ENTERTAINMENT
HUES and CRIES
 BY NEGRO PRESS INTERNATIONAL
 "PUSH BABY" RETURNS
 BROOKLYN, N. Y. - Louis Gossett, 31-year-old native New York actor-musician who recently played a featured role in the MGM movie "The Bushbabies" --filmed on location in Tanzania and England--has returned to the U. S. to once again play opposite Diana Sands, in the scheduled United Artists release, "The Landlord." His new venture which went before the cameras Monday, has him playing the role of Miss Sands' husband.

REPLACEMENT "MISSION"
 HOLLYWOOD - CBS' entertaining weekly television series, "Mission Impossible," may undergo almost wholesale changes in characters next season, if the issue of pay raises isn't settled amicably. All the regulars are asking for more money, but the producers don't want to give it. Greg Morris, the sole Black man in the series, is finding his troubles multiplying, for the producers are trying to get tennis star Arthur Ashe to take his place, if he does not go along with the same pay scale.

MEMORIAL CONCERT
 WASHINGTON - The dates of June 20-22 will be important in the nation's capital, for that is the time Operation Breadbasket's 22-piece gospel orchestra and 40-voice choir will present the premiere performance of a memorial concert dedicated to the late Dr. Martin Luther King. The premiere performance will be held at the Crampton auditorium on the campus of Howard University, with other appearances being made throughout the city.

NEW FACE
 NEW YORK - Another new Black series star will be appearing over the video lanes with the beginning of NBC-TV's fall season. He is Hari Rhodes, who will be cast as a district attorney in one of the trilogy of weekly dramas about men in medicine, law and public service, gathered under the title "The Bold Ones."

IN MEMORIAM
 PHILADELPHIA - Twenty-six years after his death, the late jazz immortal, Fats Waller, was as much alive as he was prior to 1943, in numerous ceremonies and programs held locally in commemoration of what would have been his 65th birthday. Coinciding with the celebrations was the re-issue by RCA Victor of an album collection of his gems, entitled "African Ripples" (Vintage LPV-562).

ceived honorary doctorate degrees. From left, they are: Dr. Benjamin E. Mayes, commencement speaker; Dr. Rudolph Jones, Mrs. Edith M. C. Spellman, Mrs. Fannie Lou Hamer and the Rev. William Westbrook. All except Dr. Mays, who received an honorary degree at Shaw on November 18, 1966, received the honoraries.

FIRST WOMAN TO HEAD A&T ALUMNI - Mrs. Julia S. Brooks of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania is the first woman ever elected president of the A&T State University Alumni Association. Offering congratulations after her election last Saturday is Howard T. Barnhill, Charlotte, outgoing president of the Association.

 Dear Dad, this day we celebrate,
 For you, and you alone;
 We appreciate all you have done,
 To give us a happy home,
 We've seen you work in rain and shine,
 Even in sleet and snow;
 We are grateful, Dear Dad, to you for this,
 And proud to tell you so.
 So this day, sit back,
 Dear Dad, relax;
 Don't worry about a thing,
 For this day we dedicate to you,
 Today you are the King.

Shaw Series Wins Student Approval

Shaw University has completed a new, student-oriented program entitled, "20th Century Man: A Black Perspective." The object of the course was to make the required sequence of social science subjects more meaningful to Black students. Phaon Goldman, coordinator of the "Man and Society" phase of this program, arranged to bring in nationally known Black authorities on such subjects as history, psychology, sociology, economics and religion so that the students might obtain dramatic, factual information on Black people in America. Some of the lecturers at Shaw for this series were Dr. Nicholas Onyewu of Federal City College, Washington, D. C.; Mr. Douglas Jones of the Black Studies Institute, Washington, D. C.; Mr. John Henrik Clarke of the Black Heritage CBS-TV series, NYC; Mrs. Fannie Lou Hamer of the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party; Rev. Douglas Moore, widely known as "Stokely Carmichael's minister", Arlington, Va; and Dr. Lonnie Shabazz of Washington, D. C.'s Black Muslim Mosque. The problem of identity for Black males was the topic for lecturer Dr. James Bayton, head of Howard University's Department of Psychology, while the topic "Urban Education and the Black Child" drew John Churchville from the Freedom Library Day School in Philadelphia Pa., as a speaker. This School was prominently featured in a recent TV special entitled "Of Black America", narrated by Bill Cosby. The final section of 20th Century Man concerned economic and invited lecturers were Rev. Vigil Wood of Boston, Mass; Mr. Victor Solomon, Chairman of Harlem CORE, NYC; Mr. Frank Smith of the Institute for Policy Studies, Washington, D. C. and Jim Forman of the National Black Economic Development Conference. Their subjects ranged from Black capitalism to Black communalism to reparations to Black Americans for centuries of economic exploitation. The 20th Century Man program, which many of Shaw's administrators see as a prototype of an Afro-American or Black Studies program, was acclaimed by most students enrolled in the sequence as well. A sophomore related, "The best thing about this course was where they talked about Black identity. I learned the part the Black Man played in developing world history. Before, I had only heard the white man's part." A Black co-ed from New Jersey offered this analogy, "An ideology of Blackness makes you married to your Brothers and Sisters, but it is a marriage that is only as sacred as you make it." A popular student leader probably summed up the feeling of most of the students when he said, "I learned more about myself as a Black Man, it has opened up my mind to new ideas and concepts dealing with the Black Man."
