Equality In Jobs Backed By Young

WASHINGTON-Whitney M. Young, Jr., Executive Director of the National Urban League, has endorsed in the Labor Department's Philadelphia Plan which is aimed at opening jobs in high-paying construction trades.

In a telegram to President Nixon, Mr. Young said the Philadelphia Plan is in keeping with the equal opportunity compliance standards set by the Federal Government.

Mr. Young also said the Philadelphia Plan should become a model for the rest of the Nation and should be put into effect in the rest of the country. "Secretary Shultz and Assistant Secretary Arthur Fletcher should be commended for this vital action," Mr. Young said.

The Philadelphia Plan requires that bidders in Federal supported construction work exceeding $500,000 submit affirmative action plans setting specific goals for the utilization of minority employees based on Federally established standards.

The most controversial of the two was settled when it was announced that Howard Fuller, whose record as a trouble maker, where the race issue was involved, would take an indefinite leave from his duties as director of training for the FCD.

Fuller's connection with the organization has been the object of much conversation and, in many quarters, is believed to have militated against the agency functioning at full capacity. This was particularly true in the $960,000 grant from OEO, to aid in a poverty program that is said to have been designed to aid middle-class Negroes to improve their economic status. An investigation by a representative of The CAROLINIAN, in Washington last week, revealed that Fuller was not the bone of contention in the middle affairs of the grant.

The investigation revealed that the government was obligated to carry out its contract with the local agency, due to the fact the commitment was made by the Johnson Administration and was inherited by the Nixon Administration. It was also made known that when the Nixon Administration came into power, it had every intention of carrying out the commitment. It was apparent that Nixon had no part of the behind-the-scenes activities, but it was a touch-and-go between ambitious Republicans, tainted with some race hate, along with die-hard Democrats.

The situation was thought to (See R. FULLER, P. 2)

Ass't Labor Sec'y To Durham Sat.

DURHAM-In keeping with the announced new policy of the NAACP, reported to the recent national convention by Roy Wilkins, the Durham Branch is staging a mass rally at Mt. Vernon Baptist Church, Sunday, at 3:30 p.m., where it hopes to implement the more vigorous policy. The theme of the meeting is, "A Look at President Nixon's program and how it affects Black America."

Arthur Fletcher, Assistant Secretary of Labor, one of the top Negroes in the Nixon Administration, will be the principal speaker. He is expected to give the true image of Nixon, at it relates to the black community. He will touch on the guidelines of school desegregation and tell how Nixon plans to speed same. He will also attempt to dispel the mushrooming myth that the President has an unholy alliance with the South.

The labor executive will also tell of a new approach to the appointment of Negroes to many jobs that are available in North (See ASST LABOR, P. 2)

Coroner Bennette said the pair had been drinking and the murder took place at the victim's home. Carroll was shot in the neck and on the upper right side of his chest with a .32 calibre pistol.

"Both men ran around together all the time," Bennet stated. "They were good friends, but were drinking." Holden was lodged in the Wake County Jail at Raleigh Sunday night to await a preliminary hearing on the murder charge.

Although the killing was confirmed, the weapon had not been found at CAROLINIAN press time.

Carroll's body was taken to Wake Memorial Hospital, where the coroner examined it.

No motive for the slaying was given. (See KILLS 'BUDDY', P. 2)

Must Be Together: Spokesman

Concerned Raleigh citizens met at Fayetteville Street Baptist Church last Sunday at 4:30 p.m. to discuss the ramifications of the Southside Urban Renewal Project upon the present Southside residents.

William Moses, director of Raleigh's United Poor People's Organization, opened the meeting by stressing the need for togetherness among all blacks in Raleigh, since, he pointed out, "The Southside Urban Renewal Project is the second of many projects to cause great hardship to many black people in order to continue segregated housing, education, governmental and social activities of blacks. The third such project, having a different name but the same goals and objectives, will demolish the South Park area." Ralph Campbell former NAACP president here, added that the same urban renewal would affect the New Bern Avenue and Biltmore Hills areas in perhaps the next five to ten years.

It was brought out in the meeting that although federal guidelines dictate that property owners must be told at the earliest possible time how much they will be offered for their property, no property owners in (See URBAN RENEWAL, P. 2)

City Fight Sends Man To Hospital

One Raleigh man is believed to have started a fight in the 300 block of S. East Street here around 9 p.m. last Saturday and another apparently ended it. However, in the end, both were arrested.
