MOM CHARGES
Abrams, 29, addresses listed as Mills Road (behind State Fairgrounds) and 20 Railroad Street, assaulted her.
Abrams was arrested at 4:30 p.m. Saturday and is now being held without bond in the Wake County Jail without privilege of bond. He was caught at the corner of Ligon and Atwater Streets in Method.
Mrs. Lyons said the man forced his way into her house sometime after midnight, pushed her onto a bed and proceeded to rape her. Only when her young daughter, also in the room, cried out did the man release her, she declared. She said she then ran from her house and called police from the home of a neighbor.
Abrams is no stranger to law enforcement officers in Raleigh or to the crime of rape.
On June 16, 1962, he was charged in two counts of rape. The disposition of this case was not available at CAROLINIAN press time.
His local record began on May 10, 1959, when he was charged with beating taxi fare. This was followed on May 23 of the same year by the same charge.

ley Alexander, NAACP State President and Charles A. McLean, State Field Director, for help to correct the evils and avoid the necessity of a school boycott. Mr. McLean immediately held a conference with Mr. Powell and others.
Upon conferring with the principal, McLean was assured and convinced by the principal that he could not relieve the prevailing condition. The Field Director went directed to the State Board of Education which said it had no knowledge of the existing conditions and would start investigation the next day and seek immediate correction, whereupon McLean informed Powell, student leader, that he would not approve of continued boycott under prevailing conditions. The boycott was suspended and all students returned to school.
Last Sunday, the Bladen Co. Branch held a well attended meeting to review any progress that had been made during the past week. The students reported that some changes had been made, but under existing teaching conditions seniors could not attend classes that were required to graduate. They were appreciative of the efforts but a solution was not in sight.
The students and parents of Bladen Central have made it clear that they will be protesting until the intolerable school condition is corrected. McLean

Born February 14, 1865 on a plantation in Fairfax County, South Carolina, while the guns of the Civil War still could be heard, Mrs. Stokes was slightly more than one year of age when President Abraham Lincoln signed the Declaration of Independence, freeing her mother from the shackles of slavery to which they had been bound many years prior to Mrs. Stokes' birth.
She retained many memories of her early childhood and was semi-active at the time of her death.

1. The Governor does not take seriously the concerns that the Committee for Racial Justice have for upgrading higher education for Black People in this state.
2. The Governor does not consider higher education for Black people as an important matter.
In North Carolina, where Black Education has always been a struggle, we are beginning a campaign to make it possible for all Black youths to attend college if they have the desire. In order to do this in good conscience certain inequalities will have to be resolved. We feel that the only way that these can be resolved is by the following means:
1. A cooperative effort by the State and Federal Government to place within the next year $5,000,000 (five million dollars) into the hands of Black schools to be used for scholarships, construction of new facilities, upgrading of faculty, institution of a Masters Program on all Black campuses and Doctorate program

It is furnished under provisions of the Manpower Development and Training Act, through the Manpower Administration.
Thirteen trainees, all young disadvantaged residents of the Anacostia community, are receiving wages provided by the grant. An additional 16 are participating on a volunteer basis.
All instructors are volunteer, coming from the business community, local colleges, and other government-sponsored programs.
On-the-job training takes place in the Third World Shop, 1239 Good Hope Rd., S. E., a store owned and operated by the Culture Center and specializing in Afro-American fashions, records, jewelry, and paperbacks. The Culture Center also offers instruction in Community Studies and Black Studies.
Original plans for the Culture Center were developed and implemented by the Actioneers of Anacostia, a group of high school students concerned with their school system and their community.
The grant was developed with the assistance of the Coalition for Youth Action, a Labor Department group of management interns and young professionals, which helps youth groups nationwide by funding promising projects. The Small Business Administration has also participated, transferring $2,500 to the Department of Labor to be used in the Anacostia training program.

on all public campuses.
2. Black Public Universities should be made independent by vesting authority to run each school in the hands of an independent Board of Trustees. This Board of Trustees should reflect the racial composition of each campus.
3. The immediate repeal of repressive laws recently enacted by the state legislators. These laws show an utter contempt for the integrity of the Black People in N. C.
4. That a panel representing a cross-section of the Black Community be empaneled to deal with the above suggestions and the many more that will be forthcoming in the next few weeks.
Along with the mentioned suggestions The Committee for Racial Justice affirms and will support financially and vocally:

1. The organizing of Black Students protests to deal with white-washed education.
2. The upcoming Black Students United for Liberation (BSUL) conference to be held at A&T State University.
3. The upcoming Student Organization for Black Unity (SOBU) to be held at North Carolina Central University.
4. The establishment of a new and Revolutionary Black University which will open in October in the name of Malcolm X Liberation University.
5. The organizing of high school students and High School principals to protect the form the vengeance of abstract racist decisions that affect their future education and livelihood.
6. The opening of a higher education counseling service on wheels that will counsel Black youth so that they will be prepared to enter college after graduation.
7. The organizing of Black Businessmen, clergy and the community to begin immediately to raise monies, to provide scholarships for Black youth. This is over and above the $5,000,000 from the State and Federal Government.
The state of North Carolina will be in a very hot school year unless steps are taken immediately to correct some of the ills that have originated from White Racism. We reaffirm the right of self-determination for Black people and feel that a step forward will be made if the above suggestions are carried out.

Congressman William T. Cahill, Republican candidate for Governor of New Jersey, and his staff have worked closely with the National Committee in preparing for the Newark program. He is eager to receive the transcript of the session, feeling it will give him a better insight into the problems and thoughts of these vocal segments of New Jersey's population.
State Chairman Nelson Gross and New Jersey's Republican Congressional delegation have been advised of the program and will also receive reports on the results of the session.
The first Listening Program was held in Portland, Oregon, in September. Quarterly reports will be sent to the President and Cabinet members, and all states are immediately informed of results of sessions held in their states.
