in Wake County and attended Garner Consolidated School and continued his education at Shaw. He was the

Riders At Night Fire Gunshots

VANCEBORO - A 15-year-old Negro girl who refused to follow "the rules" of jim crow bus practices here, was the target of nightriders Monday night, who fired several shots into her rural home. The girl was reportedly dragged bodily from class and expelled last Friday. Henry Hooks, father of Deborah Hooks, said he discovered two holes near a front bedroom which appeared to come from a small calibre rifle or pistol. The Hooks family of six was awakened by "three loud noises" Monday night, said the father, and heard something hitting the house.

Because of the darkness, he was unable to find the bullet holes before daylight. He refused to allow his children to attend school on Tuesday of this week because of the incident. He indicated that he was afraid to let them return after Monday night's incident.

In order to engage in farming, Hooks moved here from near Greenville, in Pitt County, two years ago. He is now an employee of East Carolina University, Greenville.

His daughter, Deborah, was taken bodily off of a school bus last Thursday by two Craven County officers. They and the

TO SPEAK HERE - The Peoples Credit Union, recently-organized finance body here, is presenting the Rev. G. E. Cheek, well-known Baptist minister of Raleigh and Warrenton, in a mass meeting for membership. The occasion is scheduled for Monday, Nov. 4, at 7:30 p. m. at the Chavis Heights Recreation Center. Rev. Cheek founded Raleigh's Wake Credit Union and is well-versed in the history, organization and success of credit unions, having traveled in Europe to make a study of this type of small banking. The public is urged to attend.

MOCK FUNERAL - Chicago: School boycott leaders take a running jump and land on top of casket marked "Board of Education" during mock-funeral and rally of boycotters at Chicago's Civic Center Oct. 28. Boycotting students are demanding more black control over courses and school officials at 25 southside and west side high schools, and more permanent black teachers.
