which have previously been furnished to you. Ships and aircraft were in the area continuously from 5 February 1969 to 7 February 1969. Debris is located and remained under constant observation during this period. The search was suspended on 7 February 1969. After a review of all facts and circumstances, the commander has determined that conclusive evidence exists that he could not have survived. Your son's commander will write you a letter containing all the known circumstances concerning his death. You should receive this letter in approximately ten days. As yet, his remains have not been recovered. The mortuary branch headquarters of the United States Air Force, Washington, D. C., will communicate with you concerning this matter. If you have questions you may contact my personal representative at area code 512-652-3505. Please accept my sincere sympathy.

Other survivors include three sisters, Mrs. Catherine S. Harris, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Beattie S. Lewis, and Mrs. Gloria S. Smith, both of Raleigh; five brothers, Messers James Stroud, Jr., Philadelphia, Pa.; Mordcaid Stroud, Raleigh; Edward Stroud, Washington, D. C.; Dwight and Larry Stroud, both of this city; six aunts and five uncles.

BOY MURDERED

and upon opening it, several males at the door told her that a man had been shot and then she saw Jackson lying near her doorway.

Informants told a representative of The CAROLINIAN that blood was found in front of 408 S. Bloodworth Street, and Jackson is believed to have taken this route, made a left turn on E. Davie Street and stumbled up the steps at Miss Trice's home where he was found and removed to Wake Memorial Hospital.

After undergoing surgery and being placed in the intensive care section at the hospital, officials there said he died at 5:26 a.m. Monday.

According to Marshall W. Bennett, Wake County coroner, three small bullets were removed from Jackson during the operation.

Funeral services for young Jackson will be conducted at the Raleigh Funeral Home Chapel Thursday at 2 p.m. Burial will follow in Carolina Biblical Gardens. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dozier Jackson of the home; six brothers, Arthur Lee, Alexander, Dozier, Jr., Jimmy Ervin and Jerry Thomas Jackson, all of the home; and Ernest Edward Jackson, Newark, N.J.

two sisters, Mrs. Dora Mae Jones of Arizona, and Miss Ella Jackson of the home; two half-brothers, Leon and Robert Edward Young, both of Raleigh his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Mary Jackson, Raleigh; and one uncle, David Jackson, Raleigh.

would enable the operation to begin not later than June 1 of this year. The Committee will visit the Publishing Houses of the three denominations and ascertain the physical assets with an eye toward the proper production and distribution of the 3 name items to the potential 3 million membership of the new church.

The committee will report to a special commission, composed of a bishop from each denomination, the managers of the publishing houses, the editors of the various publications, the public relations people, and contributing editors. Bishop Bunton was of the opinion that the groundwork could be done and submitted for approval in order for the operation to begin June 1.

The two-day meet, which was presided over by Bishop W. J. Walls, A.M.E. Zion, went into all the ramifications of a union and it was expressed by Bishop Jordan, A. M. E., and Bishop Boyle, C. M. E., who head the commission from their respective denominations, that there seems to be no obstacle to this merger and that barring unforeseen obstacles, it would become a reality in 1972.

into a fist as if he was trying to hold something.

"His hands were bloody and there was blood on the back of his shirt," concluded Mr. Bennett.

Mrs. Darlene Smith, first cousin of the victim, said C.D. came home as usual Wednesday about 7 p.m. for his dinner, then went back to his job. "He worked mostly at night," his mother explained.

Edgar W. Davis, manager of Lincoln Cab Company, corner of E. Cabarrus and S. Blount Streets, told a reporter Tuesday night that, "We had our regular monthly meeting last Tuesday (February 4), and I was praising Charles for his fine work and for the many compliments the company receives regarding his courtesy. I had no idea that the next day would be the last time I was to see him alive, but I believe in giving people their flowers while they can still smell them."

