

Playwright's Production Ends Series

NEW YORK, N. Y.—"Man in the Middle" by black playwright Gordon Watkins, will be presented by the Hunter College Playwrights Project at the West Side YMCA, 5 West 63rd St., on Saturdays, May 17 and 24, and Sundays, May 18 and 25, at 8:30 p.m. This is the fourth and final production in the series and is open to the public without charge.

Directed by Earl McCarroll, the play features a cast of 18, all of whom are experienced, professional actors.

"Man in the Middle" is Mr. Watkins' first full-length play. A Broadway actor, singer and director, he has also written a protest ritual, "A Lion Roams the Streets," which has been presented frequently in the New York City area.

"Man in the Middle" is concerned with a black social worker who returns to his native Harlem. In trying to fight the "system," he comes up with an explosive solution which challenges the authorities and brings him to a showdown with an old rival from the gang wars. The play has been described as "an accurate, vivid and dynamic look at present-day Harlem."

Most American girls marry as early as possible because they fear, and rightly, too, that if they don't the man will be captured by some other designing female. It's the climate.

My friend is not perfect—nor am I—and so we suit each other admirably.

MUSIC STUDENTS PRESENT RECITAL - These are some of the students, with their instructors, who were presented in a music recital in the Saint Augustine's College Chapel on May 8. C.; Mrs. G. H. Jennifer, instructor; and Dr. Albert Grauer, head, music department. Back row: James Burt, Raleigh, Harold Jeffreys, band instructor; and John Pitchford, music instructor.

Top NC Music Tutors To School Of The Arts

WINSTON-SALEM - Eight of the state's outstanding public school music teachers and performers will be at the North Carolina School of the Arts for two summer instrumental workshops for junior high school students.

This is the first time that the School of the Arts has offered instrumental workshops for junior high school students in strings, winds, brass and percussion, and the program is one of the few in the country organized exclusively for students on the junior high school level.

The teachers include Robert Clark, director of music at Parkland High School and instructor in tuba at the School of the Arts, who will teach lower brass instruments; Bernard Foy, specialist in music education for the Winston-Salem and Forsyth County Schools, who will teach clarinet and saxophone; Robert Klepper, director of music for Mooresville city schools, who will teach oboe and bassoon; Harry Snell, teacher of percussion for Winston-Salem and Forsyth County Schools, who will teach percussion; Otis Strother, instructor and in-

Spilling Over

NEW YORK (UPI) - Student violence is increasingly spilling over from the nation's colleges to high schools, which are becoming training grounds for youthful unrest. In New York, 24 students and five adults have been arrested during demonstrations and disturbances that have plagued the city's public schools. And in Newburgh, N. Y., three high school students were arrested on charges of threatening a principal with pellet guns and seizing a school's public-address system to announce they had taken over the building.

strumental teacher at Boone, who will teach upper brass, and William Tritt, teacher of string students in Charlotte, who will teach violin and viola.

"Spring Festival" Title Of St. Aug.'s May Day

"Spring Festival" was the theme of the May Day activities on the Saint Augustine's College Campus, Saturday, May 3. Reigning as May Queen this year was Miss Fay Harris, a senior, English major of Jacksonville, Florida. Last summer Miss Harris studied voice in Siena, Italy under the sponsorship of the North Carolina School of Arts in Winston-Salem and the Italian government. She has also studied under Norma Briggers, a former music instructor at Saint Augustine's College.

Attending the queen were Misses Dorothy Barksdale of Greenville, S. C., a senior English major; Lydia Goffigan of Virginia Beach, Virginia, a junior pre-med major; Majorie Taylor of Petersburg, Virginia, a sophomore business administration major and Patricia Barnett of Camden, New Jersey, a freshman education major. JeSanne M. Robinson, two-year old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Prezell Robinson was the crown bearer, and Carolyn Beatty, six year old daughter, of Father and Mrs. Clyde Beatty was the flower girl.

Donnell Morris of Fort Lauderdale, Florida, president of the Student Council, crowned the queen.

Fifth Grade Wins Library Plaque At Fuller School

BY JOYCE HINTON
You know how hard it is to keep elementary students quiet, at times, in the library, but Fuller School has devised a system to do it.

Mrs. C. D. Avery's fifth grade class has won a plaque for being the most obedient and the quietest class in the library for a period of one month.

The runner-up class was Mrs. N. Avery's first grade. Our school is very proud of the first grade because this is

Students of the physical education department saluted the queen and her court by performing gymnastic stunts, musical numbers and dances depicting countries all over the world. The events of the programs were directed by Mrs. Gwendolyn H. Jenifer, Miss June Powell, Enoch Dukes, Fred Ponder, and Mrs. Delores Coward, instructors in the Physical Education Department. Leo McKie, junior physical education major from Columbia, South Carolina, was the narrator.

These homeowners enjoy the clean, comfortable, convenience of all-electric living.

And something else, too.

Zebulon

Jerry Upchurch, his wife and three children enjoy the warm comfort of an electric furnace. A window air conditioner provides summer cooling. The 1292 square-foot home has these major appliances: range, refrigerator and water heater.

Cost: An average of $28.00/month for electricity including heating and cooling.

Raleigh

Dale S. Ward heats his 2000 square-foot home with radiant ceiling cable. A two-and-a-half ton window air conditioner cools the five-member Ward household in summer. Major electric appliances include: range, refrigerator, water heater, clothes washer/dryer, and dishwasher.

Cost: An average of $36.00/month for electricity including heating and cooling.

Zebulon

Eva F. Liles and her two children comfortably condition their 900 square-foot home with an electric heat pump (central heating/cooling). The Liles family enjoys these major electric appliances: range, refrigerator, water heater, clothes washer/dryer, and dishwasher.

Cost: An average of $20.00/month for electricity including heating and cooling.

Economy

Our customers like a lot of things about electric heat. Cleanliness. Comfort. Performance.

But what about cost?

Operating experience has shown that electric heat compares favorably in price with other types of heat.

Naturally, the cost will vary from home to home, depending upon the number of occupants, size of the home, number and use of appliances, living habits and location.

The best way to find out what electric heat will cost you is to call us. We can supply you with information on the kinds of electric heat, estimate costs and assist in getting installation bids for your home. No obligation, of course.
