Is this country making social and economic progress? Or is it going to the dogs?

Today's Baffler will see how you answer these questions. There are no right or wrong answers; you're asked only to be honest in your answers and to avoid giving response simply because they would seem to be expected.

First, answer the five questions below. Then go to the end of the quiz to find out how you scored. Here's the multiple-choice quiz.

1. Overall, is the Black man getting a better deal in this country than he was 10 years ago?

--A. No, he's worse off than ever; --B. His education has remained largely the same; --C. He's making steady progress.

2. How does the violence on U. S. campuses compare with what used to be there?

--A. Students have turned into savages; --B. The violence is to be deplored, but student activism is to be preferred to timid indifference of previous college students; --C. Campus violence is a necessary part of building a better world.

3. Have men lost their masculinity and have women become more aggressive, as a result of recent social changes?

--A. Yes, and this socially destructive development must be reversed; --B. Some men and women have reversed roles, but not all; it's a mixed picture, morally and otherwise; --C. No, that's just so much propaganda; men and woman are doing their respective things as never before.

4. Are people, in general, more or less moral than they used to be?

--A. Less moral; most people couldn't care less about an ailing, lonely, or dying neighbor; --B. Neither; there's probably as much goodness and evil in the world as there ever was; --C. More moral; after all, we have the civil-rights movement and the United Nations.

5. Are you a better person today than you were 10 years ago?

--A. No, I've gotten more cynical and selfish as I've grown older; --B. It's hard to say; maybe I'm both better and worse; --C. Yes I've matured, learned from my experiences, and used my abilities constructively.

SCORING:
 Count 3 points for each A; 2 points for each B; and 1 point for each C.

If you scored 13-15, you are cynical and pessimistic about society and yourself. You tend to see the worse in society and overlook the good in it. And whether you admit it or not, you probably have the same derogatory view of yourself.

If you scored 8-12, you are able to see both the good and the bad in yourself and others. You recognize, implicitly, that there is both progress and regression in society. Accordingly, you are likely to have a realistic, balanced view of the world.

If you scored 5-7, you are optimistic about society and yourself. You perceptively recognized the progress in society; but you may be overlooking humanity's underlying cruelty, which has not ceased. Your optimism is commendable in that it encourages you to see society (and yourself) even better; but beware of being over-impressed by a thin veneer of apparent "progress" that may only cover a multitude of sins.

NCC Conducts 13th Summer Institute

DURHAM—North Carolina College's thirteenth annual Summer Institute for Secondary Teachers of Biology and Mathematics, supported by a $49,206 grant from the National Science Foundation, opened Monday under the direction of Dr. Mary M. Townes.

Some 54 secondary teachers are enrolled in the program, which will continue through July 26.

Dr. Townes said, "The major objectives of the Institute are strengthening the teachers' mastery of the subjects they teach and increasing their ability to motivate students to consider careers in science and related areas. The Institute will also be directed toward giving the participants greater competence in utilizing modern scientific literature and equipment."

"Efforts will also be undertaken to effect a greater mutual understanding and appreciation of classroom and laboratory problems confronting teachers of science and mathematics," she said.

According to Dr. Townes, each participant will enroll in two courses in biology or in mathematics. Subjects include cell biology, genetics, calculus, and matrix algebra.

The U. S. Department of Labor points out that many youngsters will be unable to return to school this fall unless they succeed in finding summer jobs. A summer job can mean a better future.
