The arrested students were taken to Bamberg County jail and charged with riot and unlawful assembly.

After the troops moved into the campus, a faculty member, D. J. Dingle, went to one of the seized buildings and was admitted.

A few minutes later, he came out with the students following behind.

About a dozen National Guardsmen stood in front of Potts' house.

"Keep your racist troops back," Dingle admonished the Guardsmen as the students filed by.

Some of the students carried luggage, but no weapons were evident and none was later found in the building when National Guard troops searched them.

The Hope and Opportunity City, being set up by the Marchers, Sunday, at a meeting, listed 12 demands to be carried out now, they stated.

The demands follow: 1. We demand abolishment of capital punishment. Now. 2. We demand that all statutes be repealed that is in the area of Segregation. We are non-violent and are the only participants who seem to have a real interest in a hard nose approach to the abolishment of capital punishment in this state. We are against one-way integration and in favor of Total Desegregation. This maintaining Black Schools to save extra cost of new buildings; to save Black Teachers jobs; and express a major voice in changing the trend of absorption of Black children into white racist-controlled schools to be Guinea Pigs. 3. We demand more Black Highway Patrolmen, now. 4. We demand more Black Judges. Now. 5. We demand a Civil Rights Bill, Now. 6. We demand a Fair Employment Practice Bill, Now. 7. We demand 15,000 jobs in the Highway Department in 100 Counties. Now. 8. We demand a new trial for Marie Hill, Now. 9. We demand Total Desegregation of all schools, Now. 10. We demand the minimum wage law that would raise the hour of wages to 2.50 per hour, Now. 11. We demand Fair Welfare Policies, Now. 12. We demand a Fair Housing Law, Now.

William L. Freeman told police he was 18 when he was arrested last Friday, along with eight other Negroes, while playing with a basketball and blocking traffic on Fayetteville St. Nine others were arrested Saturday on similar charges after they skipped ropes in front of the Str Walter Hotel. One of the 18 told police he was under 16 years of age and was charged in a juvenile warrant.

The case of another youth, Troy Lee Dawson, also of Washington, N. C., was dismissed in District Court after he told Judge Pretlow Winborne that he was only 14. At the time of his arrest, Dawson had told police he was 17. Tuesday he was arrested again on a charge of trespassing at the Carolina Hotel and gave his age as 15.

Donnie Lee Little, another Washington, N. C. youth, who was among the 15 convicted here Monday, told police he was 17 when he was arrested last Friday.

When Little was arrested early Tuesday morning on a charge of trespassing at the Carolina Hotel, he gave his age as 15.

Arrested with Dawson and Little at the hotel was Robert Turnage, another Washington, N. C. member of the group of marchers. Turnage, 17, was tried on the trespass warrant Tuesday afternoon in Wake District Court, Judge Pretlow Winborne did not invoke the 20-day suspended sentence given Turnage Monday for obstructing traffic.

Winborne continued prayer for judgment for one year on condition that Turnage not violate any law during that period. The judge advised Turnage to go home to Washington, N. C. before he got into more trouble.

A provision of the suspended 20-day jail sentence which had been given Turnage Monday provided that he not violate any law for six months.

Dawson and Little were cited to appear in juvenile court on the trespass charges.

BLASTS JURY

Three Negro women sat on last week's jury. They are: Mrs. Catherine Guess, Mrs. Annie B. Garris and Miss Mable Guess, all of the city or county. Attorney for Mr. Henderson was Thomas McNamara, who vigorously questioned Dr. Thomas B. Dameron, Jr., local physician, about the case.

Mr. Henderson relates that he has spent $460 in medical bills, lost $500 in wages and still suffers from the impact of the crash. He struck his chest on the steering wheel, his neck continues to bother him and he noticed swelling there. He continues to have difficulty in his neck, chest and upper back and feels that his symptoms have remained about the same for several years. He does not feel that he can bend over as far or turn his neck as far as prior to the accident. The motions of his neck, Henderson stated, are only 60 percent of normal.

