

DEAR SALLY

BY SALLY SHAW

DEAR SALLY: We have two daughters-in-law who had a big verbal battle several months ago and are not speaking to each other. We have managed to stay out of this -- but a couple of weeks ago one of the girls invited us to a party in their home, we attended, and had a wonderful time. But now the other daughter-in-law has stopped having anything to do with us, on the grounds that we sided with the other girl when we attended her party. What can we do now? IN THE MIDDLE.

DEAR IN THE MIDDLE: There's really not much of anything you can do, other than to remain strictly neutral in this childish squabble between two "little girls," and hope that some day they will decide to grow up. Incidentally, have you ever had a private little discussion with your two sons about the possibility of their doing something to help restore harmony between their wives?

DEAR SALLY: I was recently invited, along with a couple of other bachelors, to the home of a friend for dinner, and I was very much embarrassed to find that the other fellows had brought little gifts to our hostess, while I came empty-handed. I sort of got the impression that our hostess was a little disappointed in me, too. How about this? Is a person who is invited to dinner really supposed to come across with a gift of some kind for his hostess? ODD MAN OUT.

DEAR ODD MAN OUT: This is not really a "must" -- but still it is nice when a man, especially a bachelor, is thoughtful enough to bring a little token of appreciation to the hostess who is entertaining him in her home at dinner.  DEAR SALLY: My father doesn't like the fellow I am dating at present. He says Joe is much too sloppy in his manner of dress, his appearance, and his manners, and also that he's very shift-eyed and never looks directly at you when you talk with him. So far as I am concerned, I get along fine with Joe, and the only thing about him that bothers me is his tendency to drink too much now and then, but he has promised faithfully to cut this down if ever we decide to marry. Do you think I should ignore my father's opinion and stick with Joe? WONDERING.

DEAR WONDERING: Your father's summation of Joe plus your own concern about his drinking problem doesn't add up to a very attractive picture. Joe sounds to me like anything but ideal husband material. ***

DEAR SALLY: My husband has in the past turned down two fine promotions with his company, just because they involved moving to another city and his parents objected strenuously to his "deserting" them and depriving them of the "joy of seeing their grandchildren frequently." Now there's another big promotion in the offing, likewise involving a transfer to another city, which I am sure his parents will again tearfully object to. Please, we need advice! BAFFLED.

DEAR BAFFLED: Decisions like these are for you and your husband to make, not his parents'. And certainly the older folks' attitude is out-and-out selfish. I say, take this latest opportunity. After all, there will be nothing later to prevent you and the older folks from exchanging plenty of visits.

The Veterans' Corner

EDITOR'S NOTE: Below are authoritative answers by the Veterans Administration to some of the many current questions from former servicemen and their families. Further information on veterans benefits may be obtained at any VA office.

Q -- I understand I must make satisfactory progress in school in order to receive educational allowance from the Veterans Administration. What standard of progress does the VA require?

A -- A veteran enrolled under laws administered by the VA must maintain satisfactory progress and progress in accordance with the standards and policies of the educational institution he attends. If the school suspends the student, G. I. Bill benefits will also be suspended.

Q -- I have a Certificate of Eligibility for a G. I. loan that states it is valid through June 3, 1969. Can I get this date extended?

A -- No. This date is determined by a formula set by law.

Q -- To qualify for G. I. Bill educational benefits, is service in Viet-Nam a requirement?

A -- No qualification is based on when a veteran served in the Armed Forces and not where he was stationed. You are eligible if you were released after Jan. 31, 1955, with at least 181 active duty days or for a service-connected disability. Service must have been other than dishonorable.

Q -- I am attending school under the G. I. Bill, but I want to transfer to another school. What should I do?

A -- You must get a new Certificate of Eligibility if you change either your school or your stated educational objective. Contact your nearest VA office for the application form.

Liver Pate' in A Shell

Tempt sophisticated palates with perfectly-seasoned, gourmet fare.

Tasty meat fillings baked in pastry crusts kept French housewives busy for hours. But streamlined Liver Pate' in a Shell offers the same good eating, without the fuss.

No elaborate molds are necessary. Just hollow an unsliced bread loaf and fill with a flavored blend of mushrooms, liver sausage, cottage cheese and butter. Liver Pate' in a Shell provides its own garnish, too -- a center row of hard cooked eggs surrounded by green scallion bits adorns each slice.

To equal the nutritious filling, prepare this party loaf with "enriched" bread. Only bread that clearly states "enriched" on the label offers the much needed and often neglected B-vitamins, thiamine, niacin and riboflavin, and the mineral, iron.

LIVER PATE' IN A SHELL

- 1 loaf (1 lb.) enriched white bread, unsliced
- 1 can (4 oz.) mushroom stems and pieces, drained
- 1 cup chopped scallion tops
- 1 tablespoon steak sauce
- 1 teaspoon seasoned salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 5 to 6 hard cooked eggs
- 1 package (8 oz. each) liver sausage spread
- 1 cup (8 oz.) small curd creamed cottage cheese
- 1/2 cup (4 oz.) butter

Cut end slice off bread; hollow. Cream together liver sausage, cottage cheese and butter. Blend in mushrooms, scallions, steak sauce, salt and pepper. Fill bread cavity with liver sausage mixture, centering eggs end to end. Chill until serving.
