GARDEN TIME

Be careful what you buy and where you buy it. This is the time of the year when you may be visited by someone selling nursery stock: fruit trees and grapevines; shrubbery and trees for landscaping your home. Some of these people are honestly ignorant of what they are doing, while others make offers which they know case, you are left holding the bag and faced with keen disappointment after it is too late to do anything about it. This malpractice is not as prevalent as it was in former years but there is an outbreak every now and then. Your reliable nurseryman is licensed to do business in North Carolina and all of the plants he offers for sale are inspected and certified by the Division of Entomology of the North Carolina Department of Agriculture.

Buy only from a reliable nurseryman or seedsman, and he will back up any claims made by his representatives. It has been my privilege to work with the nurserymen of North Carolina for many years, and I have found the members of the North Carolina Association to be reputable and anxious to serve their customers honestly and well. In almost every case, cheap nursery stock is, in the long run, the most expensive you can buy.

What I have said about the nurserymen is also true for the members of the North Carolina Seedsmen's Association. So many things can happen in the production, cleaning, classification and packaging of seed that he must be always on the alert to see that you get varieties which are true to name, free of diseases and obnoxious weed seed, and of good germinating quality.

It is not too early to make a list of the tree fruits, small fruits, grapes and ornamental trees and shrubs you will need for fall and early winter planting. Placing your order early will assure getting the varieties you want. The nurseryman will reserve them and deliver according to your instructions.

Don't overlook the plants native to your region: yaupon, certain oaks, dogwood, hemlock, white pine, rhododendron, etc. You may wish to try some of the hybrid rhododendrons. They come in a wide variety of colors and have a much wider range of adaptability than our native sorts.

A North Carolina nurseryman told me this summer that "we will soon have hybrid rhododendrons adapted for growing as far south as Florida."

Birds that are year-round residents tend to retain the same territory for life, whereas migrants have both summer and winter properties.

Most of us consider fish pretty "cold fish" and not emotional. But that's not true. Skin-divers have seen fish actually blanch with fear.

Band Echoes

BY JOSEPH L. EDWARDS
The J. W. Ligon High School Band Boosters Club will meet on Sunday, October 12. During the past few years, the Ligon band has been undergoing a rebuilding program. Several events have occurred during this time that has caused a decline in band participation. One outstanding example was the foundation of the Carnegie Junior High School. At that time, many band members joined the band program at that school. At present, there are 68 members enrolled in the band program at Ligon. This number is about average for the present school enrollment. Several members of the band are also on the various other teams. They make their contributions to the music program during the concert season. The concert band takes in all active players. Band grades and credits towards graduation are given in light of these contributions.

Now that we have arrived at full strength, it is necessary to have the fellowship and cooperation of our parents and friends in the community. Many of our parents have gone to the expense of supplying instruments and equipment for their children in the band. The Band Booster Club, in the past, has been instrumental in helping the school make the most of these investments.

The band has been invited to many statewide events in the past and present but have been unable to accept because of transportation, etc. For our city games, a car pool could be organized to offset bus bills. Also on the agenda will be a discussion of possible Band scholarships for seniors. Several of our players were awarded scholarships last year. One semester of college playing can actually pay for the instrument purchased by you. In going to school, every little bit helps. The Music Department plans only one major meeting for this year. One hour is all we ask. The meeting will take place in the Ligon Band Room. Use the end of Church Street parking lot.

Shaw's 105th Convocation Set For Fri.

Shaw University's 105th Fall Convocation will be observed on Friday, October 10. Dr. King V. Cheek, Jr., president of the university, will deliver the address at the 11 a.m. scheduled program.

Dr. Cheek's message to faculty, administration, faculty and student body is entitled, "A Re-Definition of the University."

"Shaw's Response to the Urban Crisis" is the selected theme for the 1969-70 academic term. The youthful Dr. Cheek is expected to outline the University's role in fulfilling this year's theme.

After serving as Vice President for Academic Affairs at Shaw for three years, the 32-year-old college administrator took over the president's position in July, 1969, when his brother, Dr. James Edward Cheek, resigned to become president of Washington, D.C.'s Howard University.