Further testimony introduces a statement asked Dr. Dameron by Attorney McNamara. It follows:

Doctor, I wish to ask you a hypothetical question which reads as follows:

If the jury should find from the evidence in this case and by its greater weight that on December 23, 1963, Mr. Henderson, while sitting behind the steering wheel in the left front seat of a 1962 Cadillac, parked on the shoulder of Highway 64 in Wake County, North Carolina, and while said automobile was stopped off said highway because of an overturned truck blocking the traffic lanes, was struck from behind by an automobile operated by Floyd Asby, and that the force of the collision was such as to bend the bumper, mash in the trunk and do further damage to the rear end costing more than six hundred dollars and caused Mr. Henderson to be thrown forward with his chest striking the steering wheel and his head moving forward, then backward and within a few minutes thereafter he began to have pain in his neck and later experienced pain in his back, as well as swelling on the side of his neck; that this pain persisted for several months in spite of forty-one physical therapy treatments administered to him by Dr. Donald Hughes in Baltimore until May 18, 1964; that Mr. Henderson still experiences difficulty with his neck and back and particularly restricted neck motion.

Now, Doctor, based on these facts, do you have an opinion satisfactory to yourself as to whether or not the collision of December 23, 1963, could or might have caused these injuries? The physician is believed to have answered: "No treatment is necessary for Mr. Henderson at this time. He has been encouraged to continue with full activity as he has been doing in the past."

chuting exercises were weapons for use by the allies against the "enemy," including jeeps and tanks with which the allies could "defend" themselves.

The "mission" of the day was explained by two officers in a theatre, prior to the beginning of the activities, which started with the inspection of warfare material and paratroopers at the Pope Air Force Base, located some distance from Bragg, but situated on the same reservation.

The demonstrations ended when the U. S. had defeated the "enemy" and thousands of our military men had sole possession of Pineland.

Scheduled twice a year, the joint forces demonstrations show in action the latest in military hardware and equipment and the joint operating techniques developed in the quick reaction-close support combat role.

General Conway named Army Brigadier General Fred C. Allen, USSTRICOM director of logistics, to head the Brass Strike IV Joint Task Force.

The Joint Task Force consists of combat ready elements of the USAF's Tactical Air Command and the U. S. Army's Continental Army Command, Commanding the Air Force Strike (AFSTRIKE) is Brigadier General Paul P. Douglas, Jr., USAF, commander of the 836th Air Division.

Major units participating in Brass Strike IV are elements of Headquarters, U. S. Strike Command, MacDill AFB, Fla.; Tactical Air Command; Continental Army Command; Military Airlift Command; Strategic Air Command; XVIII Airborne Corps, 82nd Airborne Division and the U. S. Army John F. Kennedy Center for Special Warfare at Ft. Bragg; and the USAF Special Operations Force with headquarters at Eglin AFB, Fla.

WOMAN CUTS

Miss Woods will receive a preliminary hearing in District Court Three here sometime during this week.

A motive for her anger toward Mrs. Medlin could not be ascertained by CAROLINIAN press time, but it is believed that Judge Pretlow Winborne will get to the cause at the hearing in the incident.

Miss Woods did not suffer any wounds in the melee.

She credits her long life to "the good Lord."

Looking back on her wedding day, Mrs. Woods stated, "The preacher hardly had time to finish the ceremony before everybody was having a fit to get to the tables where we had a great feast."

At the time of her husband's death, she had five small children and was forced to start working at two jobs as a domestic. "I don't make any bills and don't have to pay any now," said the affable Mrs. Woods with a smile.

Born in Warsaw, Mrs. Woods, has spent most of her life here in the city.

A son, Willie Woods, Jr., who lives in Paulsboro, N. J., is the oldest son at 67, while son George (Molly) Woods is 63. He resides in Raleigh. A daughter, Mrs. Fannie Watts, 60, lives in Philadelphia, Pa.

She said her mother was sold as a slave on the market in Fayetteville, but Mrs. Woods, at 103, was born about three years after the South surrendered. Her mother died at the age of 102.

