As a Department we are dedicated to creating an open society with equal opportunity for all Americans—in housing, employment and business opportunities. I am determined that we shall not shirk our responsibilities to our own people in our own house. According to Samuel J. Simmons, Assistant Secretary for Equal Opportunity, who is designated by the Secretary to administer the equal employment opportunity program, a number of activities have been instituted to further this goal.

BOND ISSUE (CONTINUED FROM PAGE ONE) displaced residents. As a voting citizen, Mitchell said that he opposed the 1% sales tax. In his words, "They (County Commissioners) who are sponsoring the tax increase are taking the tax burden off people who can pay it, only to place it on people who cannot pay it." He continued, "Taxation in this country was not designed this way."

Among the special features of the gathering will be a message by Dr. King V. Cheek, president, Shaw University and special music by the Shaw University Chorale Society. On the closing morning, Dr. W. PRINCIPAL (CONTINUED FROM PAGE ONE) derly conduct to carrying concealed weapons and assaulting a peace officer. Reports indicate that prior to the Homecoming game, many black students at Enloe had anticipated a black Homecoming Queen. However, after these students observed a white queen during the halftime activities, they proceeded to sing freedom songs.

There appeared to be hostility generating within the assembled group. There were charges of the students' innocence coupled with charges against school officials for lack of interest. Principal Clark did admit that though some three weeks had passed since the incidents, he did not have sufficient facts on the case. Several students present noted that they, too, felt school authorities were not genuinely concerned with problems of the black student population at Enloe.
