Seek More Blacks For Top Posts

NEW YORK, N. Y.-In a concerted effort to increase the flow of black and other minority persons into significant managerial positions, nine of the nation's leading graduate schools of management have formed the Council for Opportunity in Graduate Management Education.

The Council will seek to increase the awareness of minority group members of the relevance of Master's programs as the professional-school link between undergraduate college experience and careers in management. It will broaden the base of financial support for minority students through a program of graduate fellowships. It will also help the participating schools sustain and strengthen their present programs for minority members.

The chairman of the Council is Dr. John W. Hennessey, Jr., dean of the Amos Tuck School of Business Administration of Dartmouth College. A chief operating executive will be appointed shortly. The Council will be based at Columbia University.

A survey of 15 graduate management schools disclosed, for example, that of nearly 8,000 students enrolled, only 180, or less than 2 1/2 per cent, were black. Other minorities are even more poorly represented.

"Enrollment in graduate programs is a particularly important way of widening opportunity for management careers," said Arthur L. Singer, Jr., vice president of the Sloan Foundation. "The minority community does not have its supply of young men and women who receive their training informally, by means of business, as the black power boys scream; I don't care how much the Ku Klux Klan screams; We can't get along without each other."

The Moore Hall Auditorium audience will realize, on January 27, that it is watching history being made, as Mayor Evers pours out the intellectual and emotional depth of his inextinguishable spirit.

A. B. Lewis Speaks In Fayetteville

FAYETTEVILLE - "Black separatists have more importance in newspaper headlines than they do in the black community," a white officer of the National Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) says.

Lewis said that black separatist organizations "are nowhere as effective as we (the NAACP) are." He said the current black separatist movement is not the first of its kind, but "is one of the weakest."

Most black separatists, he said, "are college students with no great base of support in the ghettos."

In observing that the NAACP is the strongest of the civil rights organizations, Lewis said "the defeat of Judge Clement Haynsworth as a member" (See FLAYS BLACKS, P. 2)

Marion 'Ricky' Raiford Is Held Under $5,000 Bond

Although the condition of Layran Bullock, 36, Route 1, Holly Springs, was listed by an official at Wake Memorial Hospital as "satisfactory" early Wednesday of this week, Marion "Ricky" Raiford, 24, 721 E. Davie Street, (a house in the backyard), is still being held in the Wake County Jail under a bond of $5,000 on charges of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill.

The managing editor of The CAROLINIAN was on the scene shortly after the shooting and was given varying reports of what happened. One informant said that Bullock was shot in the back and that the bullet from the .32 calibre pistol, allegedly used by Raiford, went through his body. However, this could not be certified, after all attempts to locate the medical examiner at the hospital proved futile.

According to reports, the shooting took place around 9:30 a.m. Saturday. The house is believed owned by Bruce Evans, who lives at 721. It is also reported that the building in the rear is a rooming house. Last Saturday night, officials at the hospital reported Bullock was in good condition. (See MAN SHOT, P. 2)
