After announcing this three-day meeting to the congregation, here in Raleigh, Brower told his hearer that, "The rising tide of selfishness and materialism presents a challenge to Christian thinking and Christians works."

"The purpose of this meeting here in Raleigh, Brower said, is to give Jehovah's Witnesses and their friends three days of advanced ministerial training that we in turn may meet this challenge and be of greater benefit to the people of our community in a spiritual way."

The Watchtower Bible and Tract Society is sponsoring the convention for the 19 congregations which make up circuit 36. More than 800 delegates are expected to attend the meeting. All sessions will be open to the public.

"Members of the local congregation will be busy for the next few weeks calling on the homemakers of this city to secure rooming accommodations for the visiting delegates," Brower said.

dealt with the merger issue. Palmer said all "basic differences" were worked out at the two-day session.

The proposed merger plan, man of Natchez, Miss., imperial command, presided over the Daughters of Isis.

Preliminaries leading up to the official opening of the Imperial Council included meeting of the several departments of both the Shriners and Daughters of Isis.

lers, and two religious services. The annual Shrine worship service was held at the Bethel AME Church and the annual memorial services at Enon Baptist Church.

The convention theme "A Piece of the Action" was foremost in every activity conducted through the Imperial Council.

"We will highlight the Black man's contribution to American business and outline the needs and program for bringing the Black American into the mainstream of American business," the Imperial Potentate of more than 30,000 Shriners, composed of more than 175 Temples across the nation, said.

"The Mystic Shrine is not the playhouse or playground of Prince Hall Masonry," he said, noting that it is more of a "battleground" or "workhouse" as it contributes through its various foundations to every segment of American life.

"In addition to the charitable activities of our temples and courts in their local communities, our national charities are administered by the Tuberculosis and Cancer Research Foundation is making it possible, through scholarships and grants, for thousands of young Black boys and girls to prepare themselves to be able to compete in a total society," he said.

Highlighting the public events were the annual twilight street parade, and the annual "Salute to Black Heroes of the Past," held at Morgan State College, under the direction of the Public Relations Department, Arthur Barnes of Pittsburg, Pa., director. A tribute was paid to Frederick A. Douglass.

In efforts to get building trades union to accept Black workers, a coalition of Black organizations have shut down construction activity in the Negro community.

As a result, a local judge has barred harassment of construction activity in the Negro areas. Rev. Abernathy, with his avowed commitment to non-violence, could hardly go along with the harassment, at least publicly. By keeping the protests nonviolent, he would give the anti-bias campaign the respectability it needs if it is not to become a greater evil than the hiring discrimination being challenged.

FIRST BAPTIST (CONTINUED FROM PAGE ONE) lars, five, ten and twenty dollar bills. The checks were also made out to the church as donations.

According to information received, the safe, although left unlocked, was closed and all the thief had to do was open it.

Called in the investigate further was the City-County Identification Bureau. The thief had to force the basement door open. A heavy metal tool was used to do this, $10 in damages was done to the glass door leading into the business office.

First Baptist is believed to be the oldest predominantly Negro church in Raleigh, having been started around 1859.

Several illustrious persons have pastored the church, included the late Dr. C. W. Askew and the late Dr. Oscar S. Bullock.

TA and treasurer-manager of the NCTA Credit Union on September 1.

E. B. Palmer, executive secretary of the NCTA said, "We are quite fortunate to be able to bring a man of Allen's ability and enthusiasm to the state office. We are looking forward with great anticipation to the outstanding contributions. Allen will make to a new and more vital program which NCTA is going to launch during 1969-70."

position of the 6,000 member organization. The late J. O. Plummer of Raleigh held the post in 1924.

The physician will be inducted into office at the Diamond Jubilee Convention to be held in Atlanta, Ga, next summer. Dr. Armstrong's election came on a unanimous vote of the more than 1,200 physicians from across the nation attending the 74th meeting of the Association.

Prior to his election, he had been a member of the House of delegates where he served as secretary for a period of time, then speaker of the House and later Chairman of the Board of Trustees for four years.

The National Medical Association, is predominantly a Negro organization, but its composition now represents physicians from other races.

Another North Carolina physician, Dr. E. L. Rann of Charlotte, was reelected to the Board of Trustees and Dr. R. E. Dawson of Durham was chosen for a position on the powerful nominating committee.

In addition to the routine business sessions of the convention, San Francisco clinics were offered in practically every phase of the field of medicine with outstanding clinicians from leading medical schools participating in round-table discussion.

The convention also took significant action on the new welfare program proposed by President Richard Nixon and a new recruitment program for medical students and those interested in the paramedical fields to help alleviate the shortage of medical services throughout the country. The NMA plans to work closely with the American Medical Association, colleges, and guidance counselors in the secondary schools and all foundations in an effort to support the program, according to reports reaching here from the convention.

NCTA-NCEA (CONTINUED FROM PAGE ONE) based on recommendations of a special factfinder from the National Education Association (NEA), was approved June 6 by the white NCEA. The NCTA membership turned it down May 20.

Since then, the NEA, with which both groups are affiliated, temporarily suspended the black organization. Suspension means loss of privileges and service accruing to national membership such as segal services and loans.