"Charles drove cab number one and was a number one gentleman," Davis concluded. Plans have been made for all of the city's taxicabs, owned by Negroes, to proceed north on Wilmington Street, around Capitol Square and return south on Fayetteville Street in apparent silent protest to the vicious murder by what person or persons, despite the denial this week by the assistant police chief of Wendell.

The Rowlands have lived in a neat white stone house for the past 21 years. Other than his mother, Mr. Rowland is survived by one sister, Mrs. Mary G. Mabry, Philadelphia; his grandmother, Mrs. Mary L. Clemons, of the home; an aunt, Miss Mable Rowland, also of the home; two nephews, Michael and Bernard Mabry; and one niece, Miss Vanessa Mabry, all of Philadelphia, Pa.

The Rev. Mansie F. Booker will officiate at the services and burial will follow in the National Cemetery for the World War II veteran. Lightner Funeral Home is in charge of the arrangements.

Black author and controversial reporter.

Worthy, former CBS news correspondent in Russia, Africa, and China, said a widespread effort to oppress Black militant leadership is now being organized by U. S. government forces.

He cited Eldridge Cleaver, H. Rap Brown, and Stokely Carmichael as typical "victims of quiet oppression" who have been forced into exile or suppressed because of their militant leadership.

Author of the soon-to-be published book, "Black Power and World Revolution," Worthy predicted that the Presidential administration of Richard M. Nixon would take strong measures to suppress any attempt at Black rebellion.

He ruled out the possibility of a violent Black overthrow of the government as "unrealistic."

Within a year, he said, "the Black Panthers will be completely smashed by government forces...."

Leftist whites will be similarly repressed, Worthy said.

under Barnes, who heads the department, visited many of the Washington offices, after having written to all of them. Barnes said here Monday, "eventhough Gallifianakis was prodded into it by local Democratic leaders and the naming of Miss Marie Antonette Denning was believed to be a political payoff, to victor goes the spoils."

Although no solo responded to the Elks' plea in 1967, the effort created one of the greatest storms in the political history of the Negro in North Carolina. It is to be remembered that the Negro vote has accounted for Gallifianakis' election in both the primaries and the general elections and it was thought that his reaction to putting a Negro on his staff in 1967 would be a deterrent in 1968. When the votes were counted he had won by a questionable 4,100, the margin being given in the Negro precincts of Durham and Raleigh.

difficult for a first-term representative to get his first of a committee assignment, or even his second. But I think it would be hard to imagine an assignment that is less relevant to my background or to the needs of the predominantly Black and Puerto Rican people who elected me, many of whom are unemployed, hungry and badly housed."

It was not merely the assignment to the Agriculture Committee that aroused Mrs. Chisholm's dissatisfaction, but her assignment to one of its subcommittees, in specifics, the Sub-Committee on Forestry and Rural Farms.

This prompted the fighting Mrs. Chisholm to question the knowledge of the House about the State of New York and especially the area of Brooklyn. She stated "apparently all they know here in Washington about Brooklyn is that a tree grew there. I can think of no other reason for assigning me to the House Agriculture Committee."

MARCHERS

about a dozen Negroes gathered to watch a brief demonstration at the town hall around noon Monday. None appeared to have joined the march.

There appeared to be disagreement among the march leaders over how to proceed Tuesday. Frinks said in Washington that he was "thinking about bypassing Greenville because of the potential trouble there."

However, Willie Bolden of the SCLC Atlanta office said he is "the leader and co-ordinator of the march" and that the group would march into Greenville and Farmville as planned.

Neither town has granted a permit for the marchers.

Bolden said the group would leave Washington about 10 a.m. Tuesday, possibly walking the entire 18 miles to Greenville on U. S. 264.

"We don't want any trouble with the towns along the route. Our fight is with the power structure in Raleigh," he said. The group is scheduled to arrive in Raleigh Friday.

Clark; the Alumni President, Oscar Peay, and the Student Body President, Donnell Morris.

An alumni workshop took place Saturday morning, with the theme for discussion "Maintaining Effective Student, Faculty and Alumni Relationships."

