New Capacity Added By Power Company

Installation of six internal combustion turbine generators with a total capacity of 126,000 kilowatts was completed last week by Carolina Power & Light Company.

Four units of 17,000 kilowatts each have been installed at the company's Cape Plant near Moncure, and two units of 29,000 kilowatts each have been installed at the L. V. Sutton Plant near Wilmington.

Cost of the six units has been set at over $11 million.

Construction on the generators was started last fall. The units will provide peaking power and standby generating capacity and will increase the reserve generating capacity of the Carolina-Virginia (CARVA) Power Pool.

The CARVA Pool is an operating agreement among CP&L and three neighboring companies which further insures the reliability of service within the four-company area.

C. M. Clark, CP&L instrumentation supervisor, who directed the installation of the units, explained that the turbine generators are designed to be fully automatic.

HALT WAR, BIAS, ABM
NEW YORK-Rep. John Conyers, Jr., (D-Mich.) sees three things of importance for the United States to tackle immediately. They are: end the war in Vietnam, and racism at home, and stop the anti-ballistic missile program. In an address at the massive Anti-ABM Rally in Madison Square Garden last week, Conyers said, "All these problems are inter-related and require the same kind of approach—a very close look at ourselves and our country and a new determination of what it is we wish to be."

"CURIOUS NEUTRALITY"
WASHINGTON-A stinking rebuke to the Federal Communications commission and the withdrawal of the license of WLBT-TV, Jackson, Miss., were one of the last acts of Chief Justice Warren E. Burger in his role as U. S. Court of Appeals justice for the District of Columbia. Nothing that the United Church of Christ had protested to the FCC that WLBT had deleted network coverage of the late Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., Justice Burger found that the FCC renewal of the license "revealed a curious neutrality-in-favor-of-the-licensure (WLBT)."

RIOT LIABILITY
NEWARK, N. J.-Despite its objections, the city of Newark presently is stuck for payment of some $7 million in damages to property during the six days of rioting in the predominantly Black central ward two years ago. A Union County jury set the tone of the liability when it ruled in a Plainfield, N. J. case (Where disorders occurred at the same time) that a New Jersey law dating from 1864 make a municipality responsible for property damage if it maintains a paid force and a riot occurs.

UNDERCOVER
CHICAGO-Shortguns ordered carried on the front seats of some 500 police squad cars have been ordered removed and installed in the trunks of the vehicles instead. According to Supt. James B. Conlisk, Jr., the move is strictly for "security purposes."

Obituary
REV. GEORGE R. PERRY
Funeral services for the Rev. George R. Perry, Sr., 80, of 1204 E. Edenton Street, Raleigh, who died Friday, were conducted Tuesday at 12 noon at St. Matthew AME Church with the Rev. J. D. Davis officiating. Burial was in Raleigh National Cemetery.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Rosa Perry of Raleigh; one son, George R. Perry, Jr. of Raleigh; three grandchildren; five nephews; and six nieces.

YOU ARE THE DETECTIVE
The body of the well-known racehorse owner, Josh Dolan, lies on the floor of one of his stables. There is a blood-encrusted wound on the back of his head and on the front of his white shirt there is the dirty imprint of a horseshoe, the rounded part of the shoe just above the second button of the shirt and the well-defined outlines of the shoe's heels below that.

You pick up a half-smoked cigarette lying near the dead man's left hand, and then you lean over the door of the nearby stall to look at the horse which you have been told administered the fatal kick to its owner. You watch him paw nervously at the floor of the stall for a few minutes, then you turn to the trainer, Sam Wilson, who is standing nearby.

"He's had a few fits of temper in the past," says Wilson, "but Mr. Dolan always got along with that horse. I never thought he'd kick him this way. The kick, along with his falling and knocking the back of his head against the corner of that stall, must have been too much for Mr. Dolan's heart. He did have a bad ticker, you know."

"Did you see it happen?" you ask.

