'Mrs. Lea Is Bound Over For Murder

Mrs. Peggy Jean Lea, 21, 203 N. Cooke Street, has been bound over for trial in Wake Superior Court in the May 27 murder of her husband, Raymond Lea, about 25, who was shot to death on the night of Tuesday, May 27. It is believed that trial will not be held until the July or August term of Mrs. Lea, according to records in the Wake County Sheriff's Department, had obtained a permit to carry a gun on the same day of the killing. No bond has been allowed and she is still at the Wake County Jail awaiting trial.

Wake County Coroner Marshall W. Bennett, who viewed Lea's body at Wake Memorial Hospital, where it was taken shortly after the shooting, said, "There was very little blood

ACCUSED

Miss Dorothy Newsome, 20, 201 S. East Street, told Officers Norman Artis and R. E. Brown at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, that she was shot by a man called "Chain-Gang Cadillac," whose real name is Leroy Purcell, 47. 908 E. Davie Street, She claimed she was shot in an attempt to get back a watch Purcell took from her while she was asleep. However, he told the officers that he shot her because she had a gun. The guns were not found, but twelve bullets were found in "Cadillac's" pockets. He was charged with assault with a deadly weapon. The police report did not state just what wounds Miss Newsome received, but she was treated and released at Wake Memorial Hospital

ON TOP AGAIN - Washington: The Supreme Court ruled June 16 that the House of Representatives improperly excluded Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-NY, from sitting in the 90th Congress in 1968. Poweel, pictured in a March, 1969 file photo, pursued his appeal of the ouster on the grounds that the House owed him back pay and re-· storation of his seniority. Chief Justice Earl Warren, writing the 62-page majority opinion, said that the issue of back pay should be considered first in lower courts. (UPI).

WEATHER REPORT

Temperatures during the pereiod, Thursday through Monday, will average much above normal. Daytime highs are exnormal. Daytime highs are expected to average in the upper 70s in the North Carolina mountains and in the lower 80s elsewhere. Lows at night will be in the low to middle 50s in the mountains, and 57 to 65 degrees elsewhere. A gradual warming trend is expected Thursday and Friday, with cooler weather setting in Sunday and Monday. Precipitation will average more than three-fourths of an inch, occurring as showers in the mountains Thursday and Friday, and spreading over the entire and spreading over the entire state Saturday and Sunday.

TESTIFY BEFORE DEMOCRATIC COMMISSION - Atlanta; Two of the first witnesses to appear before the Commission of the Democratic Party structure, headed by Sen. George McGovern, here June 16 morning were former Georgia Governor Carl Senders (L) and State Representative Julian Bond (R). The hearing was to continue throughout the day with witnesses from five southern states appearing. Sanders said the South should be given an opportunity of revitalizing its own political structures and Bond called for a new way of selecting the candidates. (UPI).
