The issue of discrimination was discussed at several open meetings before a previous committee, chaired by Councilman Bill Law, took it behind closed doors.

Lightner emphasized to newsmen yesterday that all information received by the committee will be released to the public when a report is made.

Lightner indicated the committee report may make recommendations for changes in fire department policy.

"Out of this whole thing might come new procedures to keep this type of thing from coming up again." He did not elaborate before the committee, or when asked to do so during a break in the meeting.

One complaint of the black delegation was that no blacks had been hired by the department in the past six years although qualified blacks had applied. Since that time the department has employed one black, Ray S. Debnam, 219 Walker Street.

"Secondly, the United States Government should press for an early negotiated settlement of the war in hopes of soon achieving what Cyrus Vance has termed a 'stand-still ceasefire.'"

"Since America has pursued both foreign and domestic policy for the last few years with the theory that we cannot have both 'gun and butter,' we must end the war in Vietnam and block the deployment of the latest trinket of the military-industrial complex--the ABM, so that we can deal with our massive domestic problems," said Conyers.

church structure," the Manifesto declared. "It should, instead, be given to correct social injustices blamed on organized religions in the United States" by Forman when the activist issued his own Manifesto three months ago in Detroit, Michigan.

At this time, Forman demanded $500 million from 'traisic American religions as reparations for what he termed past injustices to black people in this country.

The 46-year-old Father Boyd said that the Black Manifesto could now be seen as "An action of the Holy Spirit" at work within American Christianity.

"Religious authority must be sharply redefined," his Manifesto stated.

"Changes cannot occur at the top, where leaders ties and bound by the establishment, are simply not free to act responsibly or creatively, but must instead take place at the middle and bottom levels where ordinary people exist," ended.

Receiving the awards were Margaret Stevenson, executive secretary of the NEA's Association of Classroom Teachers, and Elizabeth Kooztz, former NEA president and now director of the Women's Bureau, U. S. Department of Labor.

The NEA Human Rights Awards, presented for "creative leadership in the education profession," was received by Mrs. LaDonna Harris, chairman of the National Women's Advisory Council on Poverty, U. S. Office of Economic Opportunity, and State Sen. Joseph Bernal of Texas.

Harris is the wife of Sen. Fred Harris, D-Okla., chairman of the Democratic National Committee, who attended the affair.

Two Coahoma county, Miss., teachers received the Abraham Lincoln Award on behalf of the 71 educators who continued to teach when they were terminated from their jobs last February after federal aid to their schools was cut off.

The award is "for courageous action in pursuit of educational opportunity." Federal aid to Coahoma County schools was cut off because the county refused to comply with desegregation guidelines. Since that time, the NEA and its affiliate, the Mississippi Teachers Association, have supported legal action on behalf of the teachers and have contributed more than $40,000 in subsistence grants from the DuShane Emergency Fund and voluntary gifts.

application for conscientious objector status.

Collins did not receive the first induction notice until after the day he was to have been drafted. On the next two induction dates, the officers in charge told him to leave the induction center because he was passing out anti-war literature.

On the fourth induction date, Collins voluntarily left the center after being insulted with racial slurs by the medical officer. He never received the last two induction notices.

Collins has been active in the Southern freedom movement since he helped organized the early sit-ins to desegregate public accommodations in Louisiana. He worked with the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) in voter-registration drives in Mississippi and Louisiana, from 1964 through 1966. Most recently he has been active in anti-war work, with SNCC projects in New Orleans, and with the SCEP project in Mississippi.

After he was sentenced, Collins said: "If I am guilty of a crime, it is the crime of thinking. The draft is a totalitarian instrument used to practice genocide against black people. Poor and working-class people are drafted to fight, not for American ideas, but for the interests of a few capitalists who control this country."

The conviction and the travel restrictions on his ball will be appealed.

Ruling By Judge May Affect Many

CHICAGO - (NPI) - A federal judge has ordered the Chicago Housing authority to build 75 per cent of all new public housing in white areas of the city.

The U. S. government formally backed the court order.

The ruling by U. S. District Court Judge Richard B. Austin was likely to have a major impact on segregated housing patterns in cities all over the country.

Court suits in other cities are expected to seek similar desegregation of public housing.

Most public housing in Chicago has been located in Black areas. From now on, three out of four new CHA housing units must be built or leased in white areas.

The judge also ruled that new CHA family projects must be small in size, no more than three stories high and accommodating no more than 120 persons, except in unusual circumstances, when 240 persons may be allowed.

The main reason for delays in receiving checks from the VA is that necessary papers are not received, or are improperly completed.

Sammy Davis' Gun Grounded By Customs

LONDON - (NPI)-Custom officials at Heathrow airport last week would not permit entertainer Sammy Davis, Jr., to enter the country until he deposited his revolver and ammunition with them for safe-keeping.

Sammy, in England for a nine-week film duty with Peter Lawford in the film 'Salt and Pepper II,' said he carried the gun to protest his family and himself.

"The last time I was here, my family and I were threatened," he said. He added, "I have a permit to carry the gun in America, but the customs informed me that the laws are different in Britain."

After relinquishing the weapon to custom officials, who assured him he would get it back when he left the country, Sammy immediately went to his suite at the Playboy Club in Park Lane, and showed up two days later with a new $23,040 Rolls Royce Silver Cloud automobile.

RALEIGH MAN MISSING

Mrs. Margaret Sledge, 932 Rock Quarry Road, is seeking her brother who has been missing from her home since about 1 p.m. Wednesday, July 9.

Mrs. Sledge said her brother, Walter Dunn, 65, had been making his home with her for the past two years, following his release from Saint Elizabeth's Mental Hospital, Washington, D. C., where he was confined some 30 years. Although released two years ago, Mr. Dunn received his official discharge papers from the hospital on March 18 of this year.

Mrs. Sledge said she got up and went inside to prepare a meal last Wednesday and left her brother on the porch. When she returned sometime later, however, he had disappeared.

Upon asking neighborhood children if they had seen him, she was told that he was seen going toward the grocery store up the street. She further stated that he usually goes to the store and returns immediately, and had been doing this since coming to live with her.

When last seen, Mr. Dunn was wearing a short green tweed coat, gray work pants, gray hat, black loafer shoes and tan socks.

His sister said he had a brown paper bag in one of his pockets, containing letters which he received from her in Washington, identification papers and other material.

She said anyone have information as to his whereabouts should call the Raleigh Police Department and someone would come and get him.
