Nixon Administration May Face Suit

Guidelines On Schools Criticized

WASHINGTON - The Leadership Conference on Civil Rights, Saturday warned the Nixon Administration it would bring suit, if necessary, to stop any weakening of the school desegregation guidelines.

The National Chairman of the Conference, Roy Wilkins, urged the President to meet with him and other civil rights leaders before any redrafting of the guidelines is done.

Mr. Wilkins' message to the President was in response to reports that officials of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the Justice Department and the White House were in the process of drafting a policy statement that would slow down desegregation of the public schools in those southern schools districts out of compliance with the law.

The Conference letter declared: It now appears that the Federal government may be party to flagrant denial of constitutional rights. News and other reports suggest your administration is countenancing delay. We understand the Department of Health, Education and Welfare is about to postpone the deadline for school desegregation indefinitely even though the Department's guidelines call for desegregation by the start of the school year 1969-70.

On this issue, representatives of the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights were present.

Stand Is Backed By Democrats

The Wake County Democratic Executive Committee, last Wednesday night, passed a resolution endorsing a speech, delivered by former Raleigh City Councilman, John Wesley Winters, before the members of the Raleigh Junior Chamber of Commerce the night before. The resolution passed without a single dissenting vote.

In his address, Winters asked for the outright firing of H. Palmer Edwards, executive director of the Raleigh Redevelopment Commission, and the resignation of the chairman of the Raleigh Housing Authority, Robert Broughton, among other things.

At the close of his address, he received a standing ovation from the Jaycees at the Faculty Club, located on Hillsborough Street. It was his second speech before the all-white body and is believed to have been a first for a private black citizen.

The three-term former city councilman received the following statement of confidence from the Wake County Democratic Executive Committee, of which he is third vice president:

"Whereas, racial trouble resulting from indifference to the problems of Negroes has been prophesied by John Winters, respected vice-chairman of the Democratic Party of Wake County, let us heed that prophesy and do everything we can to prevent it from coming true. Therefore, be it resolved that the Democratic Executive Committee of Wake County calls on each public official and private individual concerned with racial relations in the areas of housing, education, and jobs (1) to devise new and imaginative existing programs in a sound and constructive way, and (2) to do both of these with a sense of urgency.

Submitted by Malcolm L. Williams, Chairman, Precinct # 15; Wake County Executive Committee, Democratic.

Travelogue On Black History Is Published

A copyrighted article by novelist John Oliver Killens in the July issue of Redbook, just released, traces the deeds and lives of Black men and women in American history from the time of the American Revolution.

Traveling through Boston and New Orleans, Mr. Killens has uncovered a wealth of information to commemorate the Black man's contribution to America.

The Crispus Attucks Monument at Boston Common was erected in honor of a Black man who was the first to fall at the historic moment which most men refer to as the beginning of the great War of the American Revolution. (Page 66)

The monument of Colonel Robert Gould Shaw and the courageous 54th Massachusetts Volunteers, a Black regiment in the Union Army that distinguished itself in the Battle of Fort Wagner, stands at the Beacon Street edge of Boston Common. (Page 56)

The Houghton Library Rare Book Collection at Harvard contains the Phillis Wheatley folio edition of Paradise Lost, presented to her during a trip to Europe by the Lord Mayor of London, Miss Wheatley, a poet of international renown, was the first Black woman and the second American woman to write a book. (Page 57)

The League of Women for Community Service, at 558 Massachusetts Avenue, was once a hotel for girls where Coretta King lived when she was attending school in Boston. (See TRAVELOGUE, P. 2)

Students For Democratic Society Warned By Confab On Revolution

CHICAGO, Ill. - The chairman of the National Student Conference on Revolution, which is being held here at Lake Forest College from June 22-27, has charged that SDS had "obviously scheduled its national convention in Chicago in a clumsy attempt to intimidate us" but, asserted Ed Butler, "we are not impressed by SDS's Tyrannist tactics and will proceed with our conference as planned."

"We have informed Mayor Daley and Police Superintendent Conisk," said Butler, "that our people won't start any trouble, but that we can handle anything SDS might attempt in the way of intimidation of interference with our conference."

"The National Student Conference on Revolution has been set for Lake Forest College for nearly two months. Obviously, SDS was concerned at the impact our meeting would have on the campuses this fall, and therefore scheduled their convention in the same city only four days before our conference will begin."

"However, their tactics will not work. Our conference will proceed as scheduled, and we remain confident that those who attend will emerge the best-prepared students in America for the revolutionary era in which we live."

Sponsored by the Information Council of the Americas (ICA), the National Student Conference on Revolution will be attended by students and student advisors who have participated in campus confrontations from UCLA to Harvard.

"The purpose of our Conference," explained Ed Butler, ICA vice president and author of Revolution Is My Profession, which will be used as the Conference handbook, "is to help prevent more Cornells and Havards this fall."

"As evidenced by the SDS meeting here in Chicago, the radicals are planning, and it is imperative that the Silent Majority get together, learn to manage revolutionary conflict ethically and lay plans of our own. That is exactly what we will be doing at Lake Forest Conference speaker include Dr. Walter Judd, lecturer, York University); Morris Leibman, former head of the American Bar Association's Committee on Education About Communism and It's Contrast (See WARN SDS, P. 2)

Employers Of Nation Blasted

WASHINGTON, D. C. - Chairman William H. Brown III of the U. S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, charged last week that the current crusade to rehabilitate the "hard-core unemployed" is used by some employers as a "stalling tactic" against removing employment barriers that hold blacks to the lower level, dead-end jobs.

Following are excerpts of Chairman Brown's speech to a meeting of employment specialists from Federal and local agencies held at the Washington (See EMPLOYERS, P. 2)