Motivating the students from the freshman level, alumni in each area serving as ambassadors, as the eyes and ears of Saint Augustine's College, highlighted the discussions.

Dedication of the new Student Union and groundbreaking for the new classroom building at Saint Augustine's College, February 8, were highlighted by the following events: The ribbon cutting, turning over the plans and specifications of the building by Eugene P. Rowan Named To Board Of The Washington Journalism Center

WASHINGTON—Carl T. Rowan, syndicated columnist and television commentator, has been named a member of the Board of Trustees of the Washington Journalism Center.

Newbold Noyes, Chairman of the Center's Board of Trustees and Editor of The Washington Star, announced that Rowan was one of four new members of the Board.

The other new members are Frank Batten, Publisher, Norfolk-Portsmouth Newspapers, Inc., Norfolk, Va.; John E. Ryerson, Senior Editor, The Kiplinger Washington Editors, Inc., Washington; and Richard S. Salant, President, CBS News, New York.

Mr. Rowan, winner of numerous awards for journalistic achievement while he was a reporter for the Minneapolis Tribune, is a former Deputy Assistant Secretary of State for Public Affairs; former Ambassador to Finland, and former Director of the United States Information Agency.

John H. Johnson, president of the Johnson Publishing Company in Chicago, also is one of the 20 members of the Center's Board of Trustees.

The Washington Journalism Center, an independent, nonprofit institution awards approximately 40 fellowships each year to young professional journalists, journalism students who have had professional experience, and young Negroes interested in careers in journalism. Each fellowship provides for 16 weeks of study and work in Washington.

The Center has a three-year $295,500 grant from the Ford Foundation for a program to recruit and train 20 Negroes a year for careers in journalism. Under the program, the Center seeks men and women who have majored in such areas of study as political science, history, economics, sociology, and English, and who have indicated an interest in journalism through work on a school or community publication.

Those selected for the program come to Washington for 16 weeks and participate in the regular program of the Center and in special programs to help prepare them for jobs as reporters and editors on newspapers and magazines and in radio and television news department throughout the country. Each fellowship provides for a stipend of at least $2,000.

Julius Duscha is director of the Washington Journalism Center and Clarence H. Hunter is the associate director.

Black Senators

Co-Sponsor Bills

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. - Four Black state senators are co-sponsoring bills to have the late Dr. Martin Luther King's birthday recognized as a legal holiday in Illinois.

The senators, Cecil A. Pardee, Fred J. Smith, Richard H. Newhouse, and Charles Chew, have offered three bills needed to give Dr. King's birthday full status as a legal holiday.

The first bill would officially declare Jan. 15, Dr. King's birthday, as a holiday. The second would require banks to close on that date.

The third bill would amend the Illinois school code so that school and classroom schedules could be amended to conform with the holiday.

Building To Be Named For 3 Slain Students

ORANGEBURG, S. C. - The dedication of a $1.4-million Health and Physical Education Complex Saturday will be part of a memorial to three students who were slain on the South Carolina State College campus a year ago.

The Smith, Hammond, Middleton Memorial Center is named for the three students who were killed by South Carolina State Highway Patrolmen on the fringe of the S. C. State College campus when students and highway patrolmen confronted each February 8, 1968. Twenty-seven others were injured in the incident.

A Memorial Lecture, featuring Dr. Nathan Wright, Jr., chairman of the 1968 National Conference on Black Power, will be held in the Center at 10:30 a.m. He will speak on "Civil Rights at the Crossroads."

At 9:30 a.m. a memorial meditation led by the Rev. T. Y. Rogers of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference will be held near the spot where the students were wounded. A granite stone marker presented in memory of the three youths by the Onyx Society of New York City College will be dedicated at that time.

Dr. Wright and the Reverend

Mr. Rogers will be guests at a faculty-staff luncheon and at 4 p.m., they will engage in a coffee house dialogue with students in the Student Center.

The day's activities will be climaxed with a creative worship service in White Hall Auditorium at 8 p.m.
