NSA Project
 EL PASO, Tex. (UPI)—This year's convention of the National Students association got off to a rousing start when first some 100 Black delegates engineered a breakaway from the group and issued a demand for financial reparations. The next day, Mexican-American delegates, threw the organization into an uproar with demands that the body adopt a resolution banning use of table grapes in universities and colleges. This latter move would put the NSA behind the California grape strike.
