Negro History Bafflers

BY NEGRO PRESS INTERNATIONAL

In today's Baffler, tell what's wrong with each statement, which purports to be a Negro history fact.

Scoring: 8-10; excellent; 6-7; good; 4-5; fair; 0-3; poor. Bonus question counts two points. Other questions count one point each. Here's the quiz:

1. Harriet Beecher Stowe's novel, "Uncle Tom's Children," aroused anti-slavery sentiment that helped provoke the Civil War.

2. As early as the 1930s, Negroes made noteworthy accomplishments in the U.S. Air Force, winning Presidential citations for their bravery.

3. Among the exceptional writers who contributed to the Harlem Renaissance during the 1920s and the 1930s were Countee Cullen, Claude McKay, Paul Laurence Dunbar, Jean Toomer, and Langston Hughes.

4. Marcus A. Garvey, who sought to lead Black people back to Africa, was acclaimed by federal officials for his efforts to "resolve the Negro question."

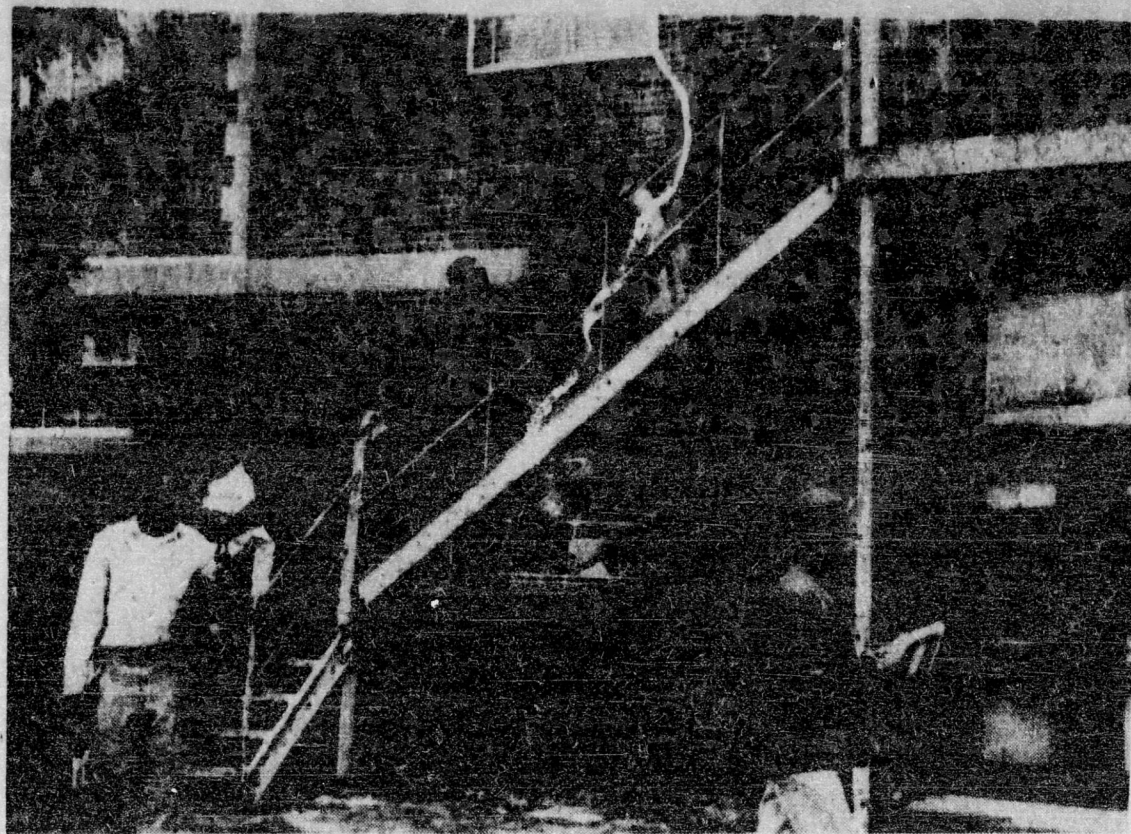

5. The late Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., led a 382-day bus boycott in 1955 and 1966 in Birmingham, Ala. His first major protest action, the boycott set the stage for the dismantling of Southern segregation.

6. As U.S. Senator during the Reconstruction era, Frederick Douglass helped promote the only civil-rights legislation passed until 1957.

7. President Abraham Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation set the slaves free in all areas of the country which remained loyal to the Union during the Civil War.

8. Toussaint L'Ouverture is remembered as one of the outstanding military heroes of the French revolution.

ANSWERS: 1. She wrote "Uncle Tom's Cabin"; "Uncle Tom's Children" was written by Richard Wright. 2. Negroes were not allowed in the nation's air force until a Negro pursuit squadron was established at Tuskegee Institute during World War II. 3. Dunbar does not belong in the list, he died in 1906. 4. On the contrary, he was imprisoned in 1925 for using the U.S. mails to defraud in connection with the sale of stock in his Black Star line and was later deported from the U.S.

LEAVE HALL AT BRANDEIS UNIVERSITY - Waltham, Mass.: Some of the sixty-four black students at Brandeis University file down a rear stairway of Ford Hall the building they had occupied for 11 days. The students left the building January 18, with a grant of amnesty but their original demands still unsatisfied. Many of these students carry books and other belongings as they pass another barricaded door (R). The occupation ended without violence. (UPI).

A STAGE COUNTER-INAUGURAL PARADE - Washington: Anti-war organizers January 19 staged a "Counter-inaugural" -- the first time in the Nation's history that a Presidential inauguration was confronted by a large-scale demonstration. Here, the protestors march up Pennsylvania Ave. the route of President-elect Richard Nixon's inaugural parade, toward the Capitol. (UPI).

English Is Undergoing 'Language Explosion'

The English language seems to be undergoing what might be called a "language explosion."

Dictionary editors are hard-pressed to keep up with it. For instance, the 1969 edition of World Book Dictionary contains 14,000 words and phrases that were not in the 1968 edition. Editors had to add 150 pages to jam in all the new words.

But where do the new words come from? How could editors find 14,000 new entries? Do that many new words develop in such a short time?

It seems as though forming new words is everybody's business -- the politician, the scientist, the economist, the fashion designer, the man on the street, and of course, the teen-ager.

What new words or expressions have the politicians given us recently? Well, there's conspiracy of silence, which means "a conspiring to keep something wrong, damaging, etc., from being divulged."

And then there's goposis, meaning "any conspicuous or abnormal gap, deficiency, etc." Now when you read about the credibility gap, you'll understand goposis.

Here is a handful of the new words and phrases added to the World Book Dictionary for 1969. How many can you identify?

-- aerial jeep, Alateen, ballhawk, beat man, beefcake, body check, brain-picking, British English, campy, car jockey, center-left, chicken colonel, cliffhanger, Colonel Bogey, cutesy.

-- Dawn patrol, daymare, deep six, defang, didact, diploma mill, disadvantaged, dodo ball, ducky, dysphemism, earthshaker, easy money, end-run, Escoffier, eye-popper, familygram, fifth estate, file 13.

5. The bus boycott was conducted in Montgomery, Ala., not Birmingham. 6. Douglass never served in Congress. 7. The proclamation freed the slaves only in areas not under Union control. 8. He was a hero in the Haitian revolution, not the French revolution.
