FROM RALEIGH'S OFFICIAL POLICE FILE

THREATENS WIFE'S LIFE
Mrs. Hattie Mae Brown, 925 E. Lane Street, Apartment 1, told Officer C. Troublefield at 2:05 p.m. Saturday, that her husband, Joe Brown, 45, did point a .22 calibre pistol at her and threatened to kill her, and, as a result, the gun went off during the ensuing scuffle, causing damages to be committed at the complainant's house. Mrs. Brown was advised to sign an assault with a deadly weapon warrant against her husband, and did so. "Complainant was put in intensive fear for her life," the cops' report concluded.

Mr. Brown was described as being five feet, eleven inches tall and weighing 275 pounds. Address listed as Wendell, the subject was also said to have been wearing "soiled work clothes."

"RAMONA" ACCUSED
Miss Odell Holloway, 18, 508-1/2 E. Hargett Street, reported to Officer R. E. Keeter at 10:24 p.m. Friday, that she and a colored female, named "Ramona," had an argument and she cut the complainant with a bottle, than ran off. Miss Holloway said she did not know the last name of the suspect or where she lives. The incident took place at the intersection of E. East and E. Martin Streets. (See CRIME BEAT, P. 2)

Unique Party Yields Cash For College

SALISBURY - Returns from a rather unique birthday party, given for Bishop R. L. Jones, revealed to the alumni and friends of Livingstone College, at the annual meeting of the Alumni Association, held in connection with the 87th commencement exercises, Monday, May 26, that the Carnegie Library, serving the college, and the library of Hood Theological Seminary, received a total of $2,000. The college library was given $1,500 and the Hood Library received $500.

Mrs. Mabel Miller Jones, wife of the prelate, told the audience that the idea of doing something tangible in celebration of her husband's birthday motivated the project and, as a result, she invited many of his friends and well wishers of the college and seminary to give a least one or more books for the libraries. Many of those persons responded.

Mrs. Jones made the presentation to Mrs. Josephine Sherrill, librarian for the college and Mrs. Willie Oliver, who is in charge of the Hood Seminary Library.

Bishop Jones explained that since there was such a demand for books on African culture and Negro history, that it was his desire that books giving this information would be bought and placed in the two libraries. (See UNIQUE PARTY, P. 2)

Two Raleigh Women 'Fuss'-One Stabbed With Steak Knife

In State And Nation

Student Unrest Grows

4 MEN AND A PISTOL - Memphis, Tenn.: Police officers hold a pistol to the head of slaying suspect Jimmy Lee Thomas, (center), after he was captured in a drainage culvert May 27. Thomas is a suspect in the murder of liquor store owner Michael Phillips. (UPI)

Ellington St. Scene Of Knifing

A Raleigh woman with at least fourteen arrests, dating back to April 9, 1941, became the victim of another woman's wrath about 7:32 p.m. last Saturday, according to a police report by Officers I. C. King and R. E. Williams.

Mrs. Lucille Boylan Brown, 50, 742 Ellington Street, stated that Mrs. Trenton Edwards, about 43, 112 Stronach Alley, did willfully assault her at her (Mrs. Brown's) home with a deadly weapon—a steak knife—causing bodily injury to her right side and upper right leg.

The suspect, Mrs. Edwards, was picked up after Mrs. Brown signed an assault with a deadly weapon warrant against her. She allegedly admitted to the assault after her arrest.

In further testimony, offered by Mrs. Catherine Lee, 737 Ellington Street, it was brought out that Mrs. Edwards admitted the attack on Mrs. Brown to her while fleeing the scene of the crime. Mrs. Lee also is listed as having called "the law."

Mrs. Brown was treated for her wounds at Wake Memorial Hospital following the incident.

Although, according to officials at the City-Council Identification Bureau, Mrs. Edwards has no prior police record. (See STABBED, P. 2)

Actions Of Students Reviewed

Many persons throughout the state, had mixed reactions about Apollo Flight No 10 when asked to compare it with the many ills that attend America and especially North Carolina, this week.

There were those who were greatly disturbed about Negro students being dissatisfied with the status-quo in both the colleges and high school levels, bemoaned the fact that college president were finding it impossible to cope with the many situations that now confront them. They wondered why the astronauts were being sent in search of life and habitation on the moon, while there was chaos on North Carolina school campuses and in other states. (See STUDENT UNREST, P. 2)

President Asked For Assistance

NEW YORK - President Nixon and members of his staff were urged Monday to participate in unique interracial confrontations designed to help break down the barriers of misunderstanding between whites and blacks.

