

Rap Brown Re-Elected By SNCC

NEW YORK (UPI)—H. Rap Brown is back at the helm of SNCC—which now stands for the Student National Coordinating Committee.

No longer will SNCC be "hindered or hampered" by the word "non-violent," which used to be in the organization's name, Brown said.

The reinstated leader said he had always believed that retaliatory violence was sometimes justified. But, he added, most Blacks prefer other methods.

Dr. Ellis, Raleigh Native, Excels At Penn State

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. - Dr. Edward V. Ellis, a specialist in public health and adult education, has been appointed associate professor of public health and associate dean for continuing education in the College of Human Development at The Pennsylvania State University. Dr. Ellis is a native of Raleigh, N. C.

Dr. Ellis' appointment was effective August 1. Before assuming full responsibility for his new duties, however, he will work for a month with Miss Edna Sommerfeld who retires as dean for continuing education in the College on September 1.

No newcomer to Pennsylvania,

DR. EDWARD ELLIS

Dr. Ellis was consultant and administrator in Public Health Education for the Pennsylvania Department of Health, Harrisburg, from 1955 to 1966. Previously he was director and health educator for community education programs in Washington, D. C., and also held positions with North Carolina College and the Wake County Health Department, Raleigh, North Carolina.

Since 1966, Dr. Ellis has been assistant professor in charge of graduate course in public health education at the University of Minnesota. At Minnesota, he served on the Committee on

Majority Of NC Covered By Wage Law

ATLANTA, Georgia—Some 1,098,000 nonsupervisory employees, in both the public and private sectors of North Carolina, are now covered by the Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA), according to the regional director of the Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions (WHPE), U. S. Department of Labor.

Henry A. Huettner related that there are 147,000 private employees in South Carolina not subject to any kind of minimum wage.

"Of employees subject to the Act, most are covered by the $1.60 per hour minimum wage provision," he said. "Many employees of schools, hospitals, nursing homes, large farms and laundries have a $1.30 an hour minimum. On February 1, 1970, the minimum wage will reach $1.45 an hour and $1.60 on February 1, 1971, for all employees subject to the law except the $1.30 an hour minimum will continue to apply for those on large farms."

Major groups not protected by the law include small retail establishments with an annual gross volume of business of less than $250,000, domestic servants and employees of small farms "that require less than 500 man-days of agricultural labor in any calendar quarter in the preceding year."

Education for the College of Medical Sciences to plan and conduct comprehensive continuing education programs and was a member of that university's task force on Student-University Relationships.

A graduate of Shaw University, Raleigh, Dr. Ellis received the master of public health degree from North Carolina College and the doctor of philosophy degree in public health from the University of North Carolina.

In demand as a speaker, he has lectured at conferences of the American Medical Association, the American Public Health Association and before a number of university groups.

He has served as consultant for the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Public Health Service; the America Red Cross, Minneapolis Area Chapter, and has been consultant for the Pennsylvania Department of Public Health since 1968.

Among his other activities, Dr. Ellis has worked on program planning and implementation with a number of the Board of agencies in the Minneapolis area and was a member of the Board of Directors of the Hennepin County Respiratory Disease Association.

He is a fellow of the American Public Health Association, serving as chairman of the Committee on Prejudice in Delivery of Health Care Service; a member of the American Adult Education Association, and other professional organizations.

Dr. Ellis' publications include co-authorship of "The Clinical Picture of Diabetic Control, Studies in Four Settings" which appeared in the American Journal of Public Health (1967) and "Patient Education for Diabetics" published (1965) in "Health Educators at Work."

He is married to the former Miss Elizabeth Gill, also of Raleigh. They have three children: Ednetta 17; Bruce 14; and Gary, 12. His proud parents are Mr. and Mrs. Clarence C. Ellis.

RALEIGHITES RECEIVE B. S. DEGREES IN COSMETIC ARTS—The National Beauty Culturist League of Cosmetic Art convened in Philadelphia, Pa., last week. This year marked its Golden Anniversary held at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel, headquarters for all activities. Six Raleigh Beauticians received special awards. Shown here after receiving their B. S. Degrees in Cosmetic Art are from left to right, Mrs. Juanita L. Lyles, Mrs. Beatrice Hall, Mrs. Mary Whitley who received a trophy for her outstanding work in hair relaxers and Mrs. Elizabeth Barbour. Not shown is Mrs. Mildred Williams, who also received a trophy for her outstanding work in hair relaxers, and Mrs. Francis G. Jones. These Beauticians took time out of their shops to go to the National Institute and acquire the knowledge for the new trends in cosmetic art. Next year, they will be studying for their master's degrees.
