APEX - The Gospel Chorus of First Baptist Church was in charge of the devotion for the 11 o'clock worship service. Mrs. Bernice Bullock was soloist and sang beautifully.

The pastor Rev. J. E. Perkins, brought an interesting sermon. His text was taken from the gospel of St. John 3:1. He used as a subject MRS. COLVIN "You Must Be Born Again." We observed the presence of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Grimsley, Sr. and son, Willie Earl during the service. Visitors are always welcome to worship with us.

Sunday afternoon at 2:30, the male and gospel choruses and the junior choir of First Baptist appeared on the 4th anniversary of the Greater St. Paul Baptist Gospel Chorus, along with their church choir. ## Feltonville News

BY MRS. MARY MOSS

Felton Grove Baptist Church held impressive installation services on Sunday morning. Youth Day was also observed. During our worship service, our youth mother, Mrs. Estelle Cozart, charged the leaders and congregation to rededicate themselves to a new year of service. We hope all of our leaders will follow this service up with enthusiasm for the coming year.

The beginning of this impressive service started with Sunday School at the regular hour. Our goal is to double our attendance this coming year, and it seems as though we have a good beginning.

After reading a part of St. Luke's gospel, 9:24, Rev. W. Burnette brought to the 11 o'clock congregation a challenging message on the subject "A Life To Lose, Or A Life To Save." If you don't have a home church and would like to join us at Sunday School or preaching, feel free to do so. The Felton Grove Baptist Church is located on Highway 55.

Mrs. Estelle Cozart was the guest speaker Sunday afternoon at the Scott Grove Church at their Homecoming.

Our sick and shut-ins are Miss Tynie Latimore, Mr. Jamie Brailsford, who is hospitalized in Apex Branch Hospital, Mr. John Cozart, Mr. James Precell. Your visits and prayers would be appreciated by them.

Happy birthday greetings go out to Misses Catherine Moss, Carol Jeannette Brailsford, Loretta Wilson, Howard Baker, Richard Fuller and Jonah Cozart, Jr. Many happy returns to each of you.

Red Cross Warns Of Gun Hazards

WASHINGTON, D. C.-Play it safe and stay away from the Happy Hunting Grounds in the sky this fall by not becoming one of the 2,600 fatalities from firearm accidents, the American Red Cross cautioned hunters Thursday.

Careful handling of firearms will prevent accidents and knowledge of first aid can save lives when accidents happen in the hunting field, according to Robert M. Oswald, national director of Red Cross Safety Programs.

"Most accidents with guns need not happen at all," he said. "But if they do, and medical help is far away, knowledge of what to do can save a life. Everyone who hunts should know first aid.

"Bleeding is sometimes severe in such accidents, and the best single method of controlling bleeding is to apply direct hand pressure to a wound with a thick pad of cloth," he said.

Several layers of cloth or a folded piece of clothing will do as a compress. If a dressing is not immediately available, use the bare hand until a cloth pad can be brought into use. Although ideally the dressing should be clean, a non-sterile cloth is better than none at all.

If the wound is deep, the fingers and/or dressing should be inserted into the wound and firm pressure applied.

Do not remove a dressing that becomes soaked with blood but apply more layers on top of it, Mr. Oswald said. Direct pressure can be applied by bandaging the compress firmly in place.

Elevate a bleeding arm or leg if there are no fractures and if such elevation will not cause additional damage to the wounded part.

To treat for shock, lay the victim down and when possible, keep the injured area higher than the victim's heart. Maintain normal body temperature but do not over-heat the victim.

Remember that the small entry wound of a gunshot may be misleading -- extensive internal injuries may have occurred. A gunshot victim should receive medical attention as soon as possible.
