Kittrell's Students Air Grievances

'Solving Problems,' Says Prexy

By Charles R. Jones

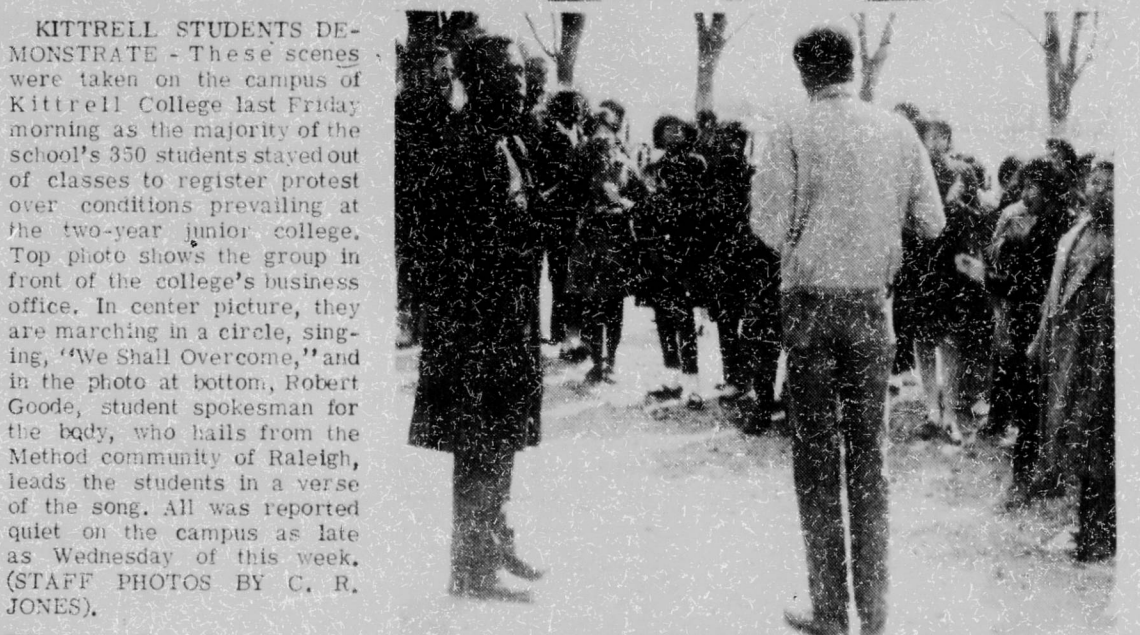

KITTRELL - The cry here last Friday morning by some 250 students at Kittrell College was not for black studies or black power. It was simply for human dignity.

This spokesman was given a complete tour of the dormitories by the students of this two-year AME church-related junior college, near Henderson, in Vance County.

Spokesman for the group was Robert Goode, a soft-spoken young man from the Methodist area of Raleigh, who was "concerned about my school."

College president, the Rev. Lonnie G. Horton, was report-

SOUL CITY NOW INCORPORATED Burglar Alarm Helps Trap Crowder Here

ROY LEE CROWDER

The star of a popular television series, "It Takes a Thief," has a local counterpart, but this one always "gets caught with the goods."

Roy Lee Crowder, 27, of 1107 Mark Street, began his career as a thief here when he was barely 12 years of age. He was charged with breaking and entering on June 16, 1954, but was prosecuted by juvenile authorities because of his age.

His latest "brush" with the law came on Sunday morning of this week.

David Henry Mosier of Bosse Jewelers, Inc., 401 Fayetteville Street, told Officers W. A. Blackman and H. L. Rushing at 2:50 a.m. Sunday, that a call came in saying the alarm was going off at Bosse's Jewelry.

The officers' report stated, "As we came down Davie Street, near Wilmington, we saw a subject running across the street. He ran behind Murray's Tire Service. We chased him around the building and he dropped something, later found by us to be watches, as he ran."

The officers proceeded to chase the subject around to the front of the structure, "where he tried to hide behind a brick wall. When we stopped him and placed him under arrest, we went back around the building to retrieve the five watches which he already had dropped. He also had two watches on his person."

