Solve-A-Crime

Your good friend, Police Chief Joe Morgan, is much concerned about a new mob that has recently moved into his town. The gang has created a considerable amount of violence and bloodshed in its efforts to set up rackets and illegal opera-

"This is quite a large gang of hoodlums," he tells you, "but we've managed to collect the names of four of its members who really control its activities. Their names are George

Franklin, Carl Stevens, Mike Maloney, and Tim Chandler.

"Here's the information we've managed to collect on these

(A) Recently, in a roadside tavern, Mike Maloney, his tongue loosened by liquor, was overhead to boast that he and the syndicate's leader, popularly known as Mr. Big, has been responsible for killing a state trooper, whose murder had enraged and told the gang member who served as treasurer

(C) Apprised of Franklin's reaction, Maloney laughed and told Tim Chandler that Mr. Big wouldn't do a thing about it and that, in fact, Mr. Big was probably boasting about the

(D) The foreigner is violently opposed to the gang's recent plans to widen their range of activities to another neighboring city. Mr. Big, the treasurer, and Franklin, however, have been insistent, maintaining that "business" has been good

You finally look up from your perusal of Chief Morgan's notes to meet his grin. "Can you tell me, after reading that, just which of these four men is the leader, which is the mike Maloney is not the leader, Mr. Big (A), or (B) the treasurer. George Franklin (B) is neither treasurer nor leader. Tim Chandler (C) is not the leader. Hence, the leader, known as Mr. Big, is Carl Stevens. Since the leader is not the treasurer, we can see in (B) that Chandler is the treasurer. Therefore, since neither the leader (Stevens), the treasurer (Chandler), nor Franklin (D) is the foreigner, he

HARMONY COMES TO THE SCHOOLS

In a year of unprecedented | | discord in the schools one unique idea is bringing harmony to the classrooms.

To thousands of spellbound youngsters many of whom have never before heard or seen 'live' music performed—a famed jazz pianist-composer and his quintet are presenting jazz lecture-concerts as special educational programs in public school auditoriums.

"The purpose is to make children aware of this important aspect of American culture," explains the star and lecturer, Billy Taylor. "Jazz is a truly American music form," he tells the youngsters, "and you who are growing up in this country should know about

It has been found that 70 per cent of this problem is caused by swallowed air. People swallow air when they eat too fast or are emotionally upset. Only 30 per cent can be attributed to bacterial fermentation and food ingredients. Dr. Jerome E.
