

"One-Woman War On Poverty" Will Receive Highest Award

DETROIT, Michigan—A Detroit resident described as a "one-woman war on poverty" has been named to receive Ford Motor Company's highest award for community service.

Mrs. Charleszetta Waddles, founder and pastor of the Perpetual Soul Mission in Detroit's inner city, and her husband, Payton, are among seven persons designated as "Citizens of the Year" and recipients of Town Crier Bell Awards in Ford's 10th annual Detroit-area Community Service Awards program.

MRS. C. WADDLES

Mother Waddles, as she is known, has been helping the poor "since back before it became fashionable," she says. Since founding the mission in 1957, she has ministered to the needs of the poor in many ways through what amounts to an "unofficial welfare center" operated largely on faith and borrowed money.

One of her best-known endeavors is a soup kitchen which daily feeds 250 persons -- white and black.

She also launched a self-help center to teach useful skills to young people and to rehabilitate older ones. At the center, classes in typing, dressmaking, machine operating, music, photography and upholstery are taught by volunteers.

Mother Waddles also sponsors a troop of Camp Fire Girls and organized the Auto Safety Troutadours, a group of youngsters who sing safety songs at civic functions.

In her charitable activities, she has the full-time support and financial assistance of her husband, an employee of Ford's General Services Division.

The Community Service Awards program is conducted by Ford each year at some 40 company locations across the nation to recognize and honor employees and spouses of employees who give their time and talents toward the betterment of their communities.

This is the 10th consecutive year it has been conducted on a nationwide basis.

Engine Two To Engine One

"Engine Two to Engine One
This fire is a big one."
From the emotion of the Captain's voice this time, I know what he wants because I remember from the first time. Why, the Captain wants a supply line.
"Catch that hydrant," my Captain yells, "on the corners of Saunders and Carolina Pines."
Off the engine with the hose line,
Trying my best to supply water from hydrant in time.
The fire is ragging and people are crying, "Put water on that fire before people start dying."

Six-thirty is the approximate time;
People are home from work preparing to dine.
Unfortunately, robbing water from my supply line.
Car Two comes by in time;
I tell him the circumstances of my line.
"Car Two to Engine Five" -- "10 - 9!"
"Come boost the pressure on this supply line
On the corners of Saunders and Carolina Pines."
"10 - 4 Engine Five."

The Water pressure on the fire ground is now fine;
The fire is rapidly dying and people have stopped crying.
The people are now saying,
"Everyone in town should be Proud of the Raleigh Fire Department this time."
This is my original work based on actual fire in Raleigh, N. C. in 1963.

Does it hurt to chill beer twice?

Not that you'd want to. Sometimes it just happens... like after a picnic, or when you bring home a couple of cold 6-paks and forget to put 'em in the refrigerator. Does re-chilling goof up the taste or flatten the flavor?

Relax. You don't have to worry.

A really good beer like Budweiser is just as good when you chill it twice. We're mighty glad about that. We'd hate to think of all our effort going down the drain just because the temperature has its ups and downs. You can understand why when you consider all the extra trouble and extra expense that go into brewing Bud. For instance, Budweiser is the only beer in America that's Beechwood Aged.

Yes?

No? So... it's absolutely okay to chill beer twice.

Enough said. (Of course, we have a lot more to say about Budweiser. But we'll keep it on ice for now.)

Budweiser is the King of Beers.

(But you know that.)

FSC Graduates A Record 200

FAYETTEVILLE - An overflow audience of parents and friends jammed Seabrook Auditorium for Fayetteville State College's 92nd Commencement Exercises which saw a record 200-graduates receiving degrees.

The graduates, which were called the seeds of a new "black-middle class" heard Shaw University President James Cheek call for a new order in the current social revolution.

Dr. Cheek gave his address against a background of pomp and ceremony saturated with unusually warm June weather. He called for a change in current tactics related to the revolution.

"We cannot create anarchy to oppose another form of violence, rather we must use deeds and sincerity instead of insincerity," he said.

"Despite America's amazing growth, economically, in this century, the American black man is still at a standstill. In education, he is being frustrated, his vision has been crushed and his hopes destroyed," Cheek continued.

Dr. Cheek admonished the graduates to dedicate themselves to changing these patterns. "We need a 'Human Revolution' which includes a system that thinks of people instead of property, peace instead of war and life over death."

"All of your efforts should be to redeem the United States. Despite all of its shortcomings America is still the greatest land on earth," Cheek said. "We must not abandon our dream, we must not forget our heritage, we have to work to make our dream come true," the speaker continued.

Cheek said that today's graduates will have to initiate the new "Black middle class." "This group must work for freedom with justice, a society with opportunity, build and use time wisely, develop more sophisticated businesses and above all display dignity."

The official ceremonies featured President Rudolph Jones, Academic Dean Odell Uzzell, John H. Cook, chairman of the board of trustees, J. E. Seabrook, President-Emeritus, and Rev. R. A. Massey.

The 200 graduates included all graduates who had completed their academic requirements since the annual commencement a year ago.

Dr. Seabrook set a record for attendance. He has now attended 47 consecutive graduation exercises in his long association with Fayetteville State College.