Crowder was booked on (See JEWEL THIEF, P. 2)

Wall Street Journal Ed. Speaks Here

"By and large, North Carolina has met problems of turbulence with skill," William Vermont Royster, editor and vice-president of the Wall Street Journal and Dow Jones, Incorporated, told Saint Augustine's College students Thursday, February 27. Royster stated that the United States is the strongest nation in economic (See EDITOR OF, P. 2)

"PRESIDENT IN EXILE" SEEKS "BLACK HOUSE"- Washington: To the guffaws and cheers of his constituents, Negro comic Dick Gregory was inaugurated as "President In Exile" in a Washington, D. C. school house March 4. He immediately set as one of his first tasks location of a presidential "Black House" to move into. Gregory, accompanied by his wife, Lillian, gives a victory sign after his "inauguration." (UPI).

McKissick Enterprises Files Articles In City

The office of Secretary of State Thad Eure last week received articles of incorporation for Soul City, to be built in Warren County.

The articles were filed by Gordon Carey, 360 W. 125th Street, and Floyd Bixler McKissick, both of New York City, and Theoseus T. Clayton, Warrenton attorney.

Negro Runs For Mayor In Jersey

JERSEY CITY, N. J. - Julian K. Robinson, 39-year-old director of Jersey City's Department of Health and Welfare and acting chairman, Board of Trustees of Jersey City State College, announced this week (on Tuesday, March 4th) his candidacy for the office of mayor of Jersey City. In doing so, Robinson will make the first serious challenge to the dominance of the "Boss Hague" political machine in over twenty years. The Hague organization has been in power since 1933.

Robinson is the only Negro among the four announced candidates for the Democratic mayoralty nomination and by running will confront the incumbent mayor.

NUL Asks Abolition Of Death

NEW YORK, N. Y. - The National Urban League called Monday for the abolition of capital punishment throughout the United States.

The League, in a statement issued from its New York headquarters, declared that the death penalty failed to deter crime, was discriminatory as applied to black persons and the poor, and might even be a violation of the United States Constitution.

The League's National Board of Trustees adopted the position on capital punishment at a recent meeting in New York City. The 55-member Board is the League's governing body.

The statement was prompted by moves in several states that had abolished capital punishment to restore it.

The Board's statement said there was "little valid evidence to substantiate the allegation (See URBAN LEAGUE, P. 2)

DISRUPT CAFETERIA SERVICE AT CAROLINA-Chapel Hill: A large group of demonstrators gather in the Lenoir Hall cafeteria at the U. of North Carolina here March 4 after scattered fights broke out. Several tables were turned over by the demonstrators and one injury was reported. A strike by food service employees at the school is now in its 11th day and is being backed by Negro members of the Black Student movement. (UPI).

ASSAULT ATTEMPT FAILS
Miss Grace Elizabeth James, 22, 516 W. Lenoir Street, told Officer Bruce E. Tucker at 4:29 p.m. Wednesday, that she was walking in the 700 block of S. West Street, on her way to Washington School, 1000 Fayetteville Street, and was near Dorothea Drive when a colored male, approximately 38-years-old, pulled up beside her in a dark blue, late model car and asked her to go for a ride with him. When she refused, the woman said, the subject got out of the car and grabbed her by the arms, trying to force her into the vehicle.

However, Miss James said she scuffled with the man and scratched him on the face and arm, then he got into his car and left, headed north on S. West Street. All police units were notified to be on the alert for this subject.

STABBED IN THE CHEST
Curtis Lee Titus, 218 Regan Lane, informed Officers L. W. Godwin and W. S. Hattcock at 9:15 p.m. Friday, that his wife, Mrs. Julie M. Titus, stabbed him because "she thought I had a pistol." He said the woman "knifed" him as he walked into the house. Mr. Titus said his wife "was about drunk." He also said he did not want to sign a warrant against her.

The officers attempted to talk to Mrs. Titus at the residence, "but she would not come to the door." Scissors were used to stab the complainant in the left upper chest. (See CRIME BEAT, P. 3)