"No. I was just outside the stable when I suddenly heard the scuffling, then Mr. Dolan cry out. I ran in, and found him like this. I quieted the horse down, closed the door of the stall. I could see there was nothing to be done for Mr. Dolan. . . he was dead!" It was really tough going up to the house and telling Mrs. Dolan!

Later you question the grief-stricken widow. "I warned him many times to be more careful with that horse," she exclaims in between sobs. "We had several arguments about that. . . another little quarrel just before he went out this morning to visit the stable. Then when I saw Sam Wilson on his way to the house later, the expression on his face, I just knew he had bad news! The first things I'm going to do is get rid of that horse!"

"As it so happens," you then say, "the horse is innocent. It's my belief that your husband was murdered!"

Why do you believe this?

SOLUTION
The position of the horseshoe mark on Dolan's white shirt front. A horse always kicks up, and the round part of the shoe could not, therefore, have been ABOVE the marks of the shoe's heels. You suspect that the wound on the back of the victim's head is the result of a blow by a killer, who then attempted to throw suspicion on the horse by imprinting a horseshoe's mark on the white shirt front -- but carelessly failed to consider the correct positioning of the mark.

2,500 Hear Spotswood And Henry In Miss.

JACKSON, Miss. - Some 2500 delegates, visitors and local citizens, including a liberal sprinkling of Mississippi Whites, heard and cheered - immensely-the two opening addresses at the opening (public) mass meeting of the 60th anniversary convention of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People here in City auditorium Monday night.

With local NAACP prexy Jack Young presiding, George Wilkerson, (white) head of the In-keepers Association of Jackson, who had joined in rallying the local motels in agreeing to house the NAACP delegation when the invitation was extended was one of the official greeters. Aaron Henry, that dauntless rugged individual who worked in politics and civil rights to help gain for the Negro a place in the Mississippi sun, brought greetings for the State conference. Dr. Henry cited the many gains such as increasing black voting from 10,000 in 1964 to a round 100,000 in 1969; and the number of Negro office-holders to almost 100 in the state, with a Negro as chairman of the Democratic Party and a national committeeman. Also the cooperation of many white politicians.

Dr. Henry scored the failure of being able to have either the governor or the mayor to appear in the public program, while complimenting the City and Police Dept.

Keynote speaker Bishop Stephen Gill Spotswood, national board chairman, minced no words in lambasting Mississippi as being the only state in the union where "the true meaning of the line in our national song 'land where our fathers died'" means so much in the struggle for full freedom of American Negroes, that martyrdom is the price Negroes must pay for their freedom. Then he called the roll of the many who had heroically died in the promotion of full emancipation, and reminded his audience that Roy Wilkins, himself, (seated on the platform) was still under a $1000 bond for marching in Mississippi four year ago, the case having not been finalized.

"Whatever has been done, NAACP has done it; whatever will be done, NAACP will do it, until NAACP achieves its goal of making America, truly, 'The Land of NAACP do it, until NAACP achieves its goal of Land of NAACP Pride, 'Spotswood said.

The Bishop named Robert G. Clark, the Negro in Mississippi legislature, and Charles Evers (hospitalized during the convention), the Negro mayor of Lafayette, Miss., as being among the hopeful signs of freedom for Black Mississippians and America.

To that list, the NAACP board chairman added the name of Howard Lee of Chapel Hill.

Moving
MIAMI-Sammy Davis, Jr.'s, new mailing address will be Nassau in the Bahamas, it was learned recently. Davis is giving up his California home and buying and building on property adjacent to fellow actor, Sidney Poitier. Why? He wants some of that "relaxed living" that's so peculiar to the Caribbean islands.

Good things come in small packages.

Look into a Volkswagen and you'll find adjustable front bucket seats, a four-speed synchromesh transmission, four-wheel independent torsion-bar suspension, and an air-cooled engine that gets about 27 miles a gallon.