The invitation was issued in the current issue of Look magazine by Revs. Ralph D. Abernathy and Andrew Young of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. In making their statement, both men said that national leaders often make decisions that affect the minorities, "the have-nots," without personal knowledge of these people's feelings.

The President and his staff would benefit, they feel, by joining in special white-black leadership confrontation sessions, which are conducted along the lines of group therapy used by psychiatrists.

Interracial confrontation sessions are part of a growing national movement, reported the magazine. Each group has white and black co-leaders. (See URGES NIXON, P. 2)

Black Lawyers Meet With Law Students This Wk.

NEW YORK, N. Y. - The Center for Continuing Education of the University of Chicago, 1307 East 60th Street, Chicago, Illinois, will be the site of a nation-wide conference of Black lawyers and law students on May 29-31.

Among the prominent Black legal experts attending will be: Derrick Bell of Los Angeles; The Hon. George Crockett of Detroit; Hayward Henry of Boston; The Hon. Samuel Jackson of Washington, D. C.; Timothy Jenkins of Washington, D. C.; L. Clayton Jones of Brooklyn. (See BLACK LAWYERS, P. 2)

A MESSAGE TO TEENAGERS

We, as a whole, are in a great deal of trouble. We are the future generation of tomorrow, and I am asking you now, teenager-to-teenager, to straighten up and let us make the world a better world to live in. We are the ones who will determine how our environments will be.

Black, as well as white teenagers, must work together or else we are going to destroy ourselves, as well as this beautiful world in which we live.

Sincerely,
A Teenage Christian,
Gwendolyn Dunn,

Financial, Legal Aid For Tutor

The National Education Association's DuShane Emergency Fund and the North Carolina Teachers Association provide support for Mrs. Helen Hammond of Washington, North Carolina.

Mrs. Hammond, a teacher in Beaufort County School System, was one of five Negro educators transferred to the predominantly white Beaufort County High School in September, 1968, then released in February, 1969 on the grounds that all five had sub-standard certificates which would affect the accreditation rating of the predominantly white high school.

This, however, did not seem to have affected the rating of the predominantly Negro high (See NEA-NCTA, P. 2)

Deltas Launch Massive Drive On Isolation

WASHINGTON, D. C. - A 50,000 member Negro sorority has announced the opening of a national campaign to eliminate the damaging effects of racial isolation in America.

Mrs. Frankie Muse Freeman, of St. Louis, Mo., national president of Delta Sigma Theta, a predominantly Negro public service organization, announced that the sorority's chapter in 337 communities are launching the campaign as part (See NATION'S BELLA, P. 2)

WEATHER REPORT

Temperatures during the period, Thursday through Monday, will average above normal in the western half of the state, ranging to below normal along the coast. Daytime highs will be in the 80s, except mid-to-upper 70s along the north coast. Lows at night will average in the mid-to-upper 50s in the mountains, and mostly in the 60s elsewhere. Warm weather is expected to prevail through the weekend and cooler temperatures should set in by the beginning of next week. Precipitation will be moderate, except light over the extreme northern sections and will average from one-tenth to one-half inch, occurring as scattered showers or thundershowers at the beginning of next week.

SCENES OF THE UPHEAVAL AT A&T STATE UNIVERSITY - Greensboro: These five photographs depict what took place at North Carolina A&T State University last Tuesday night through Friday. From left, Greensboro Police Colonel W. A. Hurch, displays some of the weapon confiscated by National Guard troops early Friday when they stormed the campus. The eight rifles leaning against the wall were in working order and police said they might be a type of drill rifle used by ROTC units on the campus. Photo number two shows elements of a National Guard company moving in to surround Scott Hall Friday morning, following another night of sniper fire and violence. Next picture shows the Guardsmen invading the bear gas-surrounded campus to put down a third night of violence, which began Tuesday night. Overturned truck is seen in the center. It was burned by a band of roving blacks earlier. In photo, fourth from left, a young man, holding his flag of surrender to the end of his umbrella, walks from Scott Hall after Guardsmen rouser the snipers to put an end to the violence. Right picture shows a young black student sprinting for cover as several others duck behind an abandoned car, after sniper opened up on the Guardsmen.

One 19-year-old freshman student at the university was killed during the exchange of gunfire between students and Guardsmen. A&T president, Dr. Lewis C. Dowdy ordered the school closed last Friday and all students were advised to be off the state-owned campus by 6 p.m. that day. (ALL ABOVE PHOTOS BY UPI)
