Make Your Own Inexpensive Holiday Ornaments

A new hobby is intriguing women handicrafters, and it's perfectly timed for Christmas.

Called resin-craft, it allows you to make an endless array of colorful and exciting ornaments for your tree, windows, doors and all around the house to spark your surroundings with the festive look.

Basically, the ornaments are made by molding quick-drying resin into many interesting shapes. You can make the molds and buy the ingredients or get complete kits that contain all the materials.

Making the molds is easy. You draw or trace the outline of simple holiday items - a Christmas stocking, a poinsettia leaf, a tree ornament, a bell or star for instance.

Affix this design to a piece of cardboard by taping a piece of smooth cellophane over the entire area of your sketch.

Then glue a length of heavy gold cord around the outline. You may have to pin the cord to the cardboard until it dries solid. All Purpose cement No. 527 is good for this purpose. Leave several inches of excess cord to act as a bow.

The cord becomes the mold. Now you mix casting resin with a polyester hardening liquid and spread the substance over the surface of your mold, up to the cord outline.

Let it dry for two to four hours, then remove from the mold and cut away excess