Still an expert with a needle, Miss Woods showed the newsmen several quilts with astonishingly fancy needlework in them.

Mrs. Woods believes that "An idle mind is the Devil's workshop," and proves it by keeping herself as busy as possible. Until last year, she regularly tended a garden, but now occupies herself with quilting.

She moves around without difficulty, has a keen memory and recalls incidents that would put many a person 80 or 90 years her junior to shame.

The newsmen left feeling better, although tired from a hard day's work at the office, and feeling that somehow Raleigh would never have been the same if there was not a Mrs. Caroline Woods residing at 815 E. Hargett Street.

Happy birthday, Aunt Caroline!

ROY WILKINS

Wilkins, "the grandson of a Mississippi slave," grew up in the Midwest and got his start as a news reporter Minnesota and Kansas City, Mo-Kan., prior to joining the NAACP staff. He will tell "The True Story of the Negro Revolution Today," as he attempts to answer the question: "What will it be Separation or Integration?"

Speaking in Dee Cee recently, Wilkins warned that the Nixon Administration can ill afford to soft-pedal the enforcement of anti-bias job legislation. To do, he said, would be "only at our peril."

CITY GEARS

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE ONE) Porter, director of the Raleigh studios of WUNA - TV, 3,993 votes; J. Herbert Hayes, retired traffic captain of the Raleigh Police Department, 3,767; H. Frank Faucette, Jr., real estate dealer, 2,958; incumbent Councilman William Worth, 2,639; David G. Olmsted, certified public accountant, 2,566; Royal J. Adams, Jr., president of Carolina Claims Service, 2,249; and Sam A. Flint, owner of a laundry and dry cleaning business, 2,057.

Twenty-two candidates were on the ballot which attracted 12,368 of Raleigh's 49,866 registered voters to the polls. Only in the general municipal election in 1965 have more Raleigh voters gone to the polls for a city election. The total turnout for the May balloting that year was 17,191.

A primary is necessary here when the list of candidates exceeds by at least one twice the number of seats to be filled.

In the School Board race, a primary was not held because only eight candidates offered for office. Had a ninth person placed his name on the rolls, a primary would have been necessary.

Running for office are Mrs. Elizabeth B. Coffield, veteran educator, who is dean of women at Shaw University and associate professor of education at Shaw University.

Others are Charles A. (Chick) Adams, Ronald C. Butler, Mrs. William M. Craven, J. A. (Jack) Knowles, John P. Knudsen, B. Joe Miller and Mrs. William F. Troxler.

There are only four seats vacant on the School Board.

Fuquay-Varina

BY MRS. LOUISE CAESAR FUQUAY - Varina - First Baptist's Sunday School opened

at 10 a.m. The supt., Mr. Alford Thorpe was in charge. The subject of the lesson was "Why the Bible is Important," Luke 4:16-22A

The morning worship service began at St. Augusta Free-Will Baptist Church at 11:30. The Eighteenth Anniversary of Rev. J. M. Jackson was celebrated. Music was rendered by the Antioch Baptist Choir and the Gospel Chorus of St. Augusta, accompanied by Mr. Wilbert. Thorpe. Scripture was read by Rev. Freeman from Mark 1:19. Prayer was given by Deacon Marshal McKoy for the sick and shut-in.

The Rev. Mr. W. M. Freeman delivered the message. He chose for his subject, "No Easy Way." Text, "And he said unto them; this kind cannot be driven out by anything but Prayer;" Mark 9:29 (RSV). After morning services, dinner was served. An afternoon presentation service was held at 2:30. Devotion was led by Mrs. Mae Smith and Mrs. Christine Black. Evening service began at 7:30. Music was by the Great St. Paul Choirs, Durham. The speaker was Rev. W. R. Bigelow, pastor of Great St. Paul. The all day service was enjoyed and was a great success.

Rev. J. M. Jackson will render a Mother's Day program at First Baptist Church on May 11, at 2:30 p.m.

Let us remember our sick and shut-in and pray for them. Our sick list is Mrs. Lillie Bell Wilson.