Palmer said NCTA will remain under suspension until December, but suspension will be lifted if the merger vote is favorable.

STABS MAN (CONTINUED FROM PAGE ONE) Miss Taylor said she then reached on the table around which she was standing and ran him out the door at his home with a knife, then stabbed him in the left side under his arm twice, Ray was unable to give any information.

Miss Taylor is being held under a $5,000 bond, pending Ray's outcome.

Witnesses to the stabbing were listed as Jonah C. Baker, 514 1/2 Patterson, Edward Hinton, 606 Wynn Street (near Crosby-Garfield School) and June McLean, 514 Patterson Lane.

which the woman told officers she wanted to die, she was rushed to Wake Memorial Hospital where her stomach was pumped. Some 26 tablets and capsules were found in her stomach. She was left at the hospital "intoxicated and semi-conscious," according to the report.

Miss Taylor has quite a record with the local police department.

Her local record began on April 6, 1964 when she was found not guilty of engaging in an affray where a deadly weapon was used. Two months later, on June 27, she was arrested and charged with assault with a deadly weapon and disorderly conduct.

These offenses were followed rather closely by the following: July 19, 1964, public drunkenness; September 27, 1965, public drunkenness and indecent exposure; October 19, 1965, engaging in an affray where a deadly weapon was used.

Also, April 22, 1966, drunk; May 15, 1966, drunk; September 4, 1966; discharging firearms in the city limits; May 4, 1968, public intoxication; June 1, 1968, public intoxication, Wendell Recorder's Court; and June 27, 1968, public intoxication, Wendell Recorder's Court.

Although it could not be ascertained, it is believed that Miss Taylor is a native of the Wendell area of Wake County.

Imperiale and his men waiting. And we'll be waiting with guns.

"A lot of whites and conservative Negroes fell like I do. We're willing to fight and go to jail to preserve the peace."

Although Imperiale's fear of open race war in Newark has lessened since the riot of 1967, he is furious over "the radicals, black and white, that are disrupting this town."

"People here are scared silly," he said. "I'll bet 90 percent of Newark, black and white, has a gun at home."

"We teach our wives and daughters to carry hair spray in their pocketbooks. It can blind a man temporarily at close range. We tell them to carry a pointed beautician's comb or a large nail file. Notice how many men are wearing large belt buckles."

Drawing a distinction between "people who really care about civil rights" and hoodlums, Imperiale said that much crime in the name of civil rights is being permitted.

"Negroes and whites can live together in peace," he said. "We've got to talk to each other and be honest with each other. If we can't do that, we're doomed."

L. WILSON (CONTINUED FROM PAGE ONE) Navy and three years in the active reserves.

Wilson is married and is the father of two children. His wife, Mrs. Cynthia T. Wilson, is a teacher in the Johnston County School System. His daughter, Anita, is a ninth grade student of F. J. Carnegie Junior High School; and his son, Edwin, is a recent graduate of J. W. Ligon High School and will be attend North Carolina Central University in September.

Mr. Wilson is a well-known church organist throughout North Carolina. He has rendered music in nearly all of the churches in Raleigh and surrounding cities. He is engaged in church activities throughout the state. Wilson is the son of Mrs. Jewel Price and the late Douglas Wilson. His mother lives at 226 Bledsoe Avenue, Raleigh.

New Language Of Business

Do You Know The 10 Basic Words?

The language spoken every day in the business world is one that even businessmen do not understand clearly. The reason is the computer and the growing influence of electronic data processing on the American scene.

If you think you understand today's business language, here is a test prepared by the International Accountants Society of Chicago, using 10 common computer words. To businessmen, they should be as familiar as the contents of their wallet.

- 1 Bit 2 Program 3 Dump 4 Hardware 5 Terminal 6 Baud 7 Run 8 Unpack 9 Nanosecond 10 Routine

According to Jay Herrett, Director of IAS' Business Electronics Division, "If an executive knows only six or less of these terms, he is in danger of becoming a computer dropout. In fact, these are basic words used every day in many companies. And they are not too far removed from the daily conversation in homes across the country," Mr. Herrett added.

"We know from the number of students enrolling in our home study course in Business Data Processing how many businessmen are beginning to realize the importance of learning to live with electronic data processing.

"The revolution in space travel has brought new words into our vocabulary," Mr. Herrett says, "and so has the computer revolution."

Here are the definitions, taken from the concise Dictionary of EDP Terms published by IAS.

BIT — A contraction meaning a binary digit; a single hole in a punched computer tape or card. Bits comprise a character, characters comprise a word.

PROGRAM — A computer plan for the solution of a problem.

DUMP — To transfer all or part of the contents of one section of computer memory into another section.

HARDWARE — A term used to describe the mechanical, electrical, and electronic elements of a data processing system.

TERMINAL — A point in a system or communication network at which data can either enter or leave.

BAUD — A unit of signaling speed in data transmission. The speed in bauds is equal to the number of bits per second.

RUN — One performance of a program on a computer.

UNPACK — To separate diverse information which has been included into one machine item or word.

NANOSECOND — A billionth of a second. A time measurement used to measure the operating speed of a computer.

ROUTINE — A sequence of instructions which perform a definite function within a large computer program.

How well did you do?
